Referendum on library set Saturday

Buffalo Grove residents in a referendum Saturday will determine whether the Lake County portion of the village will be annexed to the Indian Trails Public Library District.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at three locations. Lake County residents are to vote at the Willow Grove School, 777 Checker Dr.

Residents in the Cook County section living east of Buffalo Grove Road are to vote at the Indian Trails Library, 850 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling. Those living west of Buffalo Grove Road are to vote at Louisa May Alcott School, 530 Bernard Dr., Buffalo Grove.

Lake County Buffalo Grove is not part of any library district. It became an issue during the past few years between the Indian Trails and the Vernon Area library districts on who will provide the services.

The Indian Trails district, formerly known as the Wheeling Public Library

District, already serves most of the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

LIBRARY OFFICIALS, anticipating the referendum will be successful, have secured a state grant of more than $19,500 to provide service to Lake County Buffalo Grove residents.

Kenneth G. Swanson, head librarian, said the district will operate a small van as a traveling library in the area. Additional staffing also has been hired, he added.

The referendum will be the second attempt to bring Lake County Buffalo Grove into the Indian Trails district. A referendum was held three years ago and was unsuccessful.

Favorable results of a straw poll conducted earlier this year led to a decision to attempt another referendum. In the poll, a majority of residents in the area indicated that they would like to be included in the Indian Trails district.

Planning approval seen for area hospital branch

Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital's Wheeling-Buffalo Grove branch will get planning approval needed for important Blue Cross-Blue Shield funds by the end of the month, a hospital official predicted Thursday.

"At the moment it looks like clear sailing," said Patrick DeMoon, executive director of the hospital. "Of course there always can be obstacles that stand in the way."

Robert Devitt, of Comprehensive Health Planning, the agency reviewing the hospital plans, was not as optimistic as DeMoon. He said a decision, which will not necessarily be favorable, could be reached by November but may not come for several months.

About two weeks ago, Norman Davis, a Franklin Boulevard consultant, asked approval by the agency, a prerequisite to receiving a Blue Cross-Blue Shield contract, could take six months.

HE SAID THE hospital could not wait that long, adding that even if it did there still is a good possibility the agency would not accept the plans.

DeMoon said, however, he is optimistic that Comprehensive Health Planning will act favorably on plans for the branch hospital. He said if the agency does not, the hospital will proceed anyway.

Approval by Comprehensive Health Planning is uncertain because of a recent report which indicated there is no need for additional hospitals in Cook County.

DeVitt said plans for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove facility will not be approved unless Franklin Boulevard can prove that a need for the hospital exists.

DeMOON DISAGREED, saying, "The state already has said there is a definite need for a hospital in the area and if another agency says there isn't, it's up to them to prove it." "And I think they would have a difficult time proving it."

DeVitt said, however, that until Oct. 1 the state only considered the technical aspects of the plans and did not consider need. The plans were approved by the state in September before a so-called certificate of need law took effect.

"There is no legal prohibition against them (Franklin Boulevard) building without our approval, but there would be a problem with financing," DeVitt said.

A state law allows the hospital to finance part of the construction with general obligation bonds purchased through the county or municipality in order to obtain lower interest rates. Unless the hospital can show financing agencies it has a Blue Cross contract, however, the agencies likely are to be reluctant to commit financial support.

In addition, without a Blue Cross contract, the hospital would not be fully reimbursed for costs incurred by patients with that type of insurance.

A SPOKESMAN FOR Blue Cross said recently that more than 30 per cent of the persons in the United States are in-

Parks plan Halloween party for children

The Wheeling Park District will sponsor a Halloween Party for local children Oct. 26 at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

The party, which is for eighth graders and below, including preschoolers, will feature a haunted house, "a room of eerie feeling" and live entertainment by the Dimwits band. The party will be from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

There will be a costume judging, with prizes for youngsters with the best costumes. There also will be candy and refreshments. Admission is free.

Police hunting dog that bit boy, 5

Buffalo Grove police still are hunting for a light-colored, medium-size dog that bit a 5-year-old boy Monday near 541 Springside Ln.

Police said the boy, Jeffrey Praefke, was playing outside between 4:30 and 5:15 p.m. when he was bit. The dog then ran toward Checker Road.

The boy is scheduled to begin a series of painful rabies shots, as Thursday was the longest doctors could wait before starting the shots. Persons with any information on the dog may still call police at 537-4260. The possibility exists that the boy could be spared the remainder of the shots.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed. The four city members then defeated the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

Soggy time capsule opened 'too late'

Des Plaines officials found out firsthand Thursday that trying to save time in a bottle can be an elusive pursuit. City officials unearthed a 1960 time capsule buried underneath the flagpole near the city hall, only to discover that nature beat them to it. Water seeped into the capsule, which contained memorabilia from the city's 125th anniversary celebration 14 years ago, leaving behind an unappealing aromatic mess of soggy papers. An embarrassed Mayor Herbert H. Behrel said there are no other time capsules buried in the city.

'Bike-a-thon' to raise funds

Cyclists are being asked to pedal in high gear Sunday to raise funds for the Northwest Opportunity Center and for Shelter Inc. A "bike-a-thon" fundraiser will get under way at 9 a.m. at Gate 1 of Arlington Park Race Track. Cyclists will lap a three-mile track, getting paid by sponsors for each mile pedaled. A 10-speed bicycle will be the prize for the cyclist who collects the most.

Township to buy hall site

Wheeling Township electors voted Thursday night at a special meeting to purchase the site for a town hall. Purchase of the 40,000-square-foot property at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, for $92,400 was approved by a vote of 23 to 1. Purchase is contingent on rezoning by Arlington Heights and the zoning change so far has received a cool reception from village officials.

Plans to build a 10-story office building over the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks in downtown Mount Prospect have been scrapped. An official of Draper and Kramer Inc., Chicago, said "the costs involved would make the rentability almost impossible." He left open the possibility that Draper and Kramer may build an office building elsewhere in Mount Prospect.

Kiwanis Club gets ally

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook. Directors of the Twinbrook chapter, which serves Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg, have drafted a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's defiance of the Kiwanis International rule prohibiting women members. Other local chapters have taken a ho-hum stand on the issue. The Elk Grove chapter will meet tonight with a national Kiwanis official, then will meet again Saturday, a day before the Kiwanis International deadline for revoking the membership of Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark. The Elk Grove chapter may lose its international charter if it refuses to terminate Miss Clark's membership.

Ford flatly denies any Nixon pardon 'deals'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a historic appearance on a congressional committee witness stand, President Ford Thursday flatly denied that he had made any "deal" to pardon Richard M. Nixon in return for his resignation.

In his nationally-televized testimony, which he said he hoped would not become a precedent for violating the confidentiality of the Oval Office, Ford repeated his belief that acceptance of the pardon had amounted to an admission of guilt on Nixon's part.

He also repeated his belief that for Nixon to have been the first President in history to resign in "shame and disgrace," rather than face virtually certain impeachment removal from office, was punishment enough for any man.

Ford had volunteered to do what no other chief executive has done before — give formal testimony and submit to the questioning of a congressional panel.

He said that a few days before Nixon resigned, he and former White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig had discussed a pardon as one of a number of possibilities.

But he said there had been no promises. And under questioning by Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., he declared:

"I want to assure you and members of this subcommittee, members of the Congress, and the American people, that there was no deal, period. Under no circumstance."

And at another point, he declared: "I assure you that there was not at any time any agreement whatsoever concerning a pardon to Mr. Nixon if he were to resign and I were to become President."

Subcommittee Democrats generally agreed afterwards that other witnesses should be called for questioning on the circumstances of the pardon. Republicans seemed more satisfied with Ford's testimony.

But subcommittee Chairman William D. Hungate, D-Mo., said he expects to call Special Watergate Prosecutor Leon Jaworski when Congress returns from its election recess next month.

Ford said he received no reports of deteriorating physical or mental health of the former President before the pardon.

He flatly denied reports that Nixon's millionaire friend, W. Clement Stone of Chicago, who called on Ford in the White House a day after seeing Nixon in San Clemente, Calif., had brought dire reports of health problems, and he scoffed at rumors that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had warned him Nixon might commit suicide if he had to stand trial.

But he said he believed the fact that Nixon had been the first President in history to resign in "shame and disgrace" rather than face certain impeachment and the heavy probability of conviction and removal from office was punishment enough for any man.

At any rate, he insisted, he had not granted the pardon for Nixon's benefit, but for the country's.

He said the fact that three questions were asked about Nixon during his first press conference in late August convinced him that if the process were allowed to run its course through indictment, trial and possible sentencing before a pardon, it would occupy the attention of the country for at least a year or more.

Repeatedly, Ford stressed the disgrace Nixon had brought upon himself by accepting a pardon.

In response to a question from Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., if he felt Nixon's acceptance of the pardon was "tantamount to an admission of guilt," Ford said.

"I do, sir. The acceptance of a pardon according to legal authorities does indicate by the acceptance of the person who accepts it does in effect admit guilt."

Inmates from Cuba welcomed by law

MIAMI (UPI) — Four Americans, released from Cuban prisons by Premier Fidel Castro as a goodwill gesture to two U. S. senators, arrived in Miami Thursday. The FBI promptly arrested two of them and the other two were summoned before a grand jury.

The arrests provoked an emotional shoving match at Miami International Airport between FBI agents and the parents of one of the arrested men.

Agents boarded the commercial jet as soon as it arrived from Barbados and handcuffed two men identified as Philip Burris and Richard Peter Johnson, both from California. The FBI said they had been charged with stealing an airplane and making an unauthorized flight to Cuba, where they were arrested and jailed by Cuban authorities on Nov. 14, 1970.

The other two who were released were identified as David Bruce Nirenberg of Upper Sagon, Pa., and Susan Lane Brown of South Royalton, Vt. Shortly after their arrival they were summoned to appear Nov. 11 in West Palm Beach before a federal grand jury investigating "illicit drug activity," federal agents said.

The shoving match occurred between agents and the parents of Johnson who sought to embrace their son as he was being led to a waiting car.

Furlough for draft resisters extended

The Bureau of Prisons announced that 83 draft resisters due to re-enter prison have been granted a second 30-day furlough to take advantage of President Ford's amnesty program. The bureau said so far the Clemency Board has not handled a single appeal for clemency. The Justice Department said only 1 per cent of eligible draft evaders have taken advantage of the amnesty offer.

Turkey military aid bill to White House

Ending a major confrontation with the White House, Congress passed and sent to President Ford yesterday a measure to continue U.S. military aid to Turkey until Dec. 10, so long as no new U.S. "implements of war" are sent to Cyprus. Ford was reported to consider the provision to be an interference in Turkey's internal affairs, but was willing to sign it.

Ask President veto lottery fee bill

President Ford was asked yesterday to veto legislation a Connecticut congressman, Rep. McKinney said small distributors of lottery tickets, making up the "very backbone of most state lottery operations," could ill afford the fee. "It won't be long until they get out," he said.

The government charged Wigoda was given the money to help rezone the Edgewater Golf Course.

Sirica wants data on Nixon health

From Herald news services

With the Watergate cover-up trial in its 13th day Thursday, much attention was centered on the man who wasn't there — Richard M. Nixon — and whether he could be there.

While Nixon's name came up repeatedly during the testimony and in tapes played during the trial, U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica — in a hearing called to discuss whether he should appear — made it clear he wanted the president to testify in person.

"It would be helpful," said Sirica, "to the defendants and the government if he progresses to the point where it would not injure his health for him to appear here in open court."

Nevertheless, Sirica postponed a decision of whether to compel a Nixon appearance and gave his lawyers three weeks to submit a report on Nixon's medical condition. On the basis of that, Sirica will decide whether to send a team of doctors to California to examine Nixon on the court's behalf.

Nixon lawyer Herbert J. Miller Jr. did report that Nixon is recovering well from his phlebitis condition and "the prognosis is very good" that within three weeks to a month he could no longer claim ill health as a bar to testifying.

But Miller and the Nixon legal team filed suit anyway Thursday to prevent Nixon from being called to testify and to prevent the White House from releasing any of his presidential tapes of papers not already under subpoena.

In the cover-up trial, former White House counsel John W. Dean III continued his testimony on events surrounding the break-in at Democratic national headquarters.

Most attention was given to the first public playing of a White House tape in which Nixon said Gerald Ford — then House Republican leader — should be the one to try to head off a House investigation of the 1972 break-in.

"Jerry's really got to lead on this. He's got to really lead," Nixon said in a Sept. 15, 1972, conversation with Dean and chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, one of the five coverup defendants.

Little new of substance was learned from the tape, as the House Judiciary Committee — during its impeachment inquiry — and the Nixon White House previously had released transcripts of the conversation. It also was not clear if Ford actually was approached about playing a role, or what action — if any — he might have taken.

Happy Rockefeller's breast removed -- doctors say cancer hasn't spread

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nelson Rockefeller's wife, Happy, underwent an operation for the removal of a cancerous left breast Thursday and surgeons reported her chances for survival were "excellent."

The four-and-a-half-hour operation, termed a "modified radical mastectomy," was performed at Sloan-Kettering Institute.

Vice president-designate Rockefeller later was at his wife's bedside as the attending surgeon, Dr. Jerome A. Urban, told a news conference that Mrs. Rockefeller's "chances are excellent for a full recovery — over 90 per cent in 10 years."

"The cancer had not spread to the lymph nodes," Urban said. "I feel I got all of it, I really do."

Rockefeller emerged from the hospital at 4:25 p.m. and shook hands and exchanged greetings with a crowd of well-wishers and reporters.

Asked about his wife's condition, Rockefeller said, "She's fine. She's very sleepy, naturally. She's very grateful to the doctors and the nurses. We're all very grateful."

Urban, who described the 48-year-old Mrs. Rockefeller as "a sturdy, wonderful woman," said there appeared to be no complications and listed her condition as "excellent."

Urban said Mrs. Rockefeller discovered suspicious lumps in her breast by self examination two weeks ago and X-rays were taken last Friday by her gynecologist, Dr. Arthur V. Greeley. She entered the hospital Wednesday, and her surgery came less than a week after President Ford's wife, Betty, left a hospital following a similar operation for removal of the right breast.

The First Lady issued a statement at the White House Thursday which said she was "deeply distressed" when she received the news of Mrs. Rockefeller's operation.

GNP slump longest in 14 years -- it's 'side waffling'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Gross National Product fell into its longest slump in 14 years through September, according to figures released Thursday. But Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent said the economy was only "sideways waffling" and not in a recession. The value of the nation's output of goods and services declined 2.9 per cent in real terms for the third quarter because of inflation, which surged up 11.5 per cent, the Commerce Department said.

The GNP dropped 7 per cent in the first quarter and 1.6 per cent in the second quarter, resulting in the longest economic slump since four quarters of decline in 1960-61.

The traditional definition of a recession has been two quarters of decline in the real GNP. But Dent told a news briefing that the GNP decline was not broad enough to qualify for a recession.

"What we have is sideways waffling," said Dent, who had called the second quarter slide "an energy spasm."

In total dollar value, the GNP from the second quarter to the third increased $27.8 billion to $1,412 trillion. But inflation at an annual rate of 11.5 per cent in July-September quarter sent the real GNP into decline by 2.9 per cent.

Inflation for GNP purposes was estimated at 9.3 per cent in the second quarter.

The decline was centered in housing, business inventories and exports. Non-farm housing plunged 30.5 per cent, and exports fell 13.9 per cent. Business inventories, for which there was no percentage calculated, dropped $3 billion.

Dent said the declining value of inventories was a healthy sign. "Businesses no longer have to build inventories for fear of intervention" in the form of government price controls, Dent said.

He said dwindling inventories could indicate price relief for consumers in the months ahead. The secretary projected growth in real GNP "early next year," if Congress fully implements President Ford's tax surcharge and consumers cut spending.

Burton, princess to marry -- when she gets a divorce

• Expressing regret that he had been forced into a premature announcement — she's already married, you know — actor Richard Burton confirmed Thursday that he's hoping to marry Princess Elizabeth of Yugoslavia "as soon as possible." The romance came to light over the weekend in Paris when he met her parents, Prince and Princess Paul of Yugoslavia, members of the Karageorgievitch dynasty which has blood links to the British royal family. Princess Elizabeth is first cousin of Princess Alexandra of Kent and second cousin to Prince Charles, heir to the throne. Her husband — merchant banker Neil Balfour — was a defeated Conservative Party candidate for Parliament last week. Burton, recently divorced from Elizabeth Taylor, said he hoped the premature news wouldn't "have repercussions on those we both love."

DICK AND (THE NEW) LIZ

• Feeling fine but a "little shaky," Mrs. Karen Robrer checked out of Baltimore's University Hospital Thursday and headed home with husband Charles to their three-bedroom bungalow in suburban Catonsville. There they'll decide where they'll put their new babies — the nation's latest quintuplets — when they come home in a few weeks.

• Hope he had a license: Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, an avid hunter, delayed his departure from Finland at the last minute when his ambassador mentioned it was the first day of elk season. Podgorny went into the field with Finnish President Urho Kekkonen.

• Humorist Victor Borge was released from the Greenwich, Conn., hospital Thursday after three weeks of treatment for a painful nerve compression caused by a protruded disc. He'll resume a concert schedule next week.

• You'd think it was the World Series the way fans lined up and waited through the early dark hours of Thursday outside Chicago's Orchestra Hall. They quickly bought out all the seats — up to $25 apiece — for an Oct. 27 performance by world-renowned pianist Vladimir Horowitz. That's about as close as any of them will ever get to a World Series in Chicago.

• All Anthony Quinn wants to do is shoot a film about the life of the prophet Mohammed in Libya, but he apparently has stepped on some toes pretty quickly. The Grand Mufti of Libya — Sheikh Taha el Zawy — has denounced plans for the film, using the eve of the Muslim holiday Eid el Fitr to proclaim: "Islam is in no need of an American who is an infidel to the Teachings of Mohammed and Islam to make a film about it."

Nixon masks hot sellers

The first person to come to your door the evening of Oct. 31 may look like Richard Nixon.

Of course, that day is Halloween and the face of Nixon will only be a facade covering some youngster trying to build up a year's supply of candy and gum.

The Nixon mask is one of the more popular ones in the stores this year, though not as popular as the perennial monster masks.

MRS. FRIEDA FENSTER, owner of a Chicago novelty shop, said she already has sold out her supply of Nixon masks, though the big business doesn't start until two weeks before Halloween.

"I sold out all the Nixon masks I had last week and all the supply houses seem to be out of them, too," Mrs. Fenster said. "I guess it's the Watergate thing, or the resignation, or both that made the difference this year. We only sold a few last year."

Jim Campbell, owner of a costume shop, said the more popular masks this year include old men and women, Nixon and gorilla costumes. In the early '60s, trick or treaters liked costumes of the Kennedys, Nikita Khrushchev and Charles DeGaulle, he said.

"From the look of things, people are going in for monsters," Campbell said.

"AND ONE OFF the strange things is the volume of sales for prisoner costumes. Now whether that is related to Watergate, I don't know."

Campbell said he had expected business to drop off this year because of economic problems, but surprisingly "business is better this year than last."

"People are going in for a better grade of kid's costumes and are spending more money for it. Instead of staying home, people are going out and whooping it up even more," he said.

Municipal panel split on hiring of staff member

The Northwest Municipal Conference approved — but didn't approve — a resolution to hire a full-time executive secretary to coordinate conference activities.

The proposition was approved by a 5-to-4 vote Wednesday night, but the conference bylaws require a unanimous decision before any action can be taken.

The 15 Northwest suburban municipalities that make up the conference have debated the need for a full-time staff member for more than a year, but the issue is the $1,500 each community has been asked to contribute for the cost.

A balance of $12,000 in a transportation study fund could be used for the staff member's salary and expenses, if the community donations were added. Several members of the conference have said there is no need for their organization to continue if some kind of staffing is not obtained.

JACK PAHL, vice president of the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, said concentrated efforts in such regional issues as water treatment and water supply could occupy the time of a staff member and justify the expense.

Pahl said local communities are being given the opportunity and funding to establish their own water supply plans, but failure to comply will result in the federal government dictating what it will do.

Solid waste disposal has been another issue the communities have said they would like to solve collectively.

The five communities that supported the vote for a staff member will meet soon, said conference chairman Virginia Hayter, president of Hoffman Estates. Support of the other communities will have to be gained before action can be taken.

LONG GROVE FIREMEN battled a garage fire for more than an hour late Thursday afternoon. The garage was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived on the scene. The garage was located behind a house on U.S. Rte. 12 just south of new Hicks Road. Firemen have not determined the cause and have no damage estimate. No one was injured.

Township votes to buy 2 lots as town hall site

by JOE SWICKARD

Wheeling Township electors voted Thursday night at a special meeting to purchase two lots on North Arlington Heights Road as the site of a new town hall.

The purchase of the 40,000-square-foot property at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., for $92,400 was approved by a vote of 25 to 1. The electors are township voters attending the public meeting.

The purchase, is contingent, however, upon a rezoning of the land by the village of Arlington Heights from residential to office use. The land also will be tested to determine whether it would support the planned two-story building before the sale is closed.

Money for the project would come from the sale of the present town hall, operating funds and from federal revenue-sharing money. Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor, said township officials could not yet estimate the cost of the project.

MRS. KOLERUS said a new headquarters is needed because the present town hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., is overcrowded and has been expanded as much as it can be. The present one-story town hall has about 6,000 square feet while the proposed building would have about 23,000 square feet.

More room is needed, Mrs. Kolerus said, because of the rapidly growing township population and the expanded role the township government is playing in social services.

Since 1962, she said, the population has leaped from 58,900 to 133,700 while the monthly general assistance roles have grown from three cases to 69 cases.

The new building would provide meeting space for social agencies, such as mental health, aged and youth committees and the Salvation Army counseling service. Mrs. Kolerus said the existing building cannot adequately house all the programs and so office space must be rented elsewhere.

She said the reduced overhead would result in more money going directly into the agencies rather than to pay rent. "You know how it is with rent. You have nothing to show for it," she said.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS village officials gave the location of the town hall a cool reception earlier this week when it was presented to plan and subdivision committee of the plan commission.

Members of the committee did not dispute the need for a new town hall but said locating it at the proposed site would be "contrary" to the village board-adopted Arlington Heights Road Study which calls for the area to remain residential. Officials also said the road is already too heavily traveled and a new "traffic generator" would create new hazards.

Dwight Walton, of Brian Properties and acting without fee for the township in the acquisition of the site, said the location is near the population center of the township and the road provides easy identification and access to the facility. He told the village committee:

"It would be nice if it (the headquarters) could be put off in an industrial park someplace, but that is contrary to the purpose of government."

Parks to again urge MSD improve basin

The Wheeling Park District Thursday night decided to make another appeal to the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) in an attempt to correct problems at Heritage Park West retention basin.

The park board at least temporarily, put off filing of a lawsuit against the village and MSD over problems connected with the basin.

About two weeks ago, the park board rejected a two-phase basin improvement program proposed by the sanitary district. At that time the park board revived talk of a possible lawsuit against the village and the MSD.

Commissioner Lorraine Lark suggested another appeal to the MSD, saying filing a lawsuit would be costly to the taxpayers. Roger Bjorvik, attorney for the park district, estimated a lawsuit would cost the park district $3,000 to $5,000.

"If it's going to cost us $5,000, what's it going to cost them (village and MSD)?" Mrs. Lark said. "If a lawsuit is filed the only ones who will suffer are the taxpayers in the three taxing districts."

Park Board Pres. Robert Ross said, however, "Sometimes that is the only way to get things done."

The park board, in adopting Mrs. Lark's proposal, directed Bjorvik to contact MSD officials and arrange another meeting. Several weeks ago, Bjorvik said the park district had sufficient grounds to sue the MSD and village.

The easement agreement states the village "will construct, operate, maintain and enlarge the basin." In addition it assures "safe and sanitary conditions that will not interfere with the park district's use of the property for recreation."

Land for the basin was donated by the park district in 1969 with the understanding that the retention lake would be suitable for boating and fishing. The basin has never been used for recreation because of its small size and lack of depth, and it has been called a "mud hole and eyesore."

Highland Park man charged in accident

A Highland Park man was charged by Des Plaines police with failure to yield the right-of-way from a private drive Wednesday when the car he was driving struck an auto near Wolf Road and Jarvis Street.

Joseph M. Walters, 57, of 1207 Lynn Ter., was making a left turn northbound onto Wolf Road from a driveway at 2140 Wolf Rd. when he struck a vehicle headed southbound on Wolf Road, police said.

The driver of the second car, Lawrence D. Cambora, 24, of 3002 N. Ruth Ave., Franklin Park, was taken to Holy Family Hospital for treatment of bruises and a possible broken leg.

Planning OK seen for hospital branch

sured by the company. Any hospital without Blue Cross thus faces a severe financial hardship.

The Blue Cross spokesman said it has been the firm's policy since 1973 to require review of all hospital facilities by a local planning agency before entering into a contract.

DeMoon said hospital officials plan to meet with Blue Cross in early November to discuss signing a contract.

He said hospital backers want to break ground by the end of the year because the contractor has said construction costs next year are expected to rise 1 1/2 to 2 per cent.

The $11.3 million, 220-bed facility has been proposed for a tract on the east side of Schoenbeck Road, just south of Wheeling's corporate limits. Hospital officials expect to annex to Wheeling.

Time capsule succumbs—to time

by LUISA GINETTI

Des Plaines officials found out firsthand Thursday that trying to save time in a bottle can be an elusive pursuit.

The revelation came after officials unearthed a 1960 time capsule buried underneath the flagpole in front of the old fire station next to the city hall, at Miner and Graceland streets.

The capsule contained memorabilia from the city's 125th anniversary celebration, 14 years ago, which officials, including Mayor Herbert Behrle, planned to read and display at the unearthing ceremonies.

WHEN THE capsule was retrieved, however, officials discovered that nature had gotten to the contents first and the net result was an unappealing aromatic mess of wet papers.

The capsule apparently had not been sufficiently weather-proofed and the contents of the capsule became damaged by water. Behrle said public works director Joseph J. Schwab tried to dry out the contents but the material was too badly damaged to salvage.

The material included pictures of the city's 125th anniversary celebration, a letter from the mayor and tapes of city council meetings. Schwab said the only undamaged articles were some balloons, a city flag and badges that had been distributed to participants at the anniversary activities.

The capsule was unearthed in conjunction with the removal of the flagpole. The pole will be relocated in front of the old municipal building while the old fire station will be torn down because it lies on the site of the new city hall complex.

Elk Grove club faces Sunday deadline

Twinbrook Kiwanis supports woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lackadaisical attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to either reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

Sports complex bidding extended

The Prospect Heights Park District has extended by a week its deadline for bids on its community center/sports complex project.

Bids will now be received through Oct. 28. The district is seeking bids in the various trades needed for construction rather than for a single general contractor.

Also postponed a week will be the meeting to review the bids and receive architects' recommendations. The meeting will be Nov. 5 and some contracts may be awarded at that time.

Meetings scheduled for Oct. 21 and 24 have been canceled.

Both of the newly scheduled meetings will begin at 8 p.m. in the park district office, 13 Prospect Cl., Prospect Heights. Further details on the bids is available at the park office, 394-2948.

DIRECTORS OF the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June International convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a ho-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUMWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shumway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Palatine Kiwanis Pres. Thomas Lyons said his club "will not take a stand on the issue." He noted that club members have an opportunity to change bylaws at their national convention, "therefore, I don't think that they should be challenged."

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Box-leitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support which he described as "appreciated." Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the international became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

Board defeats Pikarsky nomination as RTA head

bringing in new applications from other qualified transportation experts who have stayed away from the issue until now.

BY FORCING the vote, the suburban members sent a public message to Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley that they will not accept his choice for chairman. The suburban members did not criticize Pikarsky's ability, but said they had a commitment to protect suburban interests.

After the meeting, Nicholas Bosen of Chicago said, "I think the suburban members are being irresponsible." He added, "We'll do anything to see that their fears are allayed."

Pastora Cafferty of Chicago indicated she supports Pikarsky only because she likes his qualifications. She said she has not been told how to vote by Daley, but suburban legislators and Chicago newspapers have tried to influence her.

"I don't believe in playing games, which is what we've done this morning," Mrs. Cafferty told the board. She said she was disgusted with the board's actions and felt the members may have illegally discriminated against Pikarsky on political grounds.

THE BOARD apparently is back at the starting line, although some of the 20 candidates who were interviewed are hopeful their names may be reconsidered. If further action is taken to provide emergency transportation aid, the board will at least cease to be completely bogged down by lack of a permanent leader.

The board has been sitting on nearly $30 million in state funds and investment earnings, but attorney James Munson warned the board to be cautious in awarding emergency grants. He suggested they take every step possible to evaluate grant applications. Included in board action was approval of expenditures for the members' $200 a day salaries, payment of bills and payment of expenses for candidates who interviewed with the board. Board members earn $200 for each day in service to the RTA, to a maximum of $25,000.

The chairman issue came to a boil

Thursday because some board members were growing impatient with inactivity. Mrs. Cafferty also criticized leaks to newspapers, which had destroyed the confidential nature of the interview procedure, she said.

No. 1 problem in schools? It's alcohol: study

Alcohol is becoming the major drug problem in public schools, Cook County Schools Supt. Richard J. Martwick said Thursday.

"We know the problem exists," Martwick told a group of educators attending a conference on alcoholism in schools.

Availability of alcohol and lower drinking ages are partially responsible for the increase of heavy alcohol use among students, Martwick said.

Dr. Robert Marozes, a psychiatrist with the Alcoholic Treatment Center, told the educators there was no single cause of alcoholism, but a variety of physiological, psychological and sociological factors.

Peer pressure among youths exerted a strong influence on drinking habits, Marozes said.

Robert J. Kearney, a psychologist at Illinois Division of the Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center, said attitudes that alcoholism is a "moral weakness" or a "dirty disease" must be abandoned because those views keep persons with drinking problems from seeking help.

He said the recovery rate for alcoholics is between 50 to 70 per cent if drinking problems are discovered early.

Landlords and guide dogs

Can a person refuse to rent an apartment to someone who needs a guide dog because of blindness?

No, not for this reason alone. The Equal Opportunities for the Handicapped Act of Illinois specifies that a blind person cannot be refused housing accommodations because he has a guide dog.

Drug abuse among topics

Regional PTA conference opened to public

The PTA-PTSA Fall Conference, which will deal with vandalism, drug abuse and discipline in the schools, has been opened to the public.

Although the evening conference is designed for PTA leaders and principals, the public has been invited because of the high interest generated by the topics. More than 500 people are expected to attend.

The conference will be held Oct. 28 at 5:30 p.m. at Lancer's Steak House, Schaumburg. Reservations may be made by sending $6.25 and a stamped self-addressed envelope to Mrs. Joanne Youman, 445 Dorset, Palatine, 60067. Reservations should be in by Monday; cancellations should be made by Oct. 24.

Cocktails and dinner will be followed by a panel discussion exploring the angles of the theme "Every Child Needs You."

THE PANEL WILL BE moderated by Frank Whiteley, superintendent of Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15.

Panel members include Steven Henricks, a senior at Fremd High School; Micheal Ostrowski, a psychologist; Bernard Karlin, coordinator for special education, Chicago Public Schools; the Rev. John Nordgaard, director for aid to alcoholics, Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge; and Gayle Leland and Leslie Solomon, team teachers, Willow Bend School, Rolling Meadows.

Ruth Grobe, president of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers will introduce the conference theme.

Exhibits have been prepared by each of the five area councils, participating in the conference including Northwest Suburban, Dun-Lake, Arlington, Randhurst and Schaumburg.

School Districts involved in the conference include Districts 15, 21, 23, 25, 26, 54, 57 and 58.

Jody Albrecht of Rolling Meadows is general arrangements chairman for the conference.

Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15

"Go Ask Alice," a movie about drug abuse among teenagers, will be shown to students and parents Tuesday night in a drug education meeting sponsored by the Palatine-Rolling Meadows Dist. 15 PTAs and the Northwest Suburban Council of PTAs.

Three moderators will speak briefly before the 1½ hour film is shown and will answer questions from the audience afterward. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the theater of Rolling Meadows High School, 2901 Central Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Moderators for the evening are David Russell, executive director of The Bridge youth services bureau in Palatine; Don Johnston, coordinator of youth programs and outreach at The Bridge; and Jack Nordgaard, director of aid to Alcoholics program for Lutheran Welfare services in the Uptown area of Chicago.

Parents who have questions about the film or the program should call Jody Albrecht, PTA council president, 397-4496 or Winifred Ziegler, Winston Park Junior High School PTA president, 350-6355.

Arlington Heights Dist. 25

The Cultural Arts Committee of Windsor School, Arlington Heights, will present the "Peeko Puppets" on Tuesday at the school, 1315 N. Milner St.

There will be two performances at 9 and 10 a.m. The play performed will be "The Amiable Giant," adapted from the book by Lewis Slabodkin.

River Trails Dist. 26

The Park View School PTA will sponsor a fun fair from 6 to 9 p.m. Halloween night in the school gym, 805 Burning Bush Ln. There will be supper, games and prizes. People in costume will receive a free ticket.

Fourth grade students at Indian Grove School recently presented a play called "The Eleven Dancing Princesses."

Cast members were Jamil Khoury, Michael Walsh, Shar Diachenko, Lori Hoffmann, Chris Soyka, Debbie Hamilton, Carmen Gonzales, Lisa Nakamura, Chery Berglund, Dawn Riley, Mindy Carlson, Tracie Vondraeck, Kathy Kochis, Debbie Janisch, Laura Link and Dean Moran.

The stage crew included Ross Lange, Rob Hoffman, Paul Gin, Paul Trallos, Mark Merker and Vincent Lewandowski. Lightman was Mark Loftus and announcer was Scott Quandt.

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54

The PTA at MacArthur School, 525 Chippendale St., Hoffman Estates, will meet Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room.

The speaker for the evening will be Archie Wilson, director of art for Schaumburg Township Dist. 54. An open house for Grades 1-3 will follow the speaker.

The Churchill School PTA will hold an open house Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the school, 1320 N. Jones Rd., Schaumburg.

Children will introduce teachers and show off their classrooms to the parents. The PTA ways and means committee will sell taffy apples.

An open house will be held Tuesday at Fox School, 1035 Parkview Dr., Hanover Park.

The evening will begin with refreshments at 7:30 p.m. in the multi-purpose room and a short business meeting including the introduction of new PTA officers will follow at 8 p.m.

Following the meeting parents will visit their child's rooms, see work on display and meet teachers. The PTA asks that no children be brought to the school that evening since there will be no facilities for babysitting.

Children at Fox School, 1035 Parkview Dr., Hanover Park will see the dance concert, "Rhythm Is In You," by Urban Gateways Thursday in school assemblies at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m.

The concert begins with a demonstration of Rhythm in nature and everyday activities and closes with a dance production.

Elk Grove Township Dist. 59

The Salt Creek Parents' organization will stage a Taffy Apple Day on Tuesday at the school, 65 Kennedy Blvd., Elk Grove Village.

Kindergarten through second grades will be on a prepaid basis. Apples will be sold after school for 20 cents each.

Open house for Parents at Clearmont School, 280 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village, will be Thursday, Oct. 24, at the school, starting at 7:30 p.m.

School principal Tony Mostardo will explain the reading, math and social studies programs. Parents are invited to meet and visit with their children's teachers and pick up their PTO handbook.

The Clearmont School PTO in Elk Grove Village will have its annual Taffy Apple Day on Tuesday, Oct. 29 at the school, 280 Clearmont Dr.

Apples can be purchased with or without nuts, individually or by the case. Those who wish to place an order in advance may do so by calling Sharon Kolarik at 593-7789, before Oct. 23.

The Robert Frost School PTA in Mount Prospect will stage a Fun Fair on Friday, Nov. 1 at the school, 1308 S. Cypress Dr.

The event, which will run from 5 to 9 p.m., will feature games, a white elephant sale, homemade pastries for sale and a snack bar.

Shoppers will be able to buy their groceries and benefit Brentwood School in Des Plaines at the same time on Wednesday, Nov. 6.

That day will be "Dominick's Day" for the school. The school will receive five per cent of shoppers purchases at any Dominick's food store, when a benefit card is signed and turned in at the store by the shopper.

Cards for the event, sponsored by the Brentwood PTB, are available now at the school, 260 W. Dulles Rd.

Des Plaines Dist. 62

The Forest School Parent-Teacher Council will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the School, Fifth and Forest avenues.

Speaker for the evening will be Dr. Paul Lederer, a developmental optometrist who works with children. Lederer is a visual consultant for the Achievement Center for Learning Disabilities; head of the child-care committee for the Illinois Optometric Assn.; Fellow of the College of Optometrists in Vision Development and member of the School Consultants Committee of the Illinois Optometric Assn.

Refreshments will be served following the program. Colors will be presented by Girl Scout Troop 720.

Herald opinion

Vote 'yes' on Dist. 211 referendum

The Herald endorses High School Dist. 211's $22 million bond referendum for school construction, auditoriums and swimming pools, even though it's unfortunate that voters tomorrow won't have the chance to vote on what amount to two separate issues.

Based on enrollment projections, the district needs a sixth high school to accommodate rapidly increasing enrollment, as well as more classrooms at Schaumburg High School to bring that building up to capacity.

Voters approved the district's sixth high school, to be built in Palatine, in a 1970 referendum, but the district needs an added $6.5 million to complete the building as planned. Schaumburg High School was built by the state, and building design changes forced a reduction in the number of classrooms. Passage of the referendum will allow the district to add those classrooms.

The referendum will also permit the construction of auditoriums, which will provide desirable space for both student and community groups. The need for swimming pools, however, is a matter of greater debate, and Northwest suburban residents have voted down bond referenda in past years because they believed swimming pools were an unnecessary luxury which should not be supported from the sale of bonds.

However, voters won't be able to split their votes on Saturday. The Dist. 211 board of education has designed this referendum so all the building projects must be voted on in a single package. It's an arrogant attempt to ram through too many improvements, but it's too late for responsible voters to do anything about it.

Voters should approve the overall package tomorrow, despite our reservations about the board's methods. If the referendum were defeated and resubmitted to the voters as two separate votes, thousands of dollars in inflation costs would be added in the meantime to construction costs.

It would be unfair to Dist. 211's educational program to reject the referendum for there's an enrollment-based need for the new high school and for the expansion of Schaumburg's facilities. In addition, approval of the referendum won't mean any significant hike in taxes.

A "yes" vote tomorrow will advance the overall cause of education in Dist. 211, and we firmly support that "yes" vote.

1974 and all our problems and thank we adults who thought enough of their future to solve or at least try to do something about the problems facing us now.

Mrs. V. M. Whited
Barrington

As a three-year member of the Schaumburg High School choir, I wish to voice a student opinion concerning tomorrow's Dist. 211 referendum. The vote not only will add classrooms to our school and others in the district, but will provide funds for an auditorium.

In our five years of existence the Schaumburg choir has built a fine reputation. Being without the proper performance facilities, however, has been a great hindrance. Our musicals, variety shows and numerous yearly concerts have been held in the gymnasium — creating a hardship on the P. E. department as well as our listeners who find it difficult to hear with the gymnasium's poor acoustics. In the process of setting up uncomfortable portable chairs for our activities, P. E. classes cannot be held and valuable performance practice hours are lost as well as costly custodial time.

As I am now a senior, I would not be able to perform in the new auditorium but I would be assured of seeing and hearing in an appropriate atmosphere a legacy of continuing good choral performances.

For those people who have stated after sellout performances of Hello Dolly!, Music Man and Guys and Dolls — "Thank what those kids could do with an auditorium" — tomorrow is the opportunity.

We at Schaumburg and other Dist. 211 schools need your continued support.

'Obscure' judicial vote demands careful choice

by AL MESSERSCHMIDT
Metropolitan Affairs Editor

As the glamor campaigns for the U.S. Senate, county assessor and sheriff move into a twilight of sleepless nights, continuous appearances and press releases, nothing becomes more obscure than the judicial candidates.

Some citizens can name their senator. A few may identify their Congressman. Names of county board members become a guessing game. But who can list a Circuit Court or Illinois Appellate Court judge?

Approximately 118 candidates will seek judicial posts in the general election on Nov. 5 and few people will know who to favor at the voting machine lever. Suburban voters will face a list of 71 candidates seeking election or judicial retention. Crying for votes is a list of candidates who face the questionable task of campaigning for judicial election. In many ways, the county campaign process is an indication that seats on the court bench can be purchased — if the exchange includes pencils, shopping bags, finger nail files, buttons, posters, pamphlets, party backing and a willingness to abandon a law practice to win the comfort of a court bench.

Many candidates are refusing to accept financial campaign contributions. The belief is that any money could create a conflict of interest if the candidate wins election.

But at least one judge reportedly is distributing election gimmicks to prospective jurors and spectators in his courtroom. Other attorneys who will lose in the judicial election face the prospect of appearing before a winning opponent in some future court.

The unanswerable problem for judicial candidates is how to campaign.

Without money from contributors, the hours of appearances before voters groups and political organizations become expensive. Time is a second problem for the practicing attorney, and ethics becomes an additional burden. Lawyers are prohibited from advertising services; should a judge advertise to the voters?

A sitting judge, usually a Democrat who was appointed to a vacancy by the party and now must run for election, cannot wage all-out war on a Republican opponent. The challenger is largely limited to talking about reform of the courts and legal endorsements and ratings.

Qualifications should be the criteria for electing judges. A look at this year's election is another strong argument for merit selection of judges — a process where judicial candidates run on non-partisan tickets.

When Con-Con remodeled judicial selection in Illinois, the support of Chicago Democrats was required for passage.

The deal was simple — lock in a 4 to 1 majority of Democrats on the Circuit Court, and the city would support the Con-Con retention plan.

Since judicial retention was added to the ballot, no judge in Cook County has failed to receive the 60 per cent vote required for retention.

Obvious qualifications are legal attainment, education, appearance in public and willingness to work. Political party loyalty should not be a factor.

But party politics appears again and again in the courts. The majority of Democrats seeking judicial election are sitting, appointed judges. But no Republican apparently has benefited from similar appointment since 1972.

The Circuit Court operates without a rotating judicial assignment system, so Democrat judges hear the important cases and Republicans are banished to the criminal courts building.

The system needs reform, but this is not a plea to vote straight Republican. Both tickets include qualified candidates who should be examined, not abandoned at the bottom of the long ballot Nov. 5.

Vote draws 'no,' 'yes' stands

On Saturday, Oct. 19, we who reside in High School Dist. 211 are being asked to vote on a building referendum in the amount of $22 million, which the board has pledged will not increase our taxes. How very fortunate we are, especially in this year of 1974 when most other school districts can barely afford to keep their school doors open in order to provide a basic education for its students.

After careful consideration it is felt that delay now would result in higher prices because of inflation. It seems to me that if we all have this attitude, inflation is sure to be with us for a long, long time. The future of our children who are in school now looks pretty bleak and even more difficult than it is now. The same kids who will enjoy these proposed projects may very well look back in years to come and say, "Why didn't our parents stamp out inflation when they had the chance." The slogan, "Whip Inflation Now," is a reality and we know very well that it's up to we the people, and neither government nor business will ever take the initiative. We can all tighten our belts at home to a certain extent, however being involved in this vast spending project would certainly be a very good start.

Let's look at the projects listed:

- New high school which we voted for in 1970. Yes, but this is 1974 and we are aware of many changes in four years. For example, the birth rate has declined steadily. We are constantly being advised that we may face severe food shortages, and it's very possible that the land used for this construction will be needed for planting and growing food to feed these youngsters who have been inconvenienced by crowded classrooms. And speaking of shortages, we are also being advised of energy conservation. The new high school and other projects listed are sure to consume much added energy. Isn't it possible to renovate Palatine High or has this been completely dropped? It's one of the few existing historical landmarks in Palatine and it just shouldn't be knocked down. This money should be used to preserve this lovely building. Incidentally, my children do not attend Palatine, in fact I've never been inside the school. Guess I'm just getting tired of new modern structures.

- Construction of a new warehouse for the district. How about an existing old barn or warehouse which could be renovated for this purpose? Why must it be brand new?

- Additions of swimming pools, ventilation, which I assume is air conditioning, auditoriums, etc., at Fremd, Schaumburg, Conant and Hoffman Estates. This all sounds wonderful and I'm sure very beneficial for the students, however under present conditions I don't think they will be too deprived. As for the kids who need swimming lessons, there are many existing pools in the district which could be shared without too much inconvenience.

Considering the priorities listed and needed by Dist. 211, I'd say our high schools are pretty well off and our children are very fortunate. Perhaps sharing our good fortune with a district not so well endowed would be the best move now.

I realize many young people who are attending these high schools or will attend, and these include my own, will disagree with me now, but perhaps not too far in the future they will think back to

Lauds Mount Prospect news

Since I have publicly criticized The Herald in the past when I thought they did not give proper coverage to certain civic matters, it is only proper that I also commend The Herald for its excellent coverage over a period of months on the subject of property acquisitions by the village of Mount Prospect, including office and library expansions.

Your coverage has been so complete and in depth that no person now living in Mount Prospect can claim lack of available information when these new facilities are in operation in a few years, along with the increased taxes that will accompany them.

Your coverage of this important local subject certainly justifies journalistic recognition and citizen support of your publication.

Speculation on schools chief grows

by WANDALYN RICE

As the Illinois Board of Education comes closer to its own deadline for naming a new state school superintendent, speculation about candidates for the job has been increasing.

Most of the speculation centers around the present superintendent, Michael Bakalis, and his chances of retaining his job when the state board and its chosen superintendent officially take over in January.

"I got two rumors a week," Jack Witkowski, chairman of the state board, said Thursday. "The Monday rumor is that Dr. Bakalis is no longer being considered for the job. The Friday rumor is that he has it all wrapped up."

Despite the constant barrage of rumors surrounding the search, Witkowski and other members of the state board emphatically deny that a decision has been made on Bakalis or anyone else at this time. Publicly, the board has said it has received more than 80 applications and will screen a list of applicants next week in closed session to determine the three to six who will be interviewed for the job. The board has said it hopes to name the superintendent by late November.

THE DENIALS, however, did not stop the "Friday rumor" from taking hold last week at the fall meeting of the Illinois Assn. of School Administrators. The IASA, reacting in part to word that Bakalis had the job "locked up," took a position against Bakalis and has asked for a meeting with members of the board to discuss the criteria for selection of the superintendent.

The move by the IASA was seen by officials in Bakalis's office and some state board members as a move by John Wargo, executive director of the IASA, to strengthen his position. Sources close to the search quickly put out the word that

Donald Thomas

Kenneth Gill

Roger Bardwell

Michael Bakalis

Wargo was a candidate for the job.

The job of hiring the new state school superintendent falls to the state board under provisions of the 1970 Illinois Constitution which eliminated the state superintendent as an elected office. The state board, which is appointed by the governor, will take over all duties of the state superintendent in January.

IN ADDITION to Bakalis, another leading candidate for the state superintendent is Ben Hubbard, executive director of the Illinois School Problems Commission. Hubbard, former head of the department of educational administration at Illinois State University, has been active with the Illinois General Assembly through the school problems commission for years.

"BEN WOULD BE perfect for the job," one well-placed school official recently said. "He could go in for two or three years and do the things that need to be done. He has good standing with the legislature and downstate."

OTHER PERSONS whose candidacies have become public include Kenneth Gill, superintendent of Wheeling-Elk Grove Elementary Dist. 21, and Roger Bardwell, former superintendent of Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 and now a professor at the National College of Education.

Gill's candidacy is not taken seriously by some observers, who believe that while the outspoken superintendent is an able administrator, his background is not wide enough to attract the state board.

Bardwell, who went from Dist. 59 to the Ithaca, N.Y., public schools and then to a textbook publishing firm, is highly regarded in some circles as an educational innovator. However, he also has detractors within the state among those who believe he paid too little attention to sound budgeting while at Dist. 59.

STILL OTHER names that figure in speculation are those of Donald Thomas, another former superintendent of Dist. 59 and now superintendent of the Salt Lake City public schools; and Hugh Livingston, superintendent of the high school district in San Mateo, Calif., and former superintendent in Springfield, Ill.

Thomas was unavailable for comment Thursday. However, those mentioning Thomas's name point out that he has moved from superintendent of Dist. 59 in 1969 through jobs in New York and California before taking over in Salt Lake City last year. Thomas is known to be ambitious and speculation centers on the fact that he would probably want to return to Illinois as state superintendent.

Livingston, who has been in San Mateo for six years, was circumspect when asked about his possible candidacy. "I don't know whether the state board is interested in me or not," Livingston said. "There were dozens of names submitted."

MEMBERS OF the state board and the consultants who are working with them in the search have taken the position that they will not confirm or deny rumors about candidates. In addition, Witkowski said, "As far as I know I don't think anyone on the board — with perhaps one exception — has made up their mind. We don't even discuss it among ourselves."

Witkowski and other board members say they have not been pressured by Gov. Daniel Walker about whether to hire Bakalis. "Knowing this board," Witkowski said, "I think if there was pressure from the governor the board would resign."

Regardless of these disclaimers, however, the rumors are likely to continue until the board makes its choice known in November. And, once the choice is known, it is doubtful that speculation will cease. If Bakalis is named, the move is likely to be labeled a "political deal" and if he is not named many educators will consider it a political rebuff.

by MONICA WILCH PERIN

A recent decision by the Illinois Dept. of Public Health to exclude Lutheran General Hospital's high-risk nursery from a new state-federal funding program has evoked a storm of protest from suburban mothers and legislators.

At a hastily arranged meeting Thursday, a dozen mothers of infants treated in the Lutheran General facility appealed to state representatives Eugene Chapman, D-Arlington Heights; Virginia MacDonald, R-Arlington Heights; and Donald Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, to seek a reversal of the decision which was announced last week.

The funds, 50 per cent state and 50 per cent federal, will be made available to parents of infants utilizing the perinatal facilities in the 10 designated hospitals statewide. Six of the hospitals are located in Chicago, three of them within walking distance of each other. (Cook County Hospital, University of Illinois Hospital, Rush-Presbyterian-St. Luke's, Chicago Lying-In, Foster-McGraw-Loyola, and Northwestern Memorial.)

Lutheran General and Evanston Hospital were both on the original list of recommended facilities, but neither was selected.

HOWEVER, James Wylie, vice president of Human Relations and Resources at Lutheran General, said the hospital has received no notification from the state one way or the other, and thus considers its application alive.

"We're waiting to hear and were hopeful," Wylie said. "We're operating on the assumption that we're recommended."

Wylie declined to speculate on what will happen to Lutheran General's high-risk nursery if the hospital is not designated in the program. But the mothers group fears the facility would be forced to close eventually.

"At Lutheran General you pay, at a state-funded hospital the state pays, so where do you go?" asked Mrs. Judith Ramsey of Hoffman Estates, organizer

Adlai, Elrod to field phone questions

U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III and Cook County Sheriff Richard Elrod will answer questions of telephone callers on radio station WGNM, 92.7 FM, in Arlington Heights Sunday.

Stevenson and Elrod will appear on one of a special series of the regular feature "Focus: Northwest," produced by the station in cooperation with Harper College. The broadcast will begin at 9 p.m. with Stevenson as guest. Elrod will join the broadcast later.

Listeners are invited to telephone their questions to 398-1212.

The show is moderated by a panel consisting of John Lyday, news director of WGNM; Bob Lahey, political editor for The Herald, and Henry Roepken, coordinator of journalism programs for Harper College.

Rep. Chapman to MC dinner

State Rep. Eugenia S. Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, will be master of ceremonies at a spaghetti dinner for U.S. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III Sunday at the Machinists Hall, 50 W. Oakton Ave., Des Plaines.

Tickets are $5 per adult, and $2.50 for children under 14, and are available from the Palatine Citizens for Stevenson office at 309 S. Rohlwing Rd., Palatine, 359-3272. The dinner is 7 to 9 p.m.

Schlickman hits amendment

State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, has declared his opposition to a proposed amendment to the state constitution that would nullify the amendatory veto power given the governor under the 1970 constitution.

Voters will be given a blue ballot in the Nov. 5 election to determine whether the amendatory veto power should be changed to limit it to technical changes in legislation presented to the governor for his signature.

The amendatory veto allows the governor to return legislation to the Illinois General Assembly "with specific recommendations for change" without vetoing the entire bill to avoid undesirable provisions of the bill.

Schlickman said the framers of the 1970 constitution "recognized that too often bills are passed by the legislature hastily or surreptitiously, challenging the governor to accept or reject them as originally passed by the legislature."

There is no Congressional Wrapup this week.

The amendatory veto enables the governor to correct bad provisions of a bill without killing good provisions, Schlickman said.

LaFleur backs amendment

Rep. Leo D. LaFleur, R-Bloomington, supports the restriction of the amendatory veto power, urging a "yes" vote in the Nov. 5 referendum.

"The purpose of the referendum is to restrict the amendatory veto powers so that a governor, while still having the power to amend bills, could not rewrite the legislation and subvert the intent of the legislature," LaFleur said.

The referendum would not affect the governor's power to delete or reduce line item expenditures in appropriations or spending authorization bills.

LaFleur said that the contention of Gov. Daniel Walker that elimination of the amendatory veto would return to the "old method" under which the governor could only sign or veto all bills is misleading.

Crane 'fighting inflation'

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, is one of six of the 435 members of the House of Representatives who received 100 per cent vote ratings for "fighting inflation" by the Connecticut State Taxpayers Assn.

Crane and U.S. Rep. Robert Michel, R-18th, were the only Illinois congressmen among 29 members of Congress who received ratings over 75 per cent.

The Connecticut organization rated members of Congress on 15 votes which it said involved "irresponsible spending." It pointed out that Crane received the third highest rating in Congress from the National Taxpayers Union.

Mothers fight for Lutheran General nursery of Thursday's meeting.

THE COST FACTOR was also emphasized by Carolyn Swanson of Glen Ellyn who said that when her twin sons were born prematurely, the total bill for their care at Lutheran General mounted to $35,000.

Harry Bostick, assistant administrator in the family health division of the Dept. of Health, said the 38-member advisory committee which recommended the 10 hospitals, based its selection on two reasons:

- The existence of an adequately staffed and equipped perinatal unit in the hospital.
- An affiliation with a university medical school.

The latter criterion eliminated Lutheran General, he said.

Rep. Macdonald said she considered this rationale — which she was given by Dr. Joyce Lashof, director of the health department — as "unsatisfactory."

"This wasn't what I expected when I voted for (the funds)," she said, adding that "we must find out who was on the (advisory) committee." She said she will object to the decision "on behalf of my district. I lobbied for this bill and voted for it to save babies' lives, and I just don't think this is a logical way to handle it."

REP. CHAPMAN speculated that the selection of hospitals had been a matter of "medical politics — who the doctors on the committee are." (The list contains no names from the Northwest suburbs; Chicago was represented by 10 members, and Rockford — also the site of chosen facility — by 6.)

Representative Macdonald pointed out that Lutheran General serves people from a wide area, running beyond Elgin, and that the Northwest suburbs "have been assessed the fastest-growing area in the state." Rep. Chapman added that Lutheran General's location near O'Hare Airport and the tollways makes it easily accessible.

In a phone conversation with The Herald, Bostick sought to justify the chosen locations on the grounds that the hospital delivering the baby is "usually able to stabilize the baby prior to transfer," and that "it is usually not a crisis situation."

JAMES ROSENBERG of Schaumburg, the father of an infant treated at Lutheran General, criticized Bostick's expertise, charging that in a conversation he had with Bostick, "Bostick didn't even know where Northwestern Hospital is — he thought it was in Evanston."

Throughout the meeting, Rep. Totten asked if Lutheran General's facility would actually be forced to close if excluded from the funding. At the end of the meeting, however, he and the other legislators proposed a conference with Lashof and members of the advisory committee — and possibly administrators of Lutheran General — "to sit down and get some answers on criteria."

That meeting may take place next week, when, it was reported, some members of the advisory committee already have scheduled a conference on the issue.

MARTIN J. KELLY OLDSMOBILE

1516 W. NORTHWEST HWY. ARLINGTON HEIGHTS 392-1100

IN THE BASEMENT that once was to be remodeled as a family room, Marilyn Rix has set up her pottery studio. It used to be a sewing room where she gave private sewing lessons. Though somewhat cramped, Marilyn manages all right except on days when she's doing laundry. Clay and clean sheets just don't mix.

by GENIE CAMPBELL

For Marilyn Rix the progression evolved naturally. She loved house plants long before they became the rage, and she also enjoyed showing them off in decorative pots.

And because the Prospect Heights homemaker had numerous plants, there was only one thing to do . . . make the containers herself.

Presently Mrs. Rix has more pots than plants and since her "passion" for rolling and shaping clay only heightened in the last year and a half, she began selling her extras at local art fairs and directly through her home.

"The bug has really hit. It's more than full-time now. Just ask my family."

THOUGH MRS. RIX does occasionally throw pots on a wheel and presently is taking classes at the Evanston Art Center to perfect her technique, she primarily and preferably still shapes pots by hand.

In this particular business it's timing that really counts . . . knowing how long to wait before shaping the dough after it's been rolled out, then firing it.

None of her pots look exactly the same. Even those of the same basic shape and size vary in texture. This is achieved by indenting the clay while still pliable, with such objects as seashells, kitchen utensils and rocks with interesting raw edges.

In fact the distinguishing feature that all Rix work has is plenty of texture. And that might be a carryover from her former endeavor, sewing.

A fine arts major at the University of Kansas, Marilyn transferred at the end of her second year to the Ray-Vogus

School in Chicago where she graduated as a fashion designer.

"MY FIRST BABY came along two weeks after I graduated so it ended any kind of career I might have planned," she said.

Marilyn, however, taught sewing, first downtown through the school and later out of her home.

"I used to make everything on our backs, all except my husband's white shirts and our underwear."

Yet two years ago she cleaned out all her fabrics and patterns to make room for clay, kiln and young seedlings.

"I sewed for so long, I lost any joy in doing it anyhow," she continued, adding that her usual working uniform, jeans and old shirt, put little demand on an updated formal wardrobe anyhow.

As varied as her textures are Mrs. Rix's rich glazes. Again, unlike many artisans who perfect one single glaze and then stick to it, Marilyn Rix prefers to continually experiment.

"I'M A MAD CHEMIST I guess. I enjoy mixing and doing different things," she said though she also admitted it is not the most thrifty direction to take.

"There's more money involved with a wider supply on hand and more time wasted perfecting different glazes," she explained.

Even with the orders she takes, Mrs. Rix will never guarantee an exact shade of glaze, only the size of pot.

"Pottery is extremely expensive as a hobby," she continued noting that she avoids shipment charges at any rate, since she is lucky enough to find most of her supplies in the Chicago area. Yet she does have to contend with shortages, of jute for macramé hangers, of clay, and even chemicals too.

"It's a hassle going around and trying to get everything when I could be spending that time doing pottery."

To get started, Marilyn checked out several books from the library. She is completely self-taught outside of the course she is now taking in Evanston, and one college pottery class which left her relatively unimpressed at the time.

"IT JUST DIDN'T hit me right then."

Because a kiln is a big investment, in the beginning Mrs. Rix used one belonging to a friend. When she decided that pottery was no passing fancy, she made plans to get her own. And that involved sewing again.

A self-proclaimed garage sale addict, Marilyn picked up a lot of upholstery samples at one sale. Making them up into purses which she sold through a local bazaar, Mrs. Rix was able to earn enough money to pay for her kiln.

The few pots she took along with the purses also sold easily. That is when she realized her work was marketable and began showing in art fairs. However, commercial shops she still avoids.

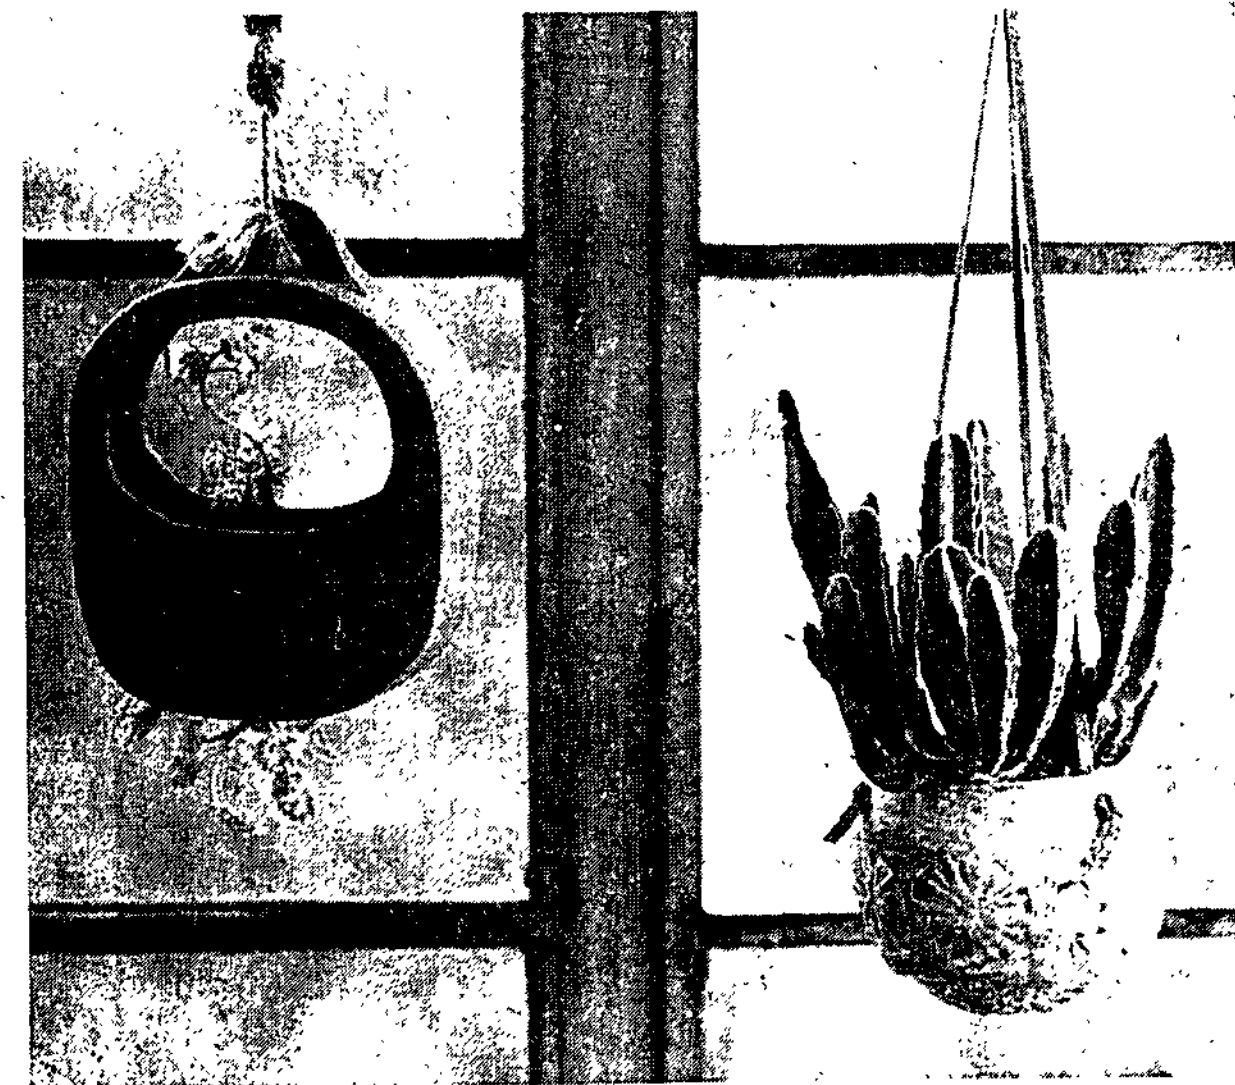

"I'M ALWAYS BEHIND with orders anyhow so why sell through a shop that only tacks on a large commission?" asked Marilyn who consciously attempts to moderately price all of her work.

The only shop Marilyn will one day show in will be her own. And that's in the building stages. Her husband has added an extension onto the garage and when that is ready, probably early next spring, Marilyn will move all her equipment out of the basement and into her own studio, which will also have a dis-

First she grew the plants ...then she made the pots and everybody loves 'em

AN ENTIRE CORNER in Marilyn Rix's living room is jammed with plants and hand-shaped pots. Large jade plant in the middle of the table is her favorite, brought from California. She estimates its age at 45 years.

WITH HANGING POTS currently so popular, Marilyn Rix has trouble keeping ahead of orders because hers sell so well. Much of her work is displayed prominently in her own home, such as these two. Marilyn likes variety and thus experiments a lot with new textures and glazes. She hopes soon to have her own studio-shop.

Antiques, history, scenery await Hermitage visitors

In middle Tennessee, Davidson County, stands the home of Andrew Jackson, seventh President of the United States, hero of the Battle of New Orleans and the greatest Tennessean in the history of his state. He was a national figure, generally recognized as one of the greatest (though controversial) presidents, and the Hermitage is preserved as a national monument by the Ladies' Hermitage Association.

Andrew Jackson lived in the Hermitage community for more than half a century. Here he and his wife Rachel managed the farm, grew cotton, fed and clothed the slaves and brought up their (adopted) children. At various times during the 50 years the Hermitage was remodeled or changed. Once, after a disastrous fire which spared only the west wing, it was rebuilt on the same foundations, with the same brick walls.

THE STRUCTURE HAS emerged as a "cobbled" house, rough-hewn, but grand. It may lack some of the graceful beauty of other white-pillared Southern homes, but it is quite unlike any of the others. The house reflects a spirit and a style much like the man who lived here and planted the trees, for Andrew Jackson was unique in his time and in history.

A visit to the Hermitage is a bit of living history, with its paintings, crystal, mirrors, kitchen utensils, huge banquet table and furnishings, including Jackson's bed (shown in the picture). The 625 acres on which the Hermitage stands were originally purchased by Andrew Jackson in 1804, and the historic complex is now open to the public, where may be viewed The Hermitage and also Tulip Grove Mansion, home of Andrew Jackson Donelson, grandson of Col. John Donelson, one of the co-founders of Nashville in 1780. His father, Samuel Donelson, was Rachel Jackson's brother, and when Samuel died, Andrew and Rachel adopted the 5-year-old boy.

AUTUMN IN mid-Tennessee is a beautiful season, and the Hermitage is an easy one-day drive from our area via Interstates. It is located 12 miles east of Nashville on 70-N and may also be reached from Interstate 40. You might be interested in combining this trip with a visit to "Opryland" if you are a country music buff. Opryland, USA, is located northeast of Nashville on 31E. The Hermitage is open each day except Christmas, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Antiquers and historians, lovers of beautiful scenery, all will enjoy this interesting example of Pre-Civil War southern colonial architecture and authentic furnishings, in the home of "Old Hickory," one of America's most beloved and admired presidents and greatest military heroes — one of the few, it seems, who went out of office more admired than when he went in.

HISTORIANS CALL his era The Age of Jackson, and Jacksonian Democracy, for his two terms were marked by intense patriotism and devotion to the Constitution. As President he paid the national debt, returned the federal surplus to the states, collected American claims against France and was credited with giving the emerging western territory a greater voice in national affairs. He died in 1845, but visitors may still sense the nearness of a great American at the Hermitage.

Truth about Agnew reads like fascinating fiction

"A HEARTBEAT AWAY"
BY RICHARD M. COHEN AND JULES WITCOVER
Bantam Books, $1.95

"A Heartbeat Away" reads more like a novel or a crackling good mystery than the serious and factual study of political deceit and discovery that it is intended to be.

Indeed, the readability marks it as fascinating, engrossing reading, a characteristic not shared by the many paperbacks which flooded bookshelves during the Nixon-Watergate era.

Watergate was, of course, an intricate set of scandals which don't lend themselves to a gripping narrative. The story of Agnew's downfall, however, is a tale of old-fashioned corruption, greed and the abuse of public trust — and that's good reading!

Richard Cohen and Jules Witcover, two Washington Post reporters who covered the story, begin as Lester Matz, an obscure Baltimore engineer, confesses to his attorney that he's been paying off Agnew for several years. There will be no surprise ending in "A Heartbeat Away," for it's apparent from the beginning that Agnew's been a petty crook for years.

THE AUTHORS wisely begin by studying the three federal prosecutors in Baltimore — Barney Skolnick, Ronald Liebman and Tim Baker — who inadvertently come up with the biggest fish of all in a sweep of petty and very predictable corruption in Maryland.

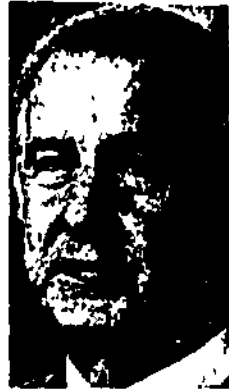

It's fascinating how the team of three, later aided by Maryland's Glenn Beall and, finally, by U. S. Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson, pull more and more witnesses before federal grand juries to build a case against Agnew. Viewing this process should offer insights into how Chicago's successful prosecutor, James R. Thompson, has toppled official corruption here.

Slowly, word leaks back to Washington that Agnew is, indeed, a target of the investigation. Late in the book, when Agnew's fate is sealed by a landslide of evidence against him, "A Heartbeat Away" chronicles the exhaustive plea bargaining which went on between the Department of Justice and Agnew's attorneys.

THIS ISN'T A colorless book, for there's a clear and insightful look at Eliot Richardson's leadership abilities under the harshest kinds of pressure. Locked in

Spiro T. Agnew

White House, Richardson moves with care and precision and ultimately gets his crook.

The view of Agnew is murkier, for Agnew apparently didn't agree to be interviewed by the authors. He seems to acknowledge the necessity of plea bargaining early, yet he fights later in public to tar the Justice Department (indeed, one of the prosecutors remarks, "He's acting like a guilty man," while watching Agnew tear at the Justice Department.)

The climate of the Watergate-paced summer of '73 is caught, too, and the pressure cooker sense of official Washington stands out, for corruption seemed to be the only issue that fueled the government and the press corps at that time. That pressure of events builds throughout the book.

IT'S DIFFICULT to believe that, slightly more than one year ago, Spiro Agnew resigned from the Vice Presidency. Today, Agnew's crimes seem like petty excesses compared to what has followed him.

Guild in new season

Guild Players of Hoffman Estates will open its 18th season tonight with a performance of "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" at the Vogel Barn, 650 W. Higgins Rd., just west of the intersection of Routes 58 and 72. Curtain is 8 p.m. The play is also being staged Saturday and next weekend, etc. $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for students. 882-7496 for reservations.

'Marriage' tryouts

Village Theatre will hold auditions to fill two roles for its November show, "The Marriage-Go-Round," next Wednesday, 7 p.m., at Olympic Pool in Arlington Heights.

Kay and Bob Hawley of Arlington Heights will play the leading roles. Needed are an ingenue to play the part of Katrin Svee and a male to play Ross Barnett, a college professor. The show is being staged Nov. 29 and 30 and again Dec. 6 and 7 at Prospect High School.

Choral concert Sunday

A concert of music by Ralph Vaughan Williams will be presented by the Northwest Choral Society this Sunday, 7:30 p.m., at Maline West High School, 1755 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines. Tickets at $3 for adults, $1.50 for golden-agers and students, are available through members of the chorus or at the door preceding the concert.

Free Street Theatre

The Free Street Theatre brings its newest show to Woodfield Shopping Center at 5 and 7 p.m. this Tuesday and Wednesday. "Playing," a celebration of how Americans relax in music song and dance, includes a puppet theater and story stage with audience participation.

Youth Day

By special invitation, area youth groups, including actors, dancers and musicians, will stage performances in the Grand Court of Woodfield Mall this Thursday. The Batallio Dance Troupe will perform at 5 and 7 p.m.; Jazz Five at 6 p.m.; and gymnastics featured at 2, 5 and 8 p.m.

Rock 'n Roll Revival

Lennie and the Lugnuts, a 1950's and 60's combo, will be the featured entertainment at the Rock 'n Roll Revival at Harper College tonight, 8 p.m., in the college center lounge.

The revival, part of Harper's homecoming package, will also feature dance contests, disc jockey Clarke Sanders of WHCF, record give-aways, and the presentation of the homecoming queen and her court.

Admission to the dance is $1 with a Harper I.D. and $2 to the public. Doors open at 7 p.m.

DPTG's monthly meeting

Des Plaines Theatre Guild will meet this Wednesday, 8:30, in the Guild Playhouse, 620 Lee St.

Entertainment will be provided by members of Village Theatre who will present scenes from several different plays. Mrs. Dori Strong, DPTG president, urges anyone interested in community theater to attend the membership meeting.

Community concerts begin

The 1974-75 series of concerts sponsored by the Arlington Heights Community Concert Association will get underway this Tuesday with a concert by the Polish National Radio Symphony Orchestra. The program begins at 8 p.m. in St. James Parish Hall, Arlington Heights.

The orchestra, created in 1934 in Warsaw, is making its U.S. debut this fall. Its name has recently been changed from the Warsaw National Symphony Orchestra to its present title.

Ballet luncheon

Northwest Chapter of Chicago Ballet will hold a luncheon at the Greenhouse Restaurant in Palatine today at noon. The program will feature a film of Russian dancer Galina Ulanova. Reservations, 381-7594 or 381-6646.

Ex-Beatles debut as record producers

Two former Beatles — John Lennon and George Harrison — have begun new careers as record producers.

As such, they are responsible for four new albums, including Lennon's own new album, "Walls and Bridges" (Apple records), the Lennon-produced Harry Nilsson album and two records on Harrison's own Dark Horse record label.

The Nilsson album is competent and particularly smooth when compared with the sound of his previous solo albums. Unfortunately, the songs are not as outstanding. Lennon said he made the album because "it was time to do an album" and the lack of excitement in that reply is evident throughout the album.

Lennon, too, seems to be in some kind of identity crunch. In the booklet that accompanies the album, there are the lyrics, several drawings from when he was 11 years old and a passage from a genealogy book on the O'Lennon name which ends up stating no one with the name has ever distinguished himself herself culturally. Lennon scribbles an "oh yeh?"

BUT THEN in a half-hearted attempt, Lennon proceeds to hide his identity in all the music credits under a variety of guises, including Dr. Winston O'Ghurkin, Hon. John St. John Johnson, Rev. Thumbs Gurkin, Dr. Dream, Captain Kundalini, Dwarf McDougal and me. It may be more than playfulness.

Musically, his new single, "Whatever Gets You Thru the Night," is the most appealing song. It starts fast — like it already has been going full blast for a couple of minutes. Then, there is Elton John helping out on piano, organ and with the vocals. (John also appears on the song, "Surprise, Surprise.")

The opening "Gone With Love" is a nice, unassuming ballad with a fair chorus. Also appealing, at least in part, are the dreamy ballad "No. 9 Dream," the vocal and string effects in "Steel and Glass," the instrumental "Beef Jerky"

Playback

by Tom Von Malder

and the somewhat hypnotic beat and chorus of "Sacred."

THE NILSSON album produced by Lennon is "Pussy Cats" (RCA records). It continues the two main directions of recent Nilsson albums, that is, resurrecting old songs and a harsh vocal effect. Nilsson has almost completely abandoned the ballad form at which he was so skillful in his "Without You" days.

When he returns to the ballad though, it is his best work, as with "Don't Forget Me" on this album. It is a bit moody and has the black humor often associated with Randy Newman. Joe Cocker sang it on his recent comeback album.

The album's first two songs — the Lennon-arranged versions of Jimmy Cliff's "Many Rivers To Cross" and Dylan's "Subterranean Homesick Blues" — have the unmistakable Lennon-adapted Phil Spector wall-of-sound approach. They also are fairly unrecognizable as the same songs as the originals.

OF THE OTHER resurrected oldies, "Save the Last Dance For Me" and "Rock Around the Clock" work best. Overall, the album is a good try but slightly misdirected.

Harrison's new label kicks off with an engaging debut album by Splinter, a British duo of Bob Purvis and Bill Elliott. They have written all the songs on the album, which is called "The Place I Love."

Several of the songs are strong lyrically, the vocal harmonies are fine and the all-star musician backup is a joy — particularly in that Harrison plays three types of guitars, dobro, percussion, bass, synthesizer and harmonium. (Since he still is contracted to Apple records, he records as Harl Georgeson, Jai Raj Harrison and possibly P. Reducer.)

THE SOUND is reminiscent of the Beatles' "Rubber Soul" era or the early Badfinger. "Somebody's City" is an excellent song with good chorus and extended instrumental break. It should be the single to give Splinter a hit. Other good songs are "Drink All Day," the lovely "China Light," "Costaline Town" and the title song. Many have easy-to-remember melodies.

The other album on Harrison's new label is Ravi Shankar's "Shankar Family and Friends." The first side is a series of short songs. One of them, the English "I Am Missing You," is particularly pleasant and could be Shankar's first single record success. Side 2 is made up of music for a ballet, yet unstaged, called "Dream, Nightmare and Dawn." Again, classical Indian music is weaved skillfully with Western music. Parts such as "Lust" remind one of the work of Gershwin or Bernstein.

"MIRROR IMAGE" (Columbia records) is the new album by Blood, Sweat and Tears, who will be appearing Saturday at Harper College's homecoming concert.

The album shows the group has continued to evolve with a rhythm and blues influence, partially through the addition of vocalist Jerry LaCroix to help out Jerry Fischer. "Look Up To the Sky" and "Love Looks Good On You" are the most appealing songs and much of the second side is taken up by the progressive title suite.

Since the album was recorded, LaCroix has left the group and reportedly David Clayton-Thomas has rejoined it. He was their singer on all their hits, such as "Spinning Wheel."

DPTG most happy about 'Happy Fella'

If Des Plaines Theatre Guild members look more genuinely pleased than anytime before in the guild's 29-year history, it's because they are. Their season opener, "Most Happy Fella," set some pretty impressive new records.

It's the first time the Guild received five standing ovations during one run. It's also the first time DPTG had to extend the normal run of a play due to ticket demand.

"Happy Fella" played to 2,300 people during an eight-performance run. And that's something suburban theater can boast about.

DPTG's second production of the new season, "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," starring Don Schroeder as Barney Cashman, will open Nov. 1 and run every Friday and Saturday night the following three weekends.

Glenn Russell of 2019 N. Windsor Drive, Arlington Heights, is playing the Prince in the Jack and Jill Players' production of "Cinderella."

The children's production is being staged Saturdays at 4 p.m. and Sundays at 3 p.m. throughout October at 540 N.

Lake Shore Drive, Suite 312.

An exhibit by Chicago artist Richard Wetzel is currently on display at Oakton Community College through Oct. 25. A reception for Wetzel is being held Monday, 7 to 10 p.m.

Twenty graphite-on-paper drawings will be displayed in Oakton's William Koehnline Gallery in Building 4, Oakton and Nagle, Morton Grove, Monday through Thursday, 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and on Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Wetzel has exhibited widely in the Chicago area and his work is found in the collections of the University of Illinois, Scott-Foresman & Co., and Northern Illinois University. He holds a B.F.A. from the Art Institute of Chicago and an M.A. from Northern Illinois.

Marci Ridlon Carafoll, author and editor of children's books at Follett Publishing Co., will conduct a four-session term on literature for young people beginning Oct. 31 at the Off Campus Writers' Workshop which meets Thursdays, 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., in the Winnetka Community House, 620 Lincoln Ave., Winnetka. Both beginners and published writers

'Red Hot Lovers' opens at Wheeling High tonite

The many technical requirements for Village Theatre's production of "The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," which opens tonight at Wheeling High School, have been met under the watchful supervision of Hank deGroh, Arlington Heights, production manager, and his assistant, Karen Knudsen, Palatine.

The set, representing an apartment in New York's East thirties, was built under direction of its designer, Wendy Gruen, Mount Prospect, with VT members spending Thursday evenings and Saturday afternoons doing the construction.

When the units were transferred to Wheeling, it took only a few hours of touch-up painting to have the stage ready for tonight's opening performance.

The job of selecting furniture, described by playwright Neil Simon as "clearly from another generation," went to a crew headed by Lynda Sears, Mount Prospect. Betty Allenfort, Arlington Heights, was in charge of properties, while Carolyn Burkett, also of Arlington Heights, was responsible for costumes.

DURING THE production, lighting and sound technician Ed Herman, Arlington Heights, will take his cues from stage manager Randy Biehl, Rolling Meadows.

"The Last of the Red Hot Lovers," directed by Tom Ventris of Arlington, will continue through tomorrow night and next Friday and Saturday. Curtain time is 8:30 for all performances.

Village Theatre patron memberships, which include admission to all four plays in this, VT's 25th anniversary season, are available at $8. Tickets for a single performance of "Red Hot Lovers" are $3 for Friday and $3.50 for Saturday. There is a special $1.50 student rate on Fridays.

Further information about tickets may be obtained from VT box office chairman Betty deGroh, 259-3200.

Dinner Tonite?

Join us for a schooner of beer and the best sandwiches in town, like corned beef, pastrami, and bratwurst, steak and seafood, and garden fresh salads.

Eat up. There's a lot more where this came from.

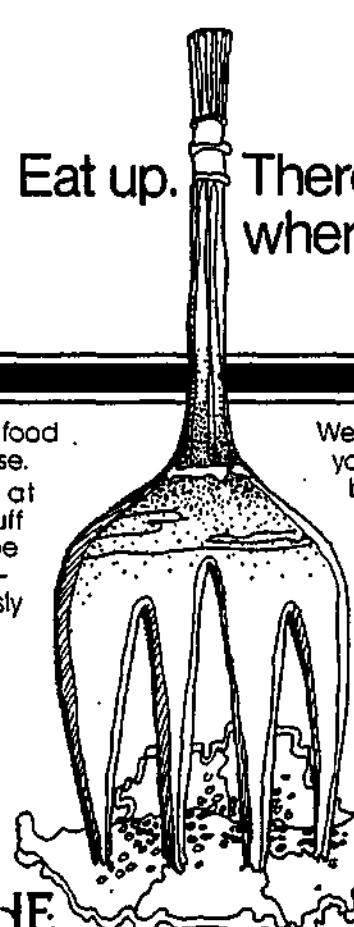

The price of food continues to rise. But dinners at Steaks 'N Stuff continue to be reasonable — and enormously satisfying.

We still give you all the fresh salad you can eat. All the bread and butter you like. All the beer you can drink with dinner. Coke* for the kids. It's all included in the price of your dinner.

And we keep on serving a steak that's a lot bigger than a few bites.

We still do all this for our same reasonable low prices.

Even in these days of change, some things stay as good as ever.

Night out

Dave Major, a favorite of suburbia

by GENIE CAMPBELL

DAVE MAJOR AND THE MINORS are making the rounds of nightclubs throughout the northwest suburbs with an entourage of fans who keep coming back to hear more.

They've moved at ALLGAUER'S FIRESIDE LOUNGE for two weeks through Nov. 2, complete with a stageful of instruments that blend into one maze of brass (the count is now up to 43), and a new member in tow, ED WALSH, who does a pretty nice job at the keyboards (nobody in the group does just one thing).

Walsh knows his way around the Moog synthesizer, which is put to good use in orchestral numbers like "Rhapsody in Blue" and "2001 Space Odyssey" that also features the horn section on stage.

Instrumentals — that's what the five do best — are highlighted right at the beginning with a Dixieland rendition of "The Entertainer" by Scott Joplin. That's also the theme from "The Sting." And that's how DAVE PERRY, the leader of the group, introduced the number. How disappointing that even a musician gives credit to the movie that borrowed the song rather than the talent behind it!

Herald trumpets don't change the sound of "Bugler's Holiday," but they do lend showmanship as played by Dave Perry and his two trumpet-blowing partners, GARY WILLIAMS and DICK RICHARDS.

But for five fine musicians with 43 instruments on which to show off, too much cutting up between and during almost every number detracts from what they do best... entertain musically.

A medley of 50 tunes highlighted by drummer STEVE JOYCE at microphone as Little Richard is a light enough touch to offset some of the heavier listening numbers. For a $2 cover charge nobody needs to hear the likes of "The Streaker" which most folks switched off on their radios long before it died its natural sudden death.

Dave Major and the Minors will have to decide which way they are headed...

Rebecca Clement

as musicians or frustrated slapstick comedians.

It's not too early to begin thinking about HALLOWEEN. Local businesses already are.

COUNTRYSIDE MALL, Northwest Highway and Baldwin Road in Palatine, is organizing a variety of Halloween activities for the kids.

Special events include a COSTUME CONTEST with prizes and a "TREATING" adventure through all mall stores. Registration for the costume contest begins at 6 p.m. on Halloween. Information, 359-0646.

This Monday at the MAGIC PAN in Woodfield Shopping Center the "biggest, plumpest, heaviest pumpkins" will go on display and visitors are invited to register their guess as to what they will weigh when they hit the scales on Halloween. The winner gets a $10 gift certificate and the pumpkin to take home for carving.

And for adults who'd rather drink their "treat," Magic Pan has come up with a spiked autumn drink called Harvest Gold, guaranteed "to take the frost off the pumpkin."

A spooky production in time for Halloween, "THE LEGEND OF SLEEPY HOLLOW," is being staged for children at MILL RUN on Saturdays beginning tomorrow and continuing through Nov. 23. Showtimes are 1 p.m.

BOB NEWIART is now appearing in person for a four-night engagement through this Sunday at MILL RUN THEATRE in Niles. Newhart's guest star is vocalist AL MARTINO.

If you "Heard It Through the Grapevine," that's right, GLADYS KNIGHT & THE PIPS are coming as the featured attraction at MILL RUN beginning this Monday through next Saturday, Oct. 26.

Low priced previews are available for "ROBERT AND ELIZABETH," the musical having its American premiere at the FORUM THEATRE beginning Wednesday, Oct. 30, and officially opening Friday Nov. 1. You can save $2 to $3 by going either Wednesday or Thursday night of the first week.

I wasn't surprised to learn that REBECCA CLEMENT received a Joseph Jefferson award Monday night for best principal actress in a musical role. She certainly deserves it for a rave performance in "SOUND OF MUSIC" at the CANDLELIGHT DINNER PLAYHOUSE. The production, continuing until December, is a delight to see.

Closer to home, ARLINGTON PARK THEATRE won two awards with "DANCE ON A COUNTRY GRAVE" for best musical production and Patrick Henry for best director of a musical. The production had its premiere professional showing at Arlington last winter.

Three workshops at Countryside

Three workshops on photography, soft sculpture and macrame remain on the Countryside Art Center's October schedule.

Ruthie Karlin's "Photographing Your Work" is set for 7-10 p.m. next Monday. This workshop is designed to help artists take slides of their own work. Those attending should bring a 35 mm camera and slide film.

The soft sculpture workshop taught by Lou Ann Musinski will take place Saturday, Oct. 26, from 10 a.m.-1 p.m. Students will construct sculptures from fabric, stuffing and thread.

An evening session of "The Versatile Art of Macrame" has been scheduled for 7-10 o'clock Monday, Oct. 28. Sherry Boemmel will conduct the workshop. Emphasis will be on design though students will also be taught basic knots.

Reservations must be made in advance, accompanied by a $7.50 fee for each workshop. Deadlines are photography, tomorrow (Saturday), soft sculpture, Tuesday, macrame, Friday, Oct. 25. Reservations may be mailed to Countryside Center, 414 N. Vall, Arlington Heights, or brought to the gallery during gallery hours, 1-5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday. Gallery phone, 253-3005, answered only during hours.

Harper offering 'Women in Film'

Women's participation in the film industry will be the subject of a course being offered at Harper College starting next Tuesday.

The course, "Women in Film," will be taught by Susan Edwards, a part-time instructor in the communications division.

The course is a study of film as an entertainment and communications medium with emphasis on how women have been portrayed through the industry's history. Women as producers and directors also will be discussed.

Tuition for the six-session course which ends Nov. 26, is $16. It will meet from 7-9:30 p.m. in Room A-242. Registration may be by mail by sending name, address, phone number, Social Security number and tuition to Admissions Office, Harper College, Palatine 60067. Phone reservations may be made at 397-3000, ext. 230.

MONSTER MASK!
You'll be a cool ghoul in this mask! Hold a paper plate up to your face. Put a small mark over your eyes, nose and mouth. Cut around each mark. You can make the openings any shape you like.
Now decorate your monster mask with tempera paint or crayons. The uglier, the better!
You may want to add paper eyelashes, ears, beard, eyebrows, hair, etc. Here are two ways to make curled paper hair:
1) Cut a long narrow strip of paper. Roll it around a pencil. Glue one end to the paper plate.
2) Cut out a circle about the size of a juice glass rim. Starting at the outside, cut around and around in a spiral (figure 1). Glue the center of the spiral to the paper plate.
Poke two small holes near the edge of the plate, one on each side of the nose. Tie a string through each hole. Tie the strings together behind your head to hold on the mask. Now go scare your friends!

MRS. VIRGINIA APPLEREN (middle), president of Chicago Junior School Village Friends, talks and crafts fair being sponsored by the organization tomorrow. Albert Gamenthaler will be displaying his wooden toys and Mrs. Pat Wahl will be showing samples of her craft which is "egging." All three reside in Arlington Heights. The show takes place in the Pioneer Park Fieldhouse.

Holiday craft shows begin tomorrow

by GENIE CAMPBELL

Because of the craft boom, holiday bazaars and craft fairs are making a grand showing this year. And why not? It's almost as much fun to browse through the exhibits as it is to buy.

Despite plenty of advertising much in advance of Santa's regular arrival, Christmas can still catch a person off guard with shopping undone. And depressing? It can be when there are more persons on the gift list than good ideas and cash can cover. Inflation certainly has caused havoc on the latter this holiday time.

Plenty of homemade items priced under $3 will be made available by local artists and craftsmen in the next several weeks during a wide range of open houses and bazaars.

And who knows, you might pick up on some new ideas you'd like to try in preparation for the festivities ahead. There's still time now. There might not be a month from now.

SPECIAL SALES and exhibits begin this weekend and will continue into November and early December.

Kicking off the string of sales tomorrow is an "Indoor Fair of Fine Arts and Crafts" at Pioneer Park Fieldhouse in Arlington Heights. Hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Sponsored by the Chicago Junior School Village Friends, the fair will include such items as pottery, terrariums, wooden toys, straw wreaths, macramé, porcelain dolls, baked goods plus Christmas cards and stationery.

Proceeds from the fair are going to the scholarship fund of the Chicago Junior School in Elgin.

Corn husk dolls, straw wreaths, mushroom bread baskets and other Christmas items will be sold through an open house next Thursday and Friday at the home of Bette Twietmeyer, 1318 N. Walnut, Arlington Heights. In addition to Mrs. Twietmeyer, six other craftsmen will be displaying their work.

The following Saturday, Oct. 26, a variety of holiday crafts and gift ideas designed and made by local artisans, will be exhibited in the West Park Fieldhouse, Wolf and Greenview, Des Plaines.

THE SHOW, "Holiday Belles," has been organized by Dorie Anderson, former owner of the Sugar and Spice Shop of Des Plaines, who currently teaches many of the crafts that are being displayed. She has contacted many of her former students and other instructors to participate in the special bazaar and sale from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

"This is a 'one-of-a-kind' show where the crafts can be personalized for each individual buyer," said Mrs. Anderson. Orders will be taken during the show and be made up in plenty of time for the holidays.

Notification of other craft shows will be publicized in Medley throughout November.

for Agnew, because, under the much-criticized plea bargaining process, Agnew was spared a jail sentence. If this absorbing book needs anything, it might be wise for the two authors to review the Agnew and Nixon battles with the forces of justice in this country.

That, however, wouldn't detract one bit from this fascinating study of one of the most obvious and pathetic criminals in the history of American government.

"THE HONORARY CONSUL"
BY GRAHAM GREENE
Pocket Books $1.50

Graham Greene's latest novel, now out in paperback, takes on new immediacy with recent happenings in Santo Domingo. One of Green's main characters, Charley Fortnum, the honorary consul in an Argentinian city, is kidnapped, though by mistake. The revolutionaries who abduct him mistook Charley for the American Ambassador and they threaten to kill him unless their demands are met. But with Charley as victim the case fails to cause quite the stir it would have had the ambassador been seized.

The story of Charley's capture, the events leading up to it and what transpired as afterwards, however, is secondary to development of Graham's characters and the relationships between them. Love is Graham's real theme as he explores and pursues his suspenseful tale.

CENTRAL CHARACTER is Dr. Eduardo Plarr, son of a British diplomat father and a Spanish mother, who has not seen his father since boyhood when the father sent them to Buenos Aires from Paraguay to escape turmoil there.

Eduardo is unable to love though he has no qualms about having an affair with Charley's wife Clara, a former prostitute. Charley himself has outlived his usefulness as a consul and finds purpose now in his love for Clara, who's really still a child.

Saavedra, the novelist obsessed with machismo is his literature; Father Eduardo's boyhood friend who left the church to become a revolutionary and took a common-law wife in the process; and Dr. Humphries, self-styled doctor of letters, are other main characters in Dr. Plarr's world of lost faith, loveless passion and pointless sacrifice. They are even more fascinating than the tale of Charley's abduction and his absurd rescue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hahnfeld

Palatine pair wed 50 years

Following their marriage Oct. 18, 1924, in St. Paul's Church, Palatine, Fred and Magdalene Hahnfeld farmed in Palatine for eight years before they moved into town. "Town" in those days was altogether different than it is today as the couple celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

Long gone are Economy Fuse where Magdalene worked for 21 years, Fred for 18, and the Gaare Oil Co., where Fred worked for 24 years before that. Fred also served as a volunteer fireman for 15 years.

Born in Palatine, the son of Charles and Elizabeth Hahnfeld, Fred is now 80 years old, and Magdalene, now 71, was born in Mundelein. Daughter of John and Lena Meyer, she moved to Palatine with her family when she was a young girl; her father served as Palatine Township supervisor for more than 25 years. Fred and Magdalene met at a dance in Long Grove.

The Hahnfelds, who are still members of St. Paul Church, will be celebrating their anniversary from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday at an open house in their home at 121 E. Colfax, with their only child, Emma Cosman of Palatine, other immediate family members and friends.

ORT leaders going to San Francisco

A local delegation of Women's American ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) will leave this weekend for San Francisco to attend the organization's 10th national board conference. It takes place Oct. 21-24 for 1,000 leaders of ORT from 900 chapters coast to coast.

Delegates from the West Suburban Region, which includes the northwest suburbs of Chicago, are president Eileen Ginsburg, and Sheila Schwartz, both of Hoffman Estates, and Roberta Katz and Judith Zwirn, both of Buffalo Grove.

ORT, the vocational training program of the Jewish people, operates a network of schools and installations to provide modern skills for young people all over the world.

Activities sponsored by the local club during the past decade will be illustrated by color slides, by a display of publicity photographs and press books.

The Des Plaines club was one of 150 clubs to receive the 1973-74 Soroptimist Club Achievement Award at the federation's biennial convention. Lyla Guthardt, convention delegate, will describe this event as part of the evening's program.

LA LECHE LEAGUE

Mrs. Jeanne Oester, 131 Idelestone, Schaumburg, will be hostess to Tuesday evening's meeting of Schaumburg-Hoffman Estates La Leche League. Topic for the 8 p.m. session is "The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties," to be led by Mrs. Laura Spielberg. Nursing fashions will also be on display.

Betty Crocker coupons are being collected by the group to purchase an electric breast pump for use in philanthropic work with new mothers.

Mrs. Spielberg can be called at 882-0297 for details.

Honor Des Plaines Juniors with eight state awards

The Junior Woman's Club of Des Plaines captured eight awards for public service at the recent annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs held at the Pick-Congress Hotel in Chicago.

Mrs. Charles Triphahn, president, accepted club awards for conservation, education, home life and international and public affairs.

Heading the list were first place awards in the Consumer and Marketplace Division, the International Policy and Understanding Division and the International Aid Division. Recognition was for such projects as distributing a list of banned toys; donating to Gateway House; supporting drug education, a foster child, CARE, HOPE and Radio Free Europe; instituting the "Choose-A-Child" and "Feed-A-Family" projects in Des Plaines; and for programs and projects dealing with consumerism.

SECOND PLACE recognition was in the areas of environmental responsibility, public education, family living and citizenship. This included a $200 second place award in the Shell Oil contest for support of the Des Plaines recycling center; help in development of the Outdoor Education Center and Braille Trail at Lake Opeka, and for contributions to the park district totaling $2,467.

The Juniors were recognized for their work with youth, including donations to the Des Plaines Day Care Center, Maryville Academy, Head Start and the Park Ridge School for Girls, as well as work with the Golden Agers.

THE CLUB contributed $1,002 to brain research, the highest contribution in the IFWC. It was second highest in its contribution to scholarships for teachers of exceptional children.

For achievements in the Education Department's Communications Division, the Juniors received third place.

The Des Plaines Junior Woman's Club competes with more than 900 federated clubs in Illinois for the yearly IFWC awards. Anyone interested in learning more about the club, attending a meeting or becoming a member, may call the membership chairman, Mrs. John Clearwater, 437-4495, or co-chairman, Mrs. Richard Crocker, 296-3644.

Lacquer job only answer to control brass tarnish

Dear Dorothy: Scrubbing up an old, old floor lamp, we find it's solid brass. Is there any way we can use to help keep its shine without its tarnishing so quickly? — Carol Yanik

No, the only thing you can use on brass to keep it from tarnishing is lacquer which should be done professionally to get it on properly. Once you have lacquer on, you have to handle it with some care because the lacquer can come off in areas, and then the whole thing has to be done over.

If it's in good shape right now, it's a simple matter to use one of the good brass polishes — say once a month. And that's all there is to it, as brass will tarnish no matter how much care you take.

Dear Dorothy: Every once in a while my thermometer will say medium and the meat will come out rare. I know you use a thermometer in your cooking. Is there some trick to using it? — Matilda Kennedy

It's important to put the thermometer in the thickest part, but do not let the tip touch bone or fat. Same thing holds true with poultry. Put the thermometer inside the thickest part of the thigh.

Rita Strzok comes home for wedding

Mrs. Kevin Lenfant

Double ring rite unites area pair

In a 3:30 nuptial mass that took place Sept. 7 in St. Colette Catholic Church, Rolling Meadows, Kathleen A. O'Donnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard O'Donnell, 4309 Hawthorne, Rolling Meadows, became the bride of Michael F. Golden, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Golden of Arlington Heights.

The double ring service was followed by a dinner reception for 170 guests in the Des Plaines VFW Hall. The newlyweds then honeymooned a week in Jamaica and are now residing in a home they are buying in Arlington Heights.

Kathleen, a '71 graduate of Forest View High school, is employed by Palatine National Bank and Michael, a 1970 graduate of St. Viator, is a carpenter. Michael also studied two years at Harper College.

SERVING KATHLEEN as maid of honor was the groom's sister, Mary Ellen. Bridesmaids were Michael's sister, Kathy; the bride's sister, Pat; her sister-in-law, Debbie O'Donnell of Arlington Heights; and Molly McGrath, also of Arlington Heights.

The groom's 3-year-old cousin, Kim Anderson of Grayslake, was flower girl, and Kim's brother, Eddie, 4, was ring bearer.

Guy Ekblad, Rolling Meadows, served as best man, and the couple's brothers, Kevin Golden and Michael, Bill and Rick O'Donnell, ushered.

Dinner will be followed by dancing to the music of Franz Bentele's Royal String.

Tickets can be purchased at the door or by calling 827-0440.

Rita Strzok, a kindergarten and first grade teacher at Richlands Elementary School in Richlands, N.C., took a week's vacation to fly home to Palatine for her Sept. 21 wedding. She and Second Lt. Kevin Lenfant of the U.S. Marine Corps were married at 1 p.m. that day in St. Thomas of Villanova Church, Palatine.

Rita is the daughter of the Edward Strzoks, 225 N. Greenwood, Palatine, and Kevin is the son of the Edward Lenfants of Seymour, Ill.

For the double ring rite the bride wore a white sate peau gown with Empire bodice and long sleeves of Chantilly lace set with pearls. A lace ruffle edged the high neck and cuffs, and a flounce of the lace finished the chapel-length train.

Rita's elbow-length veil was held by a Juliet cap of matching lace, and her cascade bouquet was of 12 white orchids with stephanotis, yellow tea roses, baby's breath and ivy.

FOR "SOMETHING old and something blue" she wore her mother's wedding slip of satin and lace edged with blue rosebuds. It was made by Rita's grandmother, Mrs. M. Milewski of Thorp, Wis.

Joan Milewski of Mount Prospect was maid of honor, wearing a gown of penny copper jersey knit and carrying a bouquet of yellow carnations, Abby roses, rust starflowers and orange baby's breath, all tied with orange ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Sue Lahre, Palatine; Judy Milewski, Arlington Heights;

Janet and Maple Lenfant, Seymour; and Beverly Strzok, Milwaukee. Their gowns were identical to the maid of honor's but in a new penny shade, and their bouquets were of yellow carnations and baby's breath, Abby roses and rust starflowers, all tied with yellow ribbons.

Vicky Milewski, 7, the bride's cousin from Arlington Heights, was flower girl in a floral printed eyelet pique over orange satin and tied with an olive green sash. The dress was also made by Mrs. Milewski. Vicky carried a wicker basket of flowers similar to the adult attendants.

JOHN SCHLESSELMAN, Itasca, served as best man. Groomsmen were James Lery, Mount Prospect; Rick Renselman and Sam Maggio, Normal; Alan Landwehr, Tinley Park; and Edward Lenfant Jr., Seymour. Michael Milewski, 11, Arlington Heights, cousin of the bride, was ring bearer.

An open house at the bride's parents' home followed the ceremony, and later a dinner and dancing reception for 200 guests was held at Henric's O'Hare Inn.

Rita graduated from Palatine High School in '70 and this year from Illinois State University. Kevin, a '73 graduate of Illinois State, is stationed at Camp Le Juene, N.C. He and his bride are living in Jacksonville, N.C.

A honeymoon in Jamaica for Carol Lynch, groom

After a honeymoon at Montego Bay, Jamaica, Carol Denise Landrebe and her bridegroom, Donald F. Landrebe Jr., are residing in Mount Prospect. Both are graduates of Valparaiso University in Valparaiso, Ind., Carol in May '74, and Don in May '73.

The couple met through one of Carol's sorority sisters who was dating Don's roommate; the couple has since married. Carol, a '68 graduate of Prospect High School, also studied at Western Illinois University before transferring to Valparaiso. She is with the Chicago law firm of Wilkison, McGibbon and Kuehn. Her bridegroom is with Concordia Mutual Life Association, Chicago.

CAROL IS THE daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lynch, 503 S. William St., Mount Prospect, and Don is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Landrebe of Bellwood, Ill.

For the 3:30 double ring service Sept. 21 in South Church, Mount Prospect, Carol wore a princess gown of white voile with Swiss embroidery. The gown was fashioned with long sleeves, a high neckline with stand-up collar and a long, ruffled train. A Juliet cap of lace held her shoulder veil which was trimmed in the Swiss lace, and she carried yellow and white rosebuds, stephanotis and baby's breath with an aqua-tinted carnation.

Susan Davis, a cousin from Plainfield, Ind., was matron of honor, and Janet Finer, Edina, Minn., and the groom's sister, Judith, were bridesmaids. Their gowns and matching boleros were in turquoise, and they carried colonial bouquets of white carnations, white roses, blue-tinted pompons, stephanotis and baby's breath. Their headpieces were of rosebuds and baby's breath.

The groom's brother, Robert, was best man, and his cousin, Scott Hoffmann,

Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Landrebe Jr.

Downers Grove, and his brother, Mark, were ushers.

The service was followed by a reception for 220 in the Flying Carpet Inn, Des Plaines.

A&R Society to see 'snowflakes' Nov. 2

Fashions by Jeanine's of Mount Prospect will be modeled Saturday, Nov. 2, at "Snowflake Silhouette" St. Cecilia's Altar and Rosary Society's annual luncheon fashion show this year. The event will take place at the Villa Olivia Country Club with cocktails at 12:30 and lunch at 1.

Tickets may be purchased for $6 from Ann Rud at 437-2946 or Bernice Snyder at 437-4815.

Susan, a 1970 graduate of Arlington High School, is a secretary at Weber Marking Systems, Inc., Arlington Heights. James, a graduate of Culver-Stoekton College in Missouri, is doing graduate work in the field of special education at Northern Illinois University, DeKalb.

Dr. and Mrs. Richard McMahon

Nurse is Sept. 21 bride of Dr. Richard McMahon

Dr. Richard T. McMahon of Mount Prospect took a nurse, Carol Micek of Niles, as his bride in a candlelight, double ring ceremony Sept. 21 in St. Raymond de Pentefort Church, Mount Prospect.

The mass was celebrated by the Rev. Ed Braxton, a friend of the groom's who was on a month's sabbatical leave from Belgium.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. McMahon of Rogers, Ark., previously of Mount Prospect.

Carol is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Micek of Niles.

Her gown of peau de sole featured an Empire waistline and tapered sleeves trimmed in cotton lace which also decorated the hemline. She wore a matching shoulder-length veil and carried a cascade of white snowflake mums with tinted yellow stephanotis and baby's breath.

MRS. DIANE MILAUSKAS of Buffalo Grove was matron of honor. Pat Nelis of Skokie was bridesmaid. They wore halter dresses and matching jackets in a floral design of yellow, lilac, green, and white on a shrimp shaded background.

The bride's sister, Joyce Micek, 8, was flower girl.

Best men were Dr. Timothy McDonough of Cleveland, Ohio, and Bruce Zwissler of San Diego, Calif. Ushers were Dave McMahon the groom's brother, and Jim Micek, the bride's brother.

A DINNER RECEPTION for 150 was held later at the Park Ridge Inn. The couple is residing in Glenview after a nine-day honeymoon in California.

Carol is a graduate of Loyola University's School of Nursing and is currently employed in the Intensive Care Unit at Evanston Hospital.

Dr. McMahon is doing his residency at Evanston Hospital. He graduated from Prospect High School and the University of Notre Dame before receiving his medical degree from Northwestern University School of Medicine.

Bruce Rechters live in Iowa

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Cottrell Rechter, newlyweds of Sept. 7, are residing in Bondurant, Iowa, where both are employed in nearby towns.

The bride, the former Katherine Platt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Platt Jr., Northbrook, is an English teacher in the high school in Urbandale and the groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Rechter, 708 W. Millburn, Mount Prospect, is with student services in the Des Moines Area Community College in Ankeny.

The pair were married in St. James the Less Episcopal Church in Northfield at 4 p.m. with a reception in Sunset Ridge Country Club, Northfield.

PAMELA PLATT WAS her sister's maid of honor, and the groom's sister, Debbie, and Judy Leach, a Chi Omega sorority sister of the bride from Colo., were bridesmaids.

John Agnoletti, Des Moines, was best man, and ushers were Douglas Sauter, Champaign, Clark Bell, La Grange, Ron Nelson, Des Moines, and Dudley Thompson, New York City.

Both Bruce, a graduate of Prospect

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce C. Rechter

High School, and his bride are '73 graduates of Drake University, Des Moines. Bruce became affiliated with Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity at Drake.

Hospital League sets lunch, show

The Service League of Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, is sponsoring an "Autumn Elegance" luncheon and fall fashion show Tuesday at Allgauer's Fireside Restaurant in Northbrook. Proceeds will benefit the hospital.

Rita of Woman's World in Glenview will emcee at the assembly of the are modeled. Mrs. Alan Green, benefit chairman for the Service League, announces, "There will be a selection of fashion in a range of sizes available for ladies to try on, and a special discount will be extended to those making purchases."

Tickets are $10 and can be obtained through the league office, 896 6105.

Newlyweds met at party

When Jean Maczko of Prospect Heights attended a party given by a girl friend in Chicago she met Bill Barry, brother of the hostess. On Sept. 7 Jean and Bill were married and after a honeymoon at the Abbey in Lake Geneva, they are living in a Des Plaines apartment.

Jean is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maczko and Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Barry. Their 3:30 double ring wedding was held in St. Joseph the Worker Church, Wheeling, with an evening reception for 200 guests following at the White Eagle in Niles.

For her attendants Jean chose Terri Moen of Wheeling as her matron of honor, and her sister-in-law, Sue Maczko of Schaumburg and Gail Klepacki of Wheeling as bridesmaids. Flower girls were her nieces, Barbara, 6, and Jennifer Maczko, 4, Arlington Heights.

RAY LUBOMSKI, Chicago, was best man, and Pete Morelli, Elk Grove Village, and Len Maczko, Schaumburg, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Jean studied at Wheeling High School and at Harper College. She is with Powers Regulator, Skokie. Barry studies at Illinois Institute of Technology in Chicago and is employed by McCormick & Co., Chicago.

Edison clients to pay building bill?

by LEA TONKIN

Commonwealth Edison Co.'s electric service customers may start paying the tab for construction work in progress if the utility is granted the full rate increase petition package it seeks from the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The extra charge would be calculated on a monthly basis, based on construction costs for the preceding three or four months, said Edison comptroller Ralph Heumann. The sliding scale for construction costs would be added in addition to an immediate 7.3 per cent general service rate increase and a subsequent 0.3 per cent rate hike — the proposal submitted Oct. 4 to the ICC.

Another 10 cents a day would be added to the average residential customer's service bill as a result of the rate increases, the utility estimated. Edison serves approximately 2.5 million customers.

ISN'T THE customer already paying for Edison's massive construction program? "The customer doesn't bear the cost in the construction period," Heumann said, "he bears it later on — and pays twice as much in interest costs over the years." If the utility had the money in hand to finance the construction of new plants, he said, it could sidestep some of the heavy borrowing costs.

"What we're asking for is that starting in May 1976 we would be able to add to our charges to the customers the amount of return and related taxes necessary to finance construction work in progress, to the amount it exceeds the Dec. 31, 1975 level. What this does is place a ceiling on construction work in progress that has to be financed by the company from its own resources."

Heumann said the levy for construction costs would "be very small in 1976 and grow gradually thereafter." No maximum limit would be imposed on the charge.

"The ICC would have to take specific action to make it imperative, once approved," Heumann said of the monthly assessment based on construction costs was set by Potomac Electric Power Co., Washington, D.C., he added.

Customers could be assured that legitimate construction cost increases — and perhaps decreases — would be monitored by ICC review, Heumann said.

"THE COST OF money to finance Edison's 'white elephant' construction plans is 'what the customers are being asked to pay for, without normal hearings,' said Phillip Miller, assistant director of research for the Citizens for a Better Environment group in Chicago. He said CBE plans to intervene in some manner in the Edison rate boost case before the ICC. "In the past year, there has been virtually no growth rate (in demand for service) and a huge construction program," Miller said.

"It may not make a great deal of sense to go ahead with the program, when there is the potential of a long term period of relatively slow growth in demand." The result could be steadily rising electric service rates without sufficient ICC regulation, Miller said.

The ICC has not scheduled hearings on Edison's petition, but probably will within the next two to three weeks, a commission spokesman said. Edison received a 10.69 per cent general service increase from the ICC in April 1974.

The rising cost of borrowing money and reduced demand for electric service account for a sagging rate of return for Edison investors, Ayers said about the need for higher service rates. The utility is allowed a maximum 8.27 per cent return on its original cost investment. The rate of return dipped close to the 6 per cent level, despite the April boost in service rates, the utility said. The recent petition for higher service rates eventually could raise its rate of return to the 9 per cent level. "We think a rate higher than 8.27 is justified in today's economic conditions," an Edison spokesman said.

Edison slows construction plans

An extension of Commonwealth Edison Co. construction plans will reduce new plant expenditures by several hundred million dollars over the next five years.

Slackened housing starts and business activity were cited by Edison president and chairman Thomas G. Ayers in the slowdown announcement. Construction plans for the period 1975 to 1979 will be an estimated $4.3 billion. This compares with the $4.6 billion construction budget previously announced for the period 1974

Year by year outlays in the revised Edison construction schedule are as follows: $700 million in 1975; $700 million in 1976; $800 million in 1977; $1 billion in 1978, and $1.1 billion in 1979.

Ayers said the projection of growth in Edison's peak load demands slowed to an average rate of 6.5 per cent in 1974. This compares with the previous 7 to 7.5 per cent annual growth rate recorded in recent years.

48 applications on file for S&L branches; 17 OK'd

Forty-one applications for opening branch offices of savings and loan associations in Illinois were filed during the first eight months of 1974, according to a Federal Home Loan Bank of Chicago report. Seven others were filed in December 1973. Seventeen of these have been approved.

The Association for Modern Banking in Illinois reports these applications are in addition to planned acquisitions of existing savings and loan associations.

Federal savings and loan associations are now permitted to establish branches, or to operate acquired savings and loan associations as branches, under a ruling by the FHLB Feb. 1, 1973.

Illinois law still forbids banks to operate more than one office, except for a single service unit within 1,500 feet of the headquarters, AMBI pointed out.

"The failure of the Illinois restrictive banking law — which is basically unchanged since 1848 — to meet the public's vastly changed needs is emphasized by the changes now occurring in savings and loan associations," said Henry E. Seyforth of Blue Island, chairman of AMBI.

"The need to provide their financial services in many more locations has been recognized by the federal government. State law does not restrict federal S & L associations as it does Illinois banks. The need to provide full-service banking services where the people require them is even greater, yet the outmoded law prevents modernization."

The Illinois General Assembly is expected to consider new legislation in the 1975 session that will permit banks to operate multiple offices on a limited basis, he said.

Here's how!!

Shelby Lyman on chess

The case of the paralyzed king

In chess, the exception often seems to be more frequent than the rule. For example, nothing should be more absolute than material values. But other factors, very often intervene and "invisibly" tip the scales.

Consider endgames. In general, a single pawn advantage is decisive. Yet there are those instances in which an even larger surplus is more than matched if the "inferior" side (materially) has advanced a pawn far enough.

Out problem for today illustrates this. We will see one king roam the board at will while the other sits glued to a single square (because of an advanced pawn).

Diagram 1

In our first diagram, it is black to move. He is ahead four pawns to two. But white has an advanced rook pawn on the sixth rank. And his other pawn is so placed that the black king may not move anywhere, without the white "passed" pawn queening easily.

Surely a terrible calamity is a king-and-pawn endgame in which the king should be the dominant piece!

On the queenside we have yet another curiosity. White's king will engage and defeat the three black "passed" but not advanced pawns!

Watch how black "inevitably" loses in all variations:

I. If black advances the rook pawn, the white king will chase it, capture it, return to the bishop and queen pawns and win them. The zugzwanged black king will then have to move and the white pawn will queen.

Diagram 2

II. If black plays 1... P-Q3 check, white answers 2. K-B6! (see Diagram 2). Again all the pawns must fall in similar fashion.

Diagram 3

III. Here we have a very different but lovely possibility. Black can play 1... P-B3 (see Diagram 3). Now the white king cannot win the three white pawns. (Try and see.) But he can force a queen himself by bringing his king around to support his own passed pawn!

Play would thus continue: 1... P-B3; 2. K-Q6!, P-R4; 3. KxP, P-R5; 4. K-R8, P-R6; 5. K-B8, P-R7; 6. P-R7, P-R8 and queen; 7. P-R8 and queen and check, winning the black queen and the game! (See the final position.)

Diagram 4

In all variations the immobilized king finally is forced into motion and its kingdom collapses.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Queen play could mislead South

No series of articles on obligatory falsecard plays would be complete without today's hand. In one form or another, this hand has been appearing in bridge columns for 50 years or more.

South wins the spade opening and leads a club. He is not going to make his slam if East holds all four missing clubs, but West follows and now the slam is cold.

A happy-go-lucky South would rise with the king of clubs on the theory that queens always dropped; a slightly more careful South would play dummy's jack to be sure of his contract against any 3-1 or 2-2 break and to make seven if West had started with three to the queen. A very careful South would play low from dummy. This would give up any play for seven but would insure success of the slam against the presence of all four cards in the West hand.

So, you are West. You know South is a careful player. You know that if you play the eight, nine or 10 he will duck in dummy and pick up the suit the next time around. You play your queen.

South should still play low, but with he? Thirty points is 30 points and he just may play the ace or king and wind up in the ash can.

Religion today

by Rev. Lester Kinsolving

'Selective indignation'

"Is it necessarily less moral for American oil companies to do business in Portuguese Guinea than for American wheat dealers to do business with the Soviet Union?"

—Christianity Today magazine

Why is it that so many of the mainline Protestant denominations have used their stockholdings in repeated attempts to pressure corporations to take action against the white segregationist government of South Africa — but not against the Arabs who have killed a substantial portion of the black population of Sudan?

Why is it that liberal Protestant church leaders so often declaim loudly against white racism — but say little about the black racism of Uganda's dictator, Gen. Idi Amin Dada?

This same sort of "selective indignation" is seen rather regularly in Christianity Today's sagging rival, The Christian Century. (Founded some 60 years before Christianity Today, The Century now has dropped to less than one fifth of Today's growing circulation.)

Recently, for example, The Century sent a reporter from Chicago to Palo Alto, Calif., to interview physicist William Shockley about his controversial theories of alleged Negro genetic inferiority. The result ("The Moral Postulates of a Racist") was considerably more civilized than Shockley's treatment at the hands of young storm troopers who are enrolled at such alleged centers of academic freedom as Yale and Princeton.

BUT WHEN ASKED why no reporter covered Mayor Richard Daley and the Rev. Jesse Jackson's participation in the honor afforded a black supremacist — on "Honorable Elijah Muhammad Day" — The Century's managing editor, Dean Peerman replied: "That's a good question."

Another good question was raised recently at the annual Convocation (national convention) of the Church of England.

"One rarely opens the newspaper without seeing some fresh new ideology of the World Council of Churches," observed one of the clergy delegates, who proceeded to compare the terrorists of the Irish Republican Army with the African terrorists to whom the World Council of Churches has been sending hundreds of thousands of dollars.

So, the Church of England voted to chop off 2,000 pounds of its giving to the World Council of Churches. But for major effect apparently there will have to be similar action by the U.S. and West German churches (which have been the prime source of WCC income) — because the recent WCC Central Committee meeting in Berlin voted to go right ahead with the "Program To Combat Racism" which has been funding the black African terrorists.

THE PROBLEM IN most U.S. denominations who belong to the National and World Councils of Churches is that in almost all cases support of these two organizations is a decision made at national conventions or by sequestered ecclesiastical bureaucrats.

And the average layman, who does not want to support these organizations in their subsidizing terrorism and in their selective indignation, is generally at a loss as to how to do anything about it — other than cancelling all support of his or her local church.

And when this happens, all too often the high ranking bureaucrats are skillful enough to see to it that the financial axe falls on the innocent, whether low-ranking headquarters staffers or (particularly) overseas missionaries.

The only apparent solution is to realize that organized resistance — and sharp inquiry of incumbent office holders — is the only way to bring about desired reforms in the administration of giant, multi-million-dollar denominations. And the time to act is not primarily at national religious conventions (which ecclesiastical bureaucrats are expert at manipulating) but when there is the election of local delegates.

Body needs the minerals

Can a person's body use the minerals contained in water? I have been told that these are inorganic minerals and that the body can use only organic minerals. Do these minerals collect in our bodies to help form gallstones and cause arthritis? Also, would it be beneficial to drink only distilled water?

You have been listening to some dangerously ill-informed people. Do not take any health advice from that source.

You must have inorganic minerals for life. Sodium from salt, potassium and all of the elements essential to life are inorganic minerals. You have to have calcium for your bones and even the function of your heart and nerves. These inorganic minerals are exactly the same element whether the sodium, potassium, iron, copper or calcium comes from water, in vegetables, from an iron cooking pot or another source. Some people don't realize that an element is an element wherever it is found.

Your healthy body regulates these inorganic minerals so that you have the right amount of calcium, iron, sodium, potassium and other elements in your body. Even the amount of pure water in the body is regulated by the body itself. Having these necessary items in your diet or water in no way contributes to gallstones or arthritis in healthy people.

You do not need to drink distilled water for your health. Your city water, properly treated by the city to prevent bacteria in your water, is the safest of all water immediately available to you. If you drink bottled water, you must keep it relatively sterile or you will have to boil it to protect yourself from germs. Germs, not minerals, are the big problem here.

I am a married woman, 40 years old, an office worker in fairly good health. I have no varicose veins and am not overweight, however, I am getting a little heavy through the waistline. So, I purchased a 10-speed racer bicycle to ride the six miles home from work, in hopes that the exercise would keep me in shape.

I took a week to gradually work up to riding the six miles. But, after about 10 days many, many bruises appeared all over my legs, and particularly on the sides and back of my knees.

Have some of the tiny veins in my legs ruptured due to the strain? I'm worried. Could this cause me to develop varicose veins or harm me in some way?

With the many people taking up bicycling these days, I feel sure it would be of interest to many.

If those little veins ruptured from your exercise, you already had a problem. Unless you bump or bruise the legs, exercise should not cause varicose veins or rupture of the small veins.

Exercising the legs actually pumps the blood uphill out of the veins in the legs and toward the heart. The contraction of the muscles around the deep veins in the legs actually milks the blood out of the legs. The truth then is that exercise of this nature should decrease the pressure in the veins and help prevent problems.

Vote-gathering from pulpit a nationwide phenomenon

by PETER A. BROWN

BOSTON (UPI) — Despite a constitutional proviso for separation of church and state, an increasing number of individual clergymen appear to be preaching to voters instead of parishioners.

Two of the most outspoken voices during the debate involving former President Richard M. Nixon's impeachment belonged to men of the cloth, and at least five members of Congress have been ordained.

Outside of Washington, clergymen have become active on both sides of the political aisle, representing all facets of the political spectrum.

PERHAPS THE BEST-KNOWN of the politician-priests is U.S. Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., a liberal lawmaker who was vocal in opposition to the Vietnam War and in support of Nixon's impeachment.

Drinan, a former dean of Boston College law school, was the first congressman to introduce resolutions calling for Nixon's removal from office. Drinan said he has grown sick of answering questions about clergy political involvement and just says he favors "a massive infusion of morality in government from top to bottom."

Now England's other well-known Jesuit, the Rev. John McLaughlin, was a Nixon aide and until recently a member of the Ford administration. He insists on being referred to as "Dr. McLaughlin" and says he only wears clerical garb when working in a ministerial capacity.

"I believe it is important to keep the lines between church and state very clear, very distinct," he said.

McLAUGHLIN, an unsuccessful candidate for the U.S. Senate from Rhode Island, was one of Nixon's most vocal defenders during the former chief executive's last days in office.

He is a frequent critic of the media and Drinan, saying he thinks most Jesuits turning to politics become too liberal. Political involvement can meet with criticism from church officials and churchgoers, but most politically involved priests say their original vocation has not been an issue.

Hartford's Roman Catholic archbishop, the Most Rev. John F. Whealon, criticized both Drinan and McLaughlin, saying he viewed priests' work as "spiritual, not political."

ON THE OPPOSITE side of the political spectrum is Rev. Francis X. Lawlor, an independent but conservative Roman Catholic priest who has sat on the Chicago City Council since 1968.

A spokesman for whites on the South Side who have fought the migration of blacks into their neighborhoods, Lawlor has incurred the wrath of local church leaders who have unsuccessfully tried to transfer him out of the city. He refused to leave and has been left without a parish or ministerial duties.

A black Chicago minister, the Rev. Cornelius Davis, has represented his parishioners in the Illinois General Assembly since 1942. An assistant pastor at the African Methodist Episcopal Church, Davis says he is not a full-time clergyman because of the time restrictions of his political responsibility.

Nevertheless, Davis says he doesn't see any conflict in the dual capacity. "There's nothing in the Bible I can find," he said. "Besides I plan to stay active in the church long after I'm out of politics."

Social scientists taking notice of Skinner

B. F. Skinner, the father of contemporary behavioral psychology and one of the most influential figures in contemporary society, has been virtually ignored by religious educators.

In some ways, that is easy to understand.

Skinner's theories contradict some of the most precious ideas of religion's heritage — the idea of the autonomy of the human being who has freedom and dignity, the capacity to will and know.

Yet Skinner, principally in his books "Walden II" and "Beyond Freedom and Dignity," has exercised a remarkable influence over the social sciences and his particularly influenced teaching methods.

SOME SOCIAL scientists, especially in the fields of criminal rehabilitation and teaching of the mentally retarded, swear by the Skinnerian method known as "behavior modification."

But John L. Elias, professor of educational foundations at Trenton State College, Trenton, N.J., calls the "almost total lack of interest" in Skinner's work "remarkable."

Writing in the current issue of "Religious Education," Elias attempts to assess the main themes of Skinner's work and suggest some implications it might have for religious educators.

Elias finds Skinner fascinated by religion and religious phenomena.

"The religious examples flow easily from his pen. Many religious beliefs are given behavioristic explanation by him (Skinner). He is fascinated by the control that religion has over the lives of people," Elias writes.

SKINNER'S PRINCIPAL belief, as outlined in his book "Beyond Freedom and Dignity," is an attack on the idea of the human being as free or autonomous. In Skinner's view, then, religion is unscientific because it has, as an underlying principle, the belief that the human being is free to choose and is responsible for choices made.

At the same time, Skinner is fascinated by the control religious faith seems to exercise over people.

But Skinner believes that control is negative, based on people's fear of punishment.

"Skinner admits," Elias writes, "that there have also been efforts in religions to appeal to God's love rather than hell-fire as a form of control but he does not see this as a predominant tenancy" — a view that would surprise many religious educators today.

THE PSYCHOLOGIST'S most widespread impact, however, has been through the education process known as behavior modification — a theory that says proper learning occurs through a controlled environment and positive reinforcement.

Only a limited number of religious educators, Elias contends, have taken such theories seriously.

But they should. Not just because Skinner's ideas are becoming more and more pervasive in secular education and society but because his underlying assumptions are a basic challenge to the most fundamental religious values.

And, although he is fundamentally at odds with religion, he can be read, according to Elias, "for his insights into the nature of religious behavior and the influences of religious institutions on the behavior of man and on the total human culture."

Live TV coverage urged for Congress sessions

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A joint congressional committee recommended Thursday that Congress begin experimenting in January with live television coverage of House and Senate proceedings.

The 10-member Joint Committee on Congressional Operations, with one member dissenting, proposed after a year-long study that a 60-day trial period, starting with the new 94th Congress, be conducted. It said that during that time commercial broadcasters would be able to televise the proceedings live or on a delayed basis.

Public Service Television would be "invited" to install and operate, under congressional guidelines and federal cost, cameras and audio equipment. The major networks then would pick up whatever proceedings they deemed relevant for broadcast.

Sinatra's special KOd in the ratings

NEW YORK—Frank Sinatra, "Old Blue Eyes," went before the American public Sunday night and got two black eyes.

"Sinatra — the Main Event" on ABC was outpointed by his opposition on CBS and NBC. In fact, the splashy live performance fared much worse than Sinatra's videotaped special on NBC last November.

Sunday's performance during the 8-9 p.m. (CDT) slot received a 17.8 rating and a 27 per cent share, according to the national Nielsen ratings. The show, itself, finished in 40th place out of 62 shows for the week of Oct. 7-13.

Last Nov. 18, the singer's taped special "Magnavox Presents Frank Sinatra" received a 19.2 rating and a 29 share. Incidentally, NBC will rebroadcast this show Jan. 10, 1975.

WHAT DOES ALL this statistical mumbo-jumbo mean?

Simply looking at the numbers, you could say that the majority of American viewers don't want Frank Sinatra in their homes. This, of course, has no reflection on ABC Sports, whose coverage was spectacular. It just seems that Sinatra, as an attraction on television, has slipped.

Nevertheless, promoter Jerry Weintraub, who sired the live concert, is not dismayed about failure of "The Main Event."

As expected, Cher is not out of the television picture for long. The singer, who co-starred with her estranged husband, Sonny Bono, in a weekly series for three seasons, has signed with CBS to begin a one hour comedy, variety, music skit in the fall of 1975. Meanwhile, CBS will present her in a one-hour special next February.

St. Viator, St. Patrick meet tonight

by MIKE KLEIN

There are those people who say football coaches are hard-nosed egotists bent upon ensuring their own glory by manipulating young men whom they soon forget and never truly appreciated anyhow.

You've undoubtedly heard that somewhere. It's one of the truly sick ideas some people have in their heads.

There are no great athletic reasons that St. Viator should remember Richard Squares (not his real name). Richard played football for Lyne at Hales Franciscan back in the late 1960s.

"It took him two years to learn the difference between offense and defense," laughed Lyne whose unbeaten and state-ranked St. Viator outfit hosts St. Patrick at eight o'clock tonight in Prospect's stadium. It's Homecoming for the Lions.

The entire point about Richard Squares is Lyne holds a high place for the kid even though he wasn't much at football. It's hard to forget someone whose life you saved.

"He almost drowned once. We're at a football camp and he jumps in the deep end, can't swim a stroke," Lyne remembered. "So he's drowning and everybody's looking at me because I'm the coach."

"I went in to get him and he pulled me under. I saved him for laughs. The first thing he says is, 'Wow, it was just like a big whirlpool.' He was 5-foot-7, 220 pounds, very strong and not too quick with his feet or head, but a beautiful kid."

Richard was a Blue-Striper at Hales. He's one of dozens who held dummies, got knocked on his can, picked himself up and then got flattened again. He always came back the next day.

"There is no such thing as a bad high school football player," Lyne stated. "Any kid who's willing to stand out there holding bags, getting his head busted running the other team's plays, that's quite a kid. It takes a great deal of inner strength to do those things."

Anyone who's seen St. Viator knows the Lions have great talent. Until someone proves otherwise, they're the best Class 5A football team in Illinois.

But you know something, they're a team of former Blue-Stripers, kids who got knocked around like Richard Squares.

The classic example, Lyne says, is Lion defensive end Mark Michuda whose older brother, Andy, starred at Viator and plays at the University of Wisconsin.

"I saw Michuda drive himself to almost total exhaustion on a Monday practice," Lyne remembered. "It scared me. But that's how these kids have learned to play football."

"Michuda is highly motivated. After last season, he worked hard with the weights. He walks out there this season and he's a starter. Another one is (offensive tackle) Steve Leahy. He captained

stretched. The charging Falcons forced Biver's kick wide to the left late in the fourth quarter of Friday's Forest View Homecoming game, giving the hosts a chance to tie and send the contest into overtime. But Schaumburg won, 43-37, and Biver contributed seven points by himself on four extra points and a 22-yard field goal. The Saxons are in first place in the MSL South. (Photo by Jim Frost)

Tension time

a Herald Staff Report

The eyes of the Mid-Suburban League's South Division will focus on Schaumburg Saturday to see whether the Saxons clinch the title or if Elk Grove complicates the standings into a three-way deadlock.

Schaumburg, temporarily in the driver's seat with a one-game advantage over four pursuers with its 4-1 record, can end the drama with a homecoming triumph against Elk Grove Saturday at 2 p.m.

The Saxons would be South kingspins regardless of what transpires over the final week by virtue of having beaten every contender in the division.

But if Elk Grove emerges triumphant, the standings would resemble a college fraternity cramming into a phone booth with any one of five teams still alive for a shot at the elusive crown.

A Schaumburg victory assures the title. An Elk Grove win enables either the Grenadiers, Forest View, Prospect, Rolling Meadows or the Saxons an opportunity at the Super Bowl.

At the same time that Schaumburg and Elk Grove (3-2) battle in the pivotal contest, Forest View (3-2) plays at Conant (1-4), the only mathematically-eliminated squad in the six-team circuit.

Tonight, Prospect (3-2) will play before a Rolling Meadows' (3-2) homecoming crowd at eight o'clock in a game to be broadcast live over WWMN-FM, 92.7.

ELK GROVE AT SCHAUMBURG

Bob Ferguson and his Schaumburg gridders know what pressure can do to a ball club. In the Saxons' case, that extra ingredient has helped Ferguson's squad to consecutive victories over Rolling Meadows and Forest View.

Schaumburg has one more pressure-packed game to go. Tomorrow at 2 p.m. the Saxons will host Elk Grove in front of a huge homecoming crowd. A win for Schaumburg would clinch first place in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League.

"It's all over if we win this one," said Ferguson. "We've had the monkey on our backs for two weeks now. We can't lie down and die after we've worked so hard to get where we are."

The Saxons have a one-game lead over rivals Elk Grove, Forest View, Rolling Meadows, and Prospect. A win over the Grenadiers Saturday would give the Saxons the head-to-head edge over each of those four teams, so even a loss to Conant in the final game of the season couldn't deprive Schaumburg of the South title.

"I think we'll go with what's been good for us," said Ferguson. "That's the winning game. We'd like to go to the air a little more against Elk Grove, though. We feel we have a good passing game and we'd like to utilize it because I'm sure Elk Grove will be run-conscious."

On defense the Saxons will have to contend with the most productive running-backs in the league. It should be an interesting matchup, since Schaumburg boasts the second-best rushing defense in the conference.

"We know who their fine runningbacks are," Ferguson said, "but we've stopped Bernhardt (of Arlington) and Matz (Forest View), so we've gone against the best."

"But we're not going to sell them short on their passing," the Saxon coach continued. "They hurt you to death on running, but when they go to the pass it's usually the home run. We've got to be ready for anything. This is a big game for them, too."

Big games are nothing new to Elk Grove's head coach, Don Schnake, and if his Grens are going to take part in any of the post season cake cutting they'll have to whip Schaumburg this week and Prospect next.

The Grens are coming off a smarming 3-0 loss to Rolling Meadows, a loss that hurt Elk Grove in more places than the standings. Schnake's squad has been hobbled by injuries but, was always, Schnake is giving up nothing without a fight.

"Schaumburg is physical," Schnake said. "But I think everybody knows that. 'All I can say is that we'll go after 'em like we've gone after everybody else.'"

The running backs who will have to do most of the getting are John Willard, the MSL's leading rusher, and Tom Roberts, who ranks fourth in the league. Elk Grove's offense has leaned heavily toward the ground game all season as demonstrated by their 1151 yards rushing to 132 yards passing.

If Willard and Roberts can get outside of Schaumburg's defense, and they have the speed to do it, the Grens may find they have not only gone after the Saxons but have caught them and sent the MSL South Division into the final week for positive clarification.

PROSPECT AT ROLLING MEADOWS

It is just one of life's usual little ironies that the team picked by Mid-Suburban League coaches to win it all and the squad pegged by those same gentlemen six weeks ago to mop up the cellar, meet on pretty equal terms tonight . . . about eight days away from the end of the regular season.

That would be the Prospect at Rolling Meadows contest, one of several phases of an elimination process being conducted by the Mid-Suburban League's South Division down the stretch run. "We feel we have a chance," contributed one of the involved head coaches, Knight Dave Keefe, but he added, "It certainly has to be one of the biggest tasks we've faced all season."

Keefe narrowed down the objective in some degree by pinpointing Steve Breit-

DRAWN AND QUARTERED. Schaumburg quarterback Russ Zonca tries to avoid charging Forest View linebacker Steve Coskoy in Friday's overtime battle. It was on plays such as this, the quarterback draw, that Zonca netted much of his 142 yards rushing against the Falcons. But it was an option run to the right for 15 yards by the Saxon QB that eventually won the game, 43-37, in the overtime series at Forest View.

Time is right for changes in Rose Bowl arrangement

That glorious game they call college football may be headed for one of its most inglorious post-season shows.

There's a very good possibility two of the top three college football teams in the nation for 1974 will not play in bowl games.

If that doesn't give the college game a black eye, then nothing will.

I'm a great fan of college football ("Win one for the Gipper" and all that sort of stuff), but I can't get too worked up over post-season bowl that could be missing two of the top three teams.

The Associated Press currently ranks Ohio State, Oklahoma and Michigan in the top three positions in its football poll. Who could argue with that?

Now the problems begin. Oklahoma is on probation and ineligible again for post-season bowl play, and Ohio State and Michigan play in a conference that unfortunately is tied into a restrictive Rose Bowl agreement with the Pacific-8.

One squad from each league is permitted to participate in the Rose Bowl, and the other 16 members are not allowed to consider offers from other highly-attractive bowls.

Yes, Michigan, I know you understand how the Rose Bowl rule works. I know you tied Ohio State last year and stayed home and watched the Rose Bowl on television.

Times are changing in the Big 10. The non-conference record in football admittedly has been embarrassing through the years, but the league is enjoying one of its finest seasons down the line. Somebody besides Ohio State and Michigan is making some noise although the Buckeyes and Wolverines still are the loudest.

But no matter how much progress is made throughout the conference in football the Rose Bowl pact never changes. As it stands now, it serves (1) the National Broadcasting Co., (2) the venerable Rose Bowl committee and (3) the superpowers of the two conferences.

They seem to forget in all the political maneuvering that there are some financially-troubled "upper-middle challengers" in the two conferences who desperately need the bowl games — and the cash.

The greatest concern in the Big 10 in the 1970s — perhaps with the exception of the recruiting nightmare — is that these "upper-middle challengers," like Illinois now as an example, may not in this decade or perhaps even the next decade reach the level of Ohio State or Michigan.

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

Did you see what Ohio State did to a decent Wisconsin team last Saturday? I mean, that was frightening. Wisconsin is not that bad and they were massacred, 52-7. Awesome. When will it end?

It has to be feared that the separation between the "haves" and the "have-nots" is becoming greater no matter what anyone says, and the Rose Bowl pact may be a contributing factor in these two leagues.

The Rose Bowl currently provides the super power with (1) more money, (2) additional prestige (3) another "season" to perfect its techniques, (4) continuing incentive and (5) a fantastic tool for recruiting.

The weaker football teams have generally smaller crowds and less money to operate the total athletic program. Athletically speaking, these schools become less appealing.

The Pac-8 appears hesitant to change the agreement as it now stands because NBC dictates. The Rose Bowl pays practically as much as all the other bowls combined, and NBC feels strongly about the exclusiveness of the pact.

That still doesn't answer the question of how it would really hurt the Rose Bowl if Michigan or UCLA, for example, had played in other bowls last January?

Many of the coaches in the two leagues have been outspoken in their support of a new agreement. They want to go to other bowls if selected. The various other bowl people want it. The vast majority of media people want it. The players want it and it figures the fans would want it.

NBC apparently feels it has a locked-in Pacific Coast and Midwest audience, and the ratings seem to bear this out. They feel the sponsors are paying for the exclusivity of the Rose Bowl.

But whatever the feelings of NBC and the Rose Bowl Committee, there is no way the Jan. 1 game in Pasadena would be conducted without a Pac-8 team.

The Pac-8 is in the position to dictate terms which are in the best interest in the conference, and the Big 10 is obviously not in that strong position.

The Big 8, for example, has agreed to send its champion to the Orange Bowl every year. In case of a tie (listen now, Michigan) the Orange Bowl committee picks the team it wants. They don't let the league decide as was the case with the Big 10 picking Ohio State over Michigan.

The Orange Bowl also has a probation clause. If the Big 8 champion is on probation, they can select any team and they never think of exclusivity. They go on record as saying they don't care if other Big 8 teams go elsewhere.

The Big 10 has it made. The league champion goes automatically to the Orange Bowl and the also-rans can seek other opportunities.

This is a policy which will only serve to strengthen an already deep and balanced conference, but the Big 10 performance against the Big 8 and Pac 8 this year shows a league on the way back and a league deserving of more bowl exposure.

The Big 10 can deal from strength now, and that's important. It's time they took the blinders off and showed a little muscle at the bargaining table.

Harper actually 'home' Saturday for Homecoming

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

"I've told this team," John Eliask said, "that they could play this game in an alley. They have to win to get their pride back and to build up confidence in themselves."

"Sure it'll be nice to play at home but I don't think it will really make much of a difference in the game."

Harper's football team, smudged after two straight defeats, will finally play a game on the campus itself after four years of being "home" at Conant High School and Fremd High School.

The football field that was so long in preparation has finally received bleachers and a fence to keep the spectators away from the field and tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. the Hawks will entertain the College of DuPage on Homecoming.

The location of Harper's games didn't seem to make any difference at all up until two weeks ago. The Hawks were 4-0 and highly thought of throughout the nation.

Then the Hawks were staggered by losses to Rock Valley and Thornton. The Thornton loss was especially painful in view of the fact that Harper committed six turnovers and one costly mistake that led to a touchdown in the first half.

"Every loss hurts," Eliask said. "But losing to Thornton was embarrassing."

"This team needs the personal challenge of the DuPage game."

DuPage's head coach, for one, is hoping the Hawks fold as they did last season after sustaining some tough losses.

"We know what happened to them last year," said Richard Miller, who has guided his team to a 1-3-1 record. "They lost some tough ones, especially to Rock Valley, then laid down and died. We're hoping they do the same thing again."

"A team needs to get in the habit of winning and losing two straight never helps. Once you get out of the habit it's easy to call it quits. I've seen Harper do it before and they could easily do it again."

Obviously, Eliask considers DuPage a better team than Thornton despite a record that includes losses to Triton, Wright and Joliet.

"I've scouted them twice," Eliask said. "They tied Illinois Valley but they should have won that game. They were winning and driving for a touchdown when they had an interception run back for a touchdown on them."

"Then they were tied 7-7 with Joliet before losing. We've got to be careful with them. I've told this team that if you can lose to Thornton you can lose to anybody."

Harper will have the services of five players who were of little help in the Thornton game. Four, Ervin Kimbrough, Evan Ward, Marty Williams and Jerome Young, were suspended for that game but have all been reinstated.

The fifth, Gary Mueller, took a shot in the knee during the Rock Valley game and except for snapping for punts and extra points during the Thornton game, has not played since.

"I think having Gary back is going to really help us," Eliask said. "I've noticed in practice that the offense looks a little sharper with him in there."

bell as the foe his club's been most concerned about all week.

"Meadows has good big linemen, a strong passing attack, a solid running game, a great punter, excellent balance. Above all though, they have a fine quarterback in Breitheil who does a lot of things well. When you talk about trying to contain this team, you have to start with him."

Keefe did take time to dwell momentarily on last week's 26-16 Prospect victory over Conant, and cite some of the youngsters who performed well including two-way tackle Randy Clark, linebacker Paul Youngquist and timely blocking split end Tim Twitchell.

He hinted that more of the same is expected this week, from these and many more, if the Knights hope to remain in contention.

Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro couldn't be more impressed with Keefe's accomplishment in just one year at the Prospect helm.

"He's really made good use of his backs this year," Barro noted. "Those two big juniors (Keith Mason and Don Meyer) are big, hard runningbacks and (Mike) Quade is very capable of running from their option offense and throwing the football. In fact, we expect them to pass a little more against us than they have in the past couple weeks."

In the face of the Mustangs' 3-0 squeaker over Elk Grove last week, Barro couldn't help but praise the efforts of linebacksers Jim Waswo and Bill Bremer as well as his defensive ends and secondary.

"They've really come alive and are playing as a complete unit. They'll be tested by those two big Prospect backs and Jack Devero who seems to deliver their homerun play. He's a real break-away threat."

But while the Prospect confrontation looms as Rolling Meadows' most immediate problem, Barro reflected on the importance of Saturday's Elk Grove-Schaumburg clash.

"We have to win Friday night before we can think about Saturday's game, but Elk Grove does hold a key to the way the South Division will stack up."

Regardless of what transpires on the Mustangs' field, the game will showcase two potential candidates for the Herald's Athlete of the Year Award in three-sport standouts Steve Breitheil of Meadows and Quade.

FOREST VIEW AT CONANT

Conant High School graduates will return Saturday for the Cougars' homecoming to witness a team Ralph Losee says, "Is much better than their record," knock noggins with Forest View.

Conant is 2-4 overall and 1-1 in the conference and while any Championship hopes went out the window weeks ago the Cougars will definitely have something to say about who wins what.

"I think the chance we have to be spoilers has the kids up," Losee said. "I'm also hoping the fact that it is homecoming will get them up."

To accommodate alumni who have to make a long trip back to their old stomping grounds the game time has been switched from Friday evening to Saturday afternoon.

"We still think we can beat any team we play," Losee said. "This is a really fine team. We just need a few more kids, I think."

WWMM-FM will cover the important South Division game tonight between Prospect and Rolling Meadows.

WM Sports Director Howard Balson will call the play-by-play and Herald Sports Editor Bob Frisk will give the color commentary for the battle on the Meadows field.

Air time is 8 p.m. at 92.7 on the FM dial.

Meadows, Prospect on radio tonight

The game Saturday will showcase two of the more highly thought of quarterbacks in the conference, Forest View's Jim Petran and the Cougars' Bob Borczak.

Petran, while guiding his Falcons to a 3-2 conference record, has taken the league lead in both passing and total offense away from Hersey's Scott Topczewski while Borczak ranks fourth in passing and second in total offense.

Two talented receivers are more often than not on the opposite end of the two quarterbacks' aerial gifts, Neil Schmidt of Forest View and Mark Losee of Conant.

Losee has caught more passes (22) than Schmidt (18) but for considerably less yardage and two fewer touchdowns.

"Bob is quite a different quarterback than Petran," Losee said. "I think Bob is a very physical type player. If there isn't room he'll make some for himself."

"Bob is also a better passer when he's set while Petran rolls out more. But Bob won't play much and he knows it. But he doesn't drop back as much as he could."

"Forest View is one heckuva football team and have one of the best offenses around and Petran is a fine athlete. But I think Bob is about the most physical quarterback in the conference."

Losee may be correct in his observation that they aren't as bad as that 2-4 mark. Conant is third in the conference in both offense and defense behind such heavies as Hersey, Rolling Meadows and Forest View.

Conant has Forest View this week and Schaumburg next. The uneasy fate of two football teams with title aspirations lies in the quick and eager hands of the Cougars.

Forest View head coach Fred Lussow has reverted back to one of the elementary phases of the game to prepare the Falcons for Conant.

"We're stressing tackling this week," Lussow stated. "After playing Schaumburg (a 43-37 overtime Falcon loss), I don't think I've seen worse tackling this year. That and the fact that we mistread a lot of keys really hurt us and I really don't know why it happened."

"If anything, I was pleased with the way we battled back after being down early. I think it was 31-15 at the half and we came back and tied them and actually had a tremendous opportunity to win it."

But wishful thinking, second-guessing and posing "ifs" from a week ago won't help Forest View beat Conant. "Nobody has really beaten them badly," Lussow was quick to mention "and Conant was leading a couple of them going into the fourth quarter."

When it came down to specifics, Lussow was fast to respect the passing combination of Borczak-to-Losee in addition to the Cougars' tough off-tackle power offense.

"We know we have a rough ball game Saturday," the Falcon coach emphasized. "Conant has a lot to say about who wins the South and if anybody thinks they can afford a letdown this week has got to be kidding."

SPEAKING TO principals of Illinois high schools Wednesday at Arlington Park Towers was Dorothy McIntyre, assistant to the executive secretary for Girls Interscholastic Sports in Minnesota. She stressed that although girls sports has made progress, the entire program is still evaluated from different perspectives and needs study by the principals.

St. Viator, St. Patrick meet tonight

our Blue team last year. I don't think he got in one play during a game."

Ten Lion starters, six offensively and four defensively, played Blue-Shirt football last year when Viator fielded a senior dominated team that went 7-2.

Leahy, offensive guard Matt Hower and tight end Larry Ostling spent their senior running opponents' plays. Bobby Walsh, Viator's fine quarterback, started at defensive safety but he also was a Blue-Shirt offensive.

Michuda, defensive tackle John Romano and corner back Pat Bucaro, who doubles at split end, also worked on the Blue team.

One of Viator's greatest success stories is right corner Terry Frett who never played one down of football until this season "Here's a kid who's doing a good job on one of the best teams around," Lyne said. "That's really something."

Usually, the Blue-Shirts are juniors such as Tim Horvath who's "just two steps away from being a real good football player. He does everything right. You just hope he grows a little bit."

But talk about unsung heroes and up pops somebody like Blue-Shirt, John McShea, a senior offensive back who won't play much and he knows it. But McShea gives you an effort. At Carmel, he recovered a kick off fumble that led to one of Viator's eight touchdowns.

"There isn't a kid on this team who doesn't contribute to our winning," said Lyne. "If those kids in blue shirts don't work hard, then our first string doesn't get a good test in practice. If you're running first unit offense against first unit defense, then you're risking injury. With our numbers, we just can't do it. That's why these kids are so important."

As for his starters, Lyne claims, "I've got to be concerned about our kids getting big heads. When you play a team like Carmel, you can get away with things. It's hard for a kid to take any kind of criticism when you win, 54-0."

St. Patrick brings a 2-4 overall record to Prospect. The Shamrocks are 1-3 in ESCC games, their only win a two-touchdown shutout effort against Carmel.

They've lost to Marist (28-6) and Holy Cross (50-12), two victims of Viator's wrath. The Shamrocks' other ESCC defeat was to St. Francis deSales (14-6) which hosts the Lions next week.

"My guys must be motivated to hit," said Lyne. "I like us to be loose and we should be. We're a good football team."

As for Richard Squares . . . "It's guys like Richard who make football fun, the characters," Lyne said. "No coach wants 50 robots. Guys like him stand out in your mind."

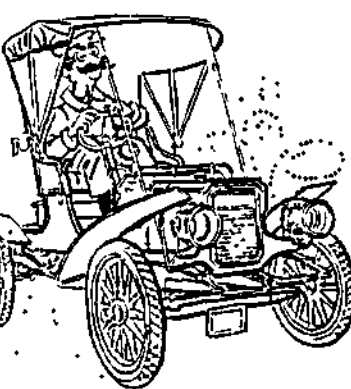

A blue-Shirt, that was Squares. But so were Ostling, Hower, Leahy, Walsh, Breen, Littwin, Romano, Michuda and Bucaro who play on possibly the best prep football team in Illinois.

Kinyon 1st as Fremd harriers sweep title

by ART MUGALIAN
Cross Country editor

The script was changed slightly but the story was the same as the Fremd Vikings defended their Mid-Suburban League cross country title Thursday afternoon at Busse Woods in Elk Grove.

Cross Country editor Ron Menely's runners won the varsity race as expected, and in convincing fashion, despite strong challenges from the harriers of Palatine and Conant. The Vikings captured the first three spots in the three-mile race and went on to score 38 points. Palatine totaled 85 and Conant had 89.

In fourth place was Prospect (115), followed by Forest View (124), Hoffman Estates (173), Wheeling (191), Rolling Meadows (196), Hersey (211), Buffalo Grove (252), Schaumburg (276), Elk Grove (305), and Arlington (308).

It was a cool, clear day when the race began, and when it was over, with the sun just behind the trees, Fremd's Paul Kinyon had come through the chute in first place. He was five seconds ahead of teammate and heavy pre-meet favorite Wil Fieldhouse. In fact, Fremd sophomore John Filosa also finished ahead of Fieldhouse, a senior who had been undefeated in conference duels this season.

"I don't really know what was wrong with Wil," said Menely after the race. "I asked him if he had been reading the newspapers too much, but he just said he was feeling a little lousy."

For the senior, darkhaired Kinyon it was the first victory of the season after seven second-place efforts behind Fieldhouse.

"That's great for Paul," Menely said. "He finally got what he deserved — a conference championship."

Kinyon, who ran the flat course in 15:34, finished 15th as a junior last year when he was Fremd's fifth runner. The Vikings won last year's conference meet with 28 points.

Filosa's second-place time was 15:37, an amazing performance for a sophomore. Fieldhouse was third in 15:39, just a second in front of Conant's Mark Kaufman and two seconds ahead of Darryl Robinson of Forest View. Robinson, too, is a sophomore.

In sixth place was Rich Podgorny of Prospect (15:45), followed by Fremd's Jim Galls (15:46), Palatine's Jim Shaffer (15:47), Dave Elderkin of Conant (15:48), and Wheeling's Augie Zicarelli.

The fifth man for Fremd was another sophomore, Dan Tischler, who came in 25th, despite a muscle cramp in his leg.

"Thank heavens for him," said Menely. "He had a cramp but he finished strong. He really saved us."

Menely was overjoyed by the fact that his Vikings not only notched the first-place varsity trophy — they also captured the freshman and sophomore titles. "That's the first time we've ever done that," the coach said. "I'm a really happy man."

The Vikings took the soph race with 59 points as Conant's Bill Baird was the individual winner and Palatine's Tom Bream was second. Fremd had already wrapped up the freshman championship on the strength of their dual meet record.

On the varsity level, the second-place Palatine squad got strong efforts from Shaffer, sophomore Tony Vargas (15th), Pete Kearns (16th), Carl Kiewert (18th), and freshman Chuck Elliott (27th).

"I'm really pleased with their performance," said Pirate coach Joe Johnson. "It was a great team effort. They packed really well, and we got a fine race from the freshman, Elliott."

For the Cougars of Conant, who had finished ahead of Palatine in dual meet standings, it was not quite so encouraging. Following teammates Kaufman and Elderkin into the chute were Cougars Mike Moran (11th) and soph Pat Hagan (21st). But Conant's fifth man, Jeff Krautwurst, another sophomore, was 44th.

The results of the conference meet, which count as one-half value in figuring final league standings, threw Palatine and Conant into a second-place tie behind Fremd. Forest View moved up a notch into fourth spot, Hoffman Estates and Prospect both jumped up into a tie for fifth, and Hersey and Wheeling fell to seventh and eighth, respectively.

CONFERENCE CHAMP. Fremd's Paul Kinyon enters the chute in first place at the Mid-Suburban League conference cross country meet Thursday at Busse Woods. Kinyon's winning time of 15:34 over the three-mile course led the Vikings to their third straight league harrier title. In second place was Fremd's John Filosa and in third was Wil Fieldhouse, also of Fremd. Palatine was second and Conant third in the league meet. (Photo by Dave Tonge)

Prospect Junior Knight invite draws five schools

Prospect High School staged its first annual Junior Knight Cross-Country Invitational on Wednesday with five junior high school teams competing.

Rand, Thomas, St. Paul, Miner and Lincoln schools sent delegations. Competition was conducted at varying distances for boys and girls in grades six, seven and eight.

Sixth grade girls ran one-half mile, Miner's Jane Barnett winning in 3:29. Judy Haun, Ann Reed, Lisa Bergren and Ann Fruchterman, all of Thomas, ran second-to-fifth.

Boys competed on a three-quarter mile course with Miner's Jim Ailsbie winning in 3:51. Rand's Tom Kasper, Miner's Scott Bergey, Rand's Eric Drevline and Miner's Bob Shor were next.

Thomas' Debbie Ullenius completed the seventh grade girls' three-quarter mile course in 4:14. She was followed by Thomas' Karen Almquist, Miner's Tammi Shor, Thomas' Holly Wright and Miner's Hattie Sharratt.

The boys' seventh grade one mile run was taken by Rand's Tim Ditch in 5:39. Next were Thomas' Mike Duro, Miner's Bill Selzer, Rand's Dave Grant and Miner's Kevin Jachec.

Eighth grade girls also ran one mile, Miner's Carol Selbaggio winning in 6:19. Next were Nancy Kelly and Chris Halverson, both of Miner, then Thomas' Carolyn Christenson and Miner's Collett Dion.

Rob Study of Miner won the eighth grade boys' one and one-quarter mile race in 7:04. Next were Miner's Ken Wentendorf, Lincoln's John Peterson, Miner's Dave Brand and Miner's Scott Satko.

Central Suburban feature finds Demons visiting Glenbrook North

by MIKE KLEIN

The discussion had wandered through comments regarding unbalanced offensive lines, more diversified attacks, stopping Glenbrook North's running game of Mike Klepura plus Greg Woodsum and not allowing cheap touchdowns.

Now, Maine East head football coach Al Eck was asked whether Jack Moller, Glenbrook's fine tight end and linebacker under coach Harold Samorian, might be good enough to get a scholarship in Big Ten football.

"He's Notre Dame and Ohio State stuff," Eck answered quickly. "Samorian says Moller's the best football player he's ever coached and they've had some awful good ones over there."

A 200-pounder and then some, Moller is the greatest reason that Eck has redesignated East's attack for this evening's eight o'clock rematch in Northbrook of a 28-6 loss five weeks ago, the Demons' only defeat.

"We'll have to open up our game, pass the ball more and go with an unbalanced line on some occasions," said Eck who's trying to design better running room for halfback Mike Laueson.

"When you unbalance and shift over, it changes the picture. Their four big people slant through the quarterback and center. If you move over, that area of attack is not there," Eck said.

"Plus, Moller will be over our guards instead of the center which means he's going against better blockers who don't have to concentrate on the snap first, then go looking to make the block."

If all these things work correctly, then Maine East could still be alive for a Central Suburban North championship, although the Spartans rate a distinct favorite.

Glenbrook is unbeaten with six victories and has outscored opponents, 172-31. The Spartans will probably take an 8-0 record into post-season IHSA playoffs if they beat Maine tonight. An outstanding backfield of Mike Klepura and Greg Woodsum has been doing it all for two years.

North owns a 5-0 CSL record; East is 3-1. The Demons had last week off while Glenbrook manhandled New Trier West, 32-13.

East has grown up quite a bit since its 22-point loss to Glenbrook in mid-September.

ber. That was the first starting assignment for quarterback Jay Baum who replaced injured Sam Carter.

Using five juniors each offensively and defensively, the Demons received their first stiff test. Eck readily admits his club "didn't really learn too much" in a 37-8 season opening win against Kankakee-St. Anne.

Moller and friends will undoubtedly key upon Laueson who owns 676 yards rushing in five games but got just 23 against the Spartans. No one else has contained him below 100 yards.

"If we move the ball well enough to keep our defense off the field, then we've got a good chance of beating them," said Eck. "They can key all they want but if our line blocks and moves people around, then he'll get through."

"I really think our defense can hold them if they're not called upon to stay out there three-quarters of the night," Eck said. "But if Laueson and the whole offense runs into a stone wall, then it's a long night."

In four victories and one loss, the Demons have given up just 47 points, more than half to the Spartans. East shut out Glenbrook South Kankakee, New Trier West and Highland Park scored once against Maine.

But GBN presents an entirely different picture. The Spartans deliver tremendous blocking for Woodsum and Klepura. "Sooner or later, they've got to break one," Eck conceded. "Those kids are good backs."

One disturbing fact, Glenbrook scored with one and six seconds before halftime in the last two games between these schools. It meant a 14-0 lead in last season's 21-0 shutout. And the Spartans were up just 7-0 this season en route to the 28-6 victory at Maine.

"We've had two weeks of good practice and I think we're ready," Eck said. "If we're not as good as Glenbrook, we'll make them prove it and not lose by making silly mistakes."

CONANT'S ESTHER KAPLAN plays pair of three-set matches before losing to the eventual champ, Arlington's Maureen Coleman, in the semi-finals, 6-1, 6-0.

Hersey can clinch North title with a win

A Herald Staff Report

This is the weekend when North Division-leading Hersey was supposed to get a breather in the football schedule.

After topping Buffalo Grove in a fierce showdown match last week, the Huskies figured to coast the rest of the way.

But Hersey can't relax yet. Tonight at 8:00 the Mid-Suburban League wars resume. The Huskies will host an improved Palatine squad in a game that can clinch the North title for the Huskies — if they win.

On the other hand, Buffalo Grove, which hosts Fremd tomorrow at 2 p.m., is not out of the running yet.

And also tonight, Wheeling will visit Arlington in one of the league's oldest rivalries.

PALATINE AT HERSEY

Palatine's football team will be shooting for three wins in a row tonight. If they get it, they will break a much longer winning streak for Hersey.

The Huskies will be trying for their 14th straight league triumph dating back to a loss in the 1972 Super Bowl against Elk Grove. Hersey will host the Pirates in an attempt to clinch the North division title for 1974.

"We've had some good games in this series," said Pirate coach Arv Herstedt. "Last year's score (29-7 in favor of Hersey) wasn't indicative of the closeness of the game. It was just 14-7 at halftime and we had a touchdown called back."

This year's Palatine squad is riddled with injuries and has been slow in coming around. But the Pirates' 2-3 league mark has been disappointing nonetheless.

"I hope our boys' attitude is a good one," said Herstedt. "If it is, I think we can play with Hersey."

The Huskies' head man, Joe Gliwa, knows that Palatine will test his team's strength.

"We certainly won't discount Palatine," said Gliwa. "They're well coached and we feel we'll be in for a good game."

The Pirates will be playing without the services of defensive end Jim Smearman for the second week in a row. The big junior was injured just before last week's game against Wheeling.

"We didn't feel that Smearman's absence would hurt us that much against Wheeling," said Herstedt, "but it turned out that we did miss him. Against Hersey it will hurt even more."

The Palatine coach is also concerned about his pass defense, which gave up 173 yards through the air in the Wheeling contest.

"Their passing worries me the most, especially after what Wheeling did to us," the Pirate coach said. "Hersey has a multiple offense, but (Scott) Topczewski can really throw the ball."

Herstedt had praise for three particular members of the Pirate defensive platoon — Dave Haneth, Mike MacBride, and Jim Lubinski — who helped stop the Wildcats when it meant the ball game.

On offense Herstedt knows what his Pirates will be up against. The Huskies have allowed just 200 yards rushing in five league games.

"We'll do what the situation dictates," Herstedt said. "We'll do what we can with what they give us. We haven't been passing much lately, but having (Jim) Maycan back in the lineup really makes a difference."

The 200-pound Maycan rushed for over 100 yards again in the Wheeling game, and Gliwa knows that the big fullback will be enemy No. 1 tonight.

"Maycan's a tough runner," said the Hersey coach. "He isn't the kind of guy you can bring down with an arm tackle. It usually takes two or three guys to bring him down."

The Huskies got past their big showdown with Buffalo Grove by scoring when they had to and converting on the extra-point kick in a crucial situation.

"We worked on our kicking game all week," Gliwa said. "Tom Barnard's kick won the game for us and you have to credit the holder and the center on that play. It's not that easy."

The Pirates also have to worry about Hersey's running backs, among the best in the league. Fullback Jeff Forster has gained nearly 500 yards in five games, and Steve Block has shown an ability to hit the line hard on occasion, too.

"It's starting to shape up the way I thought it would at the beginning of the season," said Herstedt. "Hersey's got the strongest team."

FREMONT AT BUFFALO GROVE

"The Big Hurt" was a song that made it big on the pop charts a long time ago. Buffalo Grove, however, has only just begun suffering from that malady this past week while preparing for the contest tomorrow against visiting Fremd.

The hurt may seem bigger than it is, but that's all strictly relative. The fact that this Bison football team, as a group, had never tasted defeat before last Friday allows for a certain amount of pain.

The fact that it was a one-point setback, and that it was absorbed at the hands of the No. 1 team in the division and possibly the best in the whole circuit, and that it could possibly have cost a berth in the state playoffs, affords for an even bigger sting.

"That's what we have to contend with, at any rate," noted Bison coach Grant Blaney. "The kids appear to have bounced back from that loss last week pretty well... but you never know... it had to take an awful lot of wind out of their sails."

The Vikings will invade Bison grazing land tomorrow afternoon. Blaney is not taking the winless Vikings lightly.

"We know they'll run that dive option at us... They're getting it down to a science over there and they have some big kids up front to go with (Rich) Sharpe in making it a potent weapon. They only play a couple of guys both ways on top of it, so they have at least one advantage over us to begin with."

Blaney has only one gripper on the possible injury list — end Rich Brinsmade. He sustained a twisted knee making a diving catch against Hersey last week.

The rest of the hurt, of course, will have to be carried right back out on the battlefield again.

Hoping to break out of this season's six-game losing streak, Fremd "went to a more conservative game" against Arlington. "But we didn't have enough power to carry it out," said Joe Samojedny, the Vikings' head coach.

That style of play prevented any lost fumbles, but the Vikings absorbed their first shutout. "We'll open it up a little more," promised Samojedny for Saturday's matchup.

It will be the first afternoon game of the season for the Vikings. Maybe playing under God's lights will be just the cure to this frustrating season.

Samojedny said the game films showed "we didn't have real good, strong line play. Rich (Sharpe) carried almost the whole offense for us. There were good holes in the beginning, but towards the end he was doing a lot on his own."

If the Vikings are to upset the Bison, they'll need to have "a little more diversified attack. We want to test 'em out at first, but we're not going to try and overpower 'em."

Fremd has played some tough teams this season with the Bison ranking right up there with the likes of Holy Cross and Hersey. Buffalo Grove's got it all — passing, running and defense, according to Samojedny. Now it is up to his team to get it.

Samojedny singled out the play of Sharpe, tackle Jerry Parker and line-backer Dan Velovich as having good games against Arlington.

WHEELING AT ARLINGTON

There were times, not too many years ago, when this was one of the most important rivalries in the league.

In 1966 Arlington had only two close conference games. They tied Maine West 14-14 and squeezed out a 7-0 triumph over Wheeling en route to a share of the MSL title with the Warriors. The Wildcats finished third.

The next year the 'Cats squeezed out a narrow win on Card turf, 17-14, and it was Arlington's only loss of the campaign, forcing them to share the title with Forest View.

In 1968 the Redbirds fielded one of the finest teams in the state. Wheeling lost 19-7 but that was the most anybody tallied off them all season enroute to a perfect 8-0 slate. The Wildcats went on to finish as conference runnerup.

The '70 Cards were also awesome, beating Wheeling 34-6 and going on to win the first Super Bowl. That year the 'Cats tied for second in their division.

In 1971 Wheeling tied for first and Arlington tied for third in the North after an explosive Wildcat team had barely managed to scrape by the Cardinals 12-7.

Yes, there were times... but not this year. Arlington has begun showing signs of coming alive, but not nearly soon enough to get in the race for divisional honors. Wheeling has demonstrated some signs too, but not enough to win this year.

And so they meet again on the Card gridiron tonight, hosts (2-3) and guests (0-5) with little more to salvage than conference respectability in various degrees.

"We're still trying to salvage a little better overall effort," sighed Wheeling coach Jack Liljeborg. "We've gotten up to the bend a few times now, but I don't think we're ever going to round the corner until we get the full effort from everyone on our team."

Noting that Arlington hasn't been exactly infallible in '74 and that perhaps his squad can finally turn the corner now, Liljeborg added, "They got three wins this year which is three more than we have. I think they're a good defensive club... one which will make you work hard for everything you get. I'd like to think we can give them a go for it but that remains to be seen."

The 'Cat mentor cited several of his offensive stalwarts, quarterback Glen Barry, running back Oscar Quesada and center Ed Wargo, along with defensive tackle Mark DeFries and two-way soph back Kurt Rathje for solid efforts last week in a near-win against Palatine but feels his group in general is still capable of giving more.

Arlington, on the other hand, is coming off their best total effort of the season, according to head coach Chuck Haines. "We got a complete performance from everyone — offensively, defensively, all the way down to our specialty teams," he noted in the Cardinals' 21-0 triumph over Fremd.

Most encouraging, perhaps, is the act that Arlington finally played near-errorless ball. "It's been our goal all year," Haines said. "We had a game where turnovers didn't cost us anything, and that's a real milestone."

A splendid balance of rushing and passing yardage was achieved by four different runningbacks and junior quarterback Matt Shaughnessy, who appears to have accepted the leadership of the Arlington offense.

"He's gaining confidence with every game," Haines admitted. "There's no pressure on us since we're out of the race, so the kids are pretty loose. Matt is sneaky quick and he delivered a pass 60 yards on a sprint out last week, so we know he can throw."

"We've got all the respect in the world for Wheeling. They're winless and yet in the past couple of weeks, they've gone over 300 total yards. Against Palatine, they proved they can put points on the board."

Deerfield visits on Homecoming

Quinn takes charge for Warriors

by MIKE KLEIN

It's up to Terry Quinn. He's got to save the franchise.

Ever since that first day of Maine West football camp, when Quinn couldn't pass his physical and needed hernia surgery, the Warriors have been fighting uphill.

And it's been a struggle, West losing its first five games, including the Central Suburban South opener to Niles West.

Quinn wasn't West's only injury victim and that has caused a lack of stability, especially on offense. The Warriors have been outscored, 116-60, and made critical mistakes near the goal line.

Bill Makuch, who's played virtually every backfield spot, went down with a bad neck at Prospect. Split end Sean Dowd (knee) and two-way performer Scott Unger (bruised shoulder) were hurt against Niles West.

"The Makuch injury kept turning everything the wrong way," said West head coach Jim Morel whose club hosts Deerfield (5-1) at eight o'clock tonight for Homecoming. "Losing Unger and Dowd sure didn't help but the big thing was not having Quinn. We couldn't get a system going."

The Warriors have utilized four tailbacks, three fullbacks and four quarterbacks in six games. "Three of those quarterbacks had never played the position at a varsity level, one being a sophomore (Bob Zaccarini) and the other a running back (Makuch)," said Morel. "Things kind of went up for grabs."

But Quinn returned last week and West won, 7-6, at Niles North. His take-charge attitude can only help against Deerfield which compares favorably to its Central Suburban title team of one year ago. Deerfield's loss occurred at Evanston.

"If we're going to score, we'll do it with Quinn," Morel asserted. "He should be the difference in offensive success against these guys."

Last year, Terry moved against them, throwing one touchdown pass and setting up another score with a completion. That was during a 32-19 loss. Deerfield scored twice in the last period to expand a 20-10 lead.

"We've got to balance our attack against this halfback," Morel said, citing Deerfield's excellent size in the line plus depth that allows different people for offense and defense.

"Niles West found that out last week (a 20-14 loss) with their wishbone attack. They got behind but kept trying to run. Then when they had to throw, it got intercepted."

Dowd is healthy and will return to split end and single safety. Unger should be ready to go at running back and corner. He didn't appear at Niles North.

Questionable is Mike Janonis who took quite a physical beating last week en route to 30 carries, 118 yards and Maine's only touchdown.

Makuch, defensive end Bill Parry and place kicker Mike Panchel each missed two days of school this week due to illness but should be able to participate.

"When you've only got a couple days to prepare for someone like Deerfield, it's kinda tough when you're missing kids or they can only go at half speed," Morel said.

Had he foreseen these problems, Morel might have opted for just three non-conference games, then a week of rest before opening the Central Suburban season. West hasn't had a break since camp.

And they won't get one next year, either. Nine games have been scheduled starting with Prospect and Evanston. Then the Warriors jump into their revised Central Suburban South schedule that includes all three Niles schools and both Glenbrook plus Maines East and South.

West, East lose in golf

Maine West's varsity golfers were defeated, 149-161, by Highland Park on Tuesday. Warrior scorers included Mike Hoepfner 37, Scott Kisten 39, Mike Paradini 42 and Bill Bucher 43.

In another meet played Tuesday, Maine East's varsity lost, 150-163, to Glenbrook South.

Harper golf team advances with 329 total

While Lake County staged its usual charge and former local standout John Loneragan came up with another excellent effort, Harper joined with five other clubs qualifying for the state junior college golf playoffs at Joliet Tuesday.

The Hawks fired a 329, good for fifth place at the gathering. Played over the par 72 Wedgewood Golf Club in Joliet, the Northern Section feeds into the Region IV Tournament, drawing the best in Illinois to Champaign Oct. 25-26.

Lake County forged a 301 total, a potent 18 strokes ahead of second place Joliet. Kankakee at 325 and DuPage at 328 were bunched in with Harper while Thornton at 333 and Elgin at 336 rounded out the qualifying lineup.

Scoring for coach Roger Bechtold's local group were Kevin Ekins (81), Tom McEnerney (81), Rick Reed (82) and Steve Loughman (85). Topping all these efforts, however, and qualifying on an individual basis was Mayfair's Loneragan.

The ex-Palatine high school golf and wrestling star fired a stellar 75 to finish second among the medalist rankings.

Student-Faculty team fires 33

A 33 or two-under-par was the winning low gross score at the Forest View hosted Student-Faculty Tournament at Mount Prospect Country Club.

Nanci Ullman, Eric Bayles, Warren Myers and Lee Thomson took the title. Taking second was the team of Donna DeGrande, Ray Cipriano and Tom Seidel with a 36.

Donna Oliva, Dr. Rod McLennan and Dan Rymarz won low net with a 37-30. Right behind was the group of Marita Rhea, Gloria Blesdoe, Janice Kluge and Richard Kinneman with 39-435.

Certificates were awarded to the aforementioned teams with the winning team having their names engraved on a school plaque.

At Elk Grove Bowl

Matilyn Trieb, bowling for Farman's Hotel and Restaurant at Lake Zurich in the Elk Grove Ladies' Major League at the Elk Grove Bowl, pulled the high series of 693 on games of 223-213-161.

Pam Cwik, of "Cwik's Four" pulled the high game honor with a dazzling 239 for a 371 series.

Farman's continues to hold their five point lead over B & B Blueprint and "Cwik's Four."

Other top scores were recorded by Bonnie Hoffner 205-255, Sue Koller 222, Ann Cadeaux 204-227, Carol Campa 199-221, Marlene Jacobson 211, Matilyn Elliott 202 and Claire Plesch 201.

Jenn Bates picked up the 4-7-9-10 split.

At Beverly Lanes

Nine bowlers registered 200-plus games with handicap recently in the Elk Grove Ladies' Auxiliary league at Beverly Lanes. Leading the way were Lois Youngman (207 and 210) and Peg Holmes (201 and 213). Keepers with just one 200 game were Nancy Schiller, 217, Lou Meder, 200, Bev Smith, 204, Marie Calista, 202, 208, Ev Williams, 201, Luther McBurnett, 204, and Alire Reuter, 201. Ms. Holmes converted the 6-7 and 2-10 splits. Virginia Thelander picked up the 1-9, and Joan Blischel got the 6-7-10.

At Thunderbird Bowl

Maxine Goodwin, of Music's Gang in the Ivy Leaguers at Thunderbird Bowl, threw games of 224-169-162 for a 555 series.

Wheelchair hoops in Hoffman

The Chicago Sidewinders will meet the St. Louis Rolling Rams in a wheelchair basketball game tomorrow at Eisenhower Junior High School in Hoffman Estates. Admission will be free and the public is invited. Game time is 8 p.m. An added attraction will be a special exhibition game between Eisenhower students and faculty playing in wheelchairs.

For further information contact Bruce Karr at 289-0200.

Karate Olympics in Elk Grove

The 1974 Karate Olympics have been scheduled for Sunday, Oct. 27 at Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove. Sanctioned by the American Karate Association, the tournament will be directed by AKA president Ken Knudson, owner of the 10 school chain Illinois and Indiana Olympic Karate Studios.

The event will also include women's and children's competition and is scheduled for all day operation, with registration at 9 a.m., eliminations at 10 a.m. and finals at 7 p.m.

Play starts in A. H. hockey

House league competition starts Sunday for the Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association. All divisions will play starting at 9:10 a.m. at the Arlington Ice Spectrum.

Two other season firsts are also on the horizon. The Fall Membership meeting will be held Tuesday, Oct. 28 at Pioneer Park, starting at 8 p.m.

The annual spaghetti dinner will be held Nov. 3, at Arlington High School starting at 12:30 p.m. and finishing at 7 p.m. Tickets for adults cost $2.50 each, for those under 12, $1.50 and for those under five the meal is free.

From campuses nationwide

Arlington High School product Terry Ormsbee, a converted quarterback, started at roverback on defense for Illinois Saturday at Purdue. He had six solo tackles and two assists.

"Terry gave us a fine effort," said Illinois coach Bob Blackman, "but he is very inexperienced."

Ormsbee was recruited as a quarterback and saw some varsity action in that position as a freshman. He was an All-Stater at Arlington and his father is "Bus" Ormsbee, athletic director at Wheeling High School.

The Knox College football team is being manned this year, in part, by three area players. They are Bill Whiteley, a tri-captain for the Siwash from Fremd High School, Tim Loch, a 1974 graduate of Hersey and Denny Foreman, also a tri-captain, from Arlington Heights.

Sophomore Brian Powell, a 1973 graduate of Elk Grove High School, has overcome an injury which caused him to miss the 1974 track season to rejoin the top six runners on the Ball State University cross country team. A letterman as a freshman, Powell was the fourth Cardinal runner to finish in a dual meet with Purdue and in the Notre Dame Invitational and was Ball State's number five runner, placing 16th, as the Cardinals won the Mid-American Conference Southern Division championship.

Area net teams aiming for titles in district play

by PAUL LOGAN

Two teams — Arlington and Fremd — appear to be the ones to beat this weekend in tennis district tournament play for girls.

Arlington, winner of the Mid-Suburban Conference championship last weekend, will be at the Prospect District along with the hosts, Forest View, Hersey, Buffalo Grove, Wheeling and Maine West. Prospect is hosting an all-day affair, starting at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Fremd, runnerup with Prospect in the MSC meet, will be at the Hoffman Estates District, scheduled to begin play this afternoon about 3:00. Arch rival Palatine and Rolling Meadows figure to give the Vikings some stiff competition. Also at Hoffman will be Conant, Schaumburg, Dundee and Irving Crown.

Hoffman Estates will begin Saturday action at 9 a.m.

Two other Herald area teams will be at districts against totally foreign competition. Elk Grove will be hosting seven other teams and Maine East will be also vying for titles with seven teams at Maine South.

Arlington won a district title last year, but didn't qualify a full team for the state tournament. That is the goal this time around. Coach Mary Lou Hundt is shaking up her lineup with Jean Condon and Joanne Skovanik playing first and second singles, respectively. At first doubles will be Mary Balnes and Leslie Grabitz.

Balnes has played first singles all year for the Cardinals, but she'll have the best chance of advancing in the state meet in doubles. The combination isn't new. Balnes and Grabitz played together all summer and won the Paddock Tournament doubles title.

Mary Flynn and Maureen Coleman will go at second doubles. Should anyone be unable to play, Patty Plaski will be on standby.

"I'm confident that we can win," said Hundt.

Coach Kathy Molbeck of Fremd was unsure as to how her lineup would look. Janet Pfander and Renee Koontz will be playing singles. Going at doubles will be two of three teams — Lex Hodge and Vicki Limberg, Colleen Cannon and Kim Whiting or Linda Warder and Heidi Giesler.

Molbeck admitted that singles play hasn't been real strong this season. "Doubles — that's where the strength of our team lies," she said. "That's where we're picking up points."

She expects Palatine to be tough, especially with the likes of Colleen Clery — runnerup in MSC singles play last weekend.

Maine West wins in overtime; plays tonight for league soccer honors

An exciting overtime victory has catapulted the Maine West varsity soccer team into this evening's Central suburban League championship game against New Trier West.

The title will be settled starting at 7:30 p.m. on Maine East's varsity field. The Demons will play a preliminary against New Trier East.

West's Warriors earned CSL South championship honors on Tuesday by taking Maine South, 2-1, when Bill Georgopoulos broke the game up with his goal as 2:30 remained in the second extra period.

Maine South tallied its only goal in the first period and held a 1-0 lead into the third quarter. Then West's Norm Hillner beat Maine goalie Matt Nelson on a penalty kick, tying the game.

From that point, it was scoreless in regulation play. The overtime win on Georgopoulos' kick gives the Warriors an 11-0-1 record before tonight's contest with New Trier's Cowboys.

"It was a rather aggressively played game because Maine South is always tough," claimed West coach Dave Winter. "I thought the field was somewhat short which takes away one of our assets, good speed."

"Our kids played cool and collected soccer. Their only goal came off a mistake where our defense didn't communicate," said Winter. "But aside from that, we were solid defensively and played good team offense. Hillner had of his best games."

Buddy Doroskin was in goal for West as he has been since early stages of the season. The goal against him broke a string of four shutouts Doroskin had fashioned. The Warriors have blanked six opponents.

At Beverly Lanes

In the parkway men's bowling league Slotting had 543-231 and Paddock 573 helped gain seven points over 3411, even with Cannon's 225 and Juratich's 205. Elshorn took seven points over Quade without a 200 game or anyone bowling over 510 while Lampert of Quade hit 644-222. Turotte took five points from Gutwein. J. Herr hit 628 with 225-222.

WE'RE NO. 1! The hands are raised high after Maine West beat Maine South, 2-1 in overtime, on Tuesday for the Central Suburban South title. Norm Hillner and Bill Georgopoulos scored goals for the Warriors.

Chief Halftown makes a visit

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

"Just look at those faces," Chief Traynor Ora Halftown was saying as he directed hundreds of kids like a traffic cop to lanes in the new Brunswick bowling center in Palatine. "America. That's the future of America right there, buddy."

"Most of these kids are fat or shy or clumsy but they've come here to this bowling center, many of them for the first time, because I invited them. I used my influence on these kids and they are here to participate."

The Chief has been using his influence for 18 years, racing around the country to teach kids to bowl and to explain to them the place the American Indian has in history and modern society.

"My tribe, the Senecas, gave me an award for explaining the role of the Indian in society," he said. "I do this by speaking to them at their schools and talking to them in a way they'll enjoy."

"None of these kids here today had ever heard of me before. But they'll remember me for the rest of their lives."

"Just look at them. I musta passed out a million of those headbands they're wearing. But who's counting? The important thing is that they are here, they are participating and they're well behaved."

"You see anybody fighting? Everybody

Halftown's day began with speaking engagements at three area grade schools, St. Thomas, Virginia Lake and Ridge School. There he told the kids Indian stories, showed them tricks and all in all put them under his spell.

"I love kids. Nobody has a job like mine," he said. "I owe it all to Bernie Rudo, who worked for Brunswick 18 years ago and is the only one who believed in me and what I wanted to do. I owe all of this to him."

"That stuff the company puts out everywhere I go is 20 years old," he said. "It's not important how good I was yesterday but how good I am today."

"You'll see those station wagons pull up and drop the kids off but the mothers won't stay. I want them to stay, to become involved with their children. That's important."

"I'll tell you, this bunch here today is the best behaved group I've had traveling in 15 states. I know in my guts that every kid is a good kid. There's no such thing as a bad kid. They respect and expect discipline."

"This is all a gift. I must not abuse the gift I have with these children because they've made my life worthwhile."

LIFE IS JUST KIDS, feathers and bowling for Chief Traynor Ora Halftown, a member of the Brunswick advisory staff. Traveling the world over the Chief speaks to children about Indian culture and customs then instructs them in the basic points of the sport. The Chief appeared in Palatine Wednesday.

Fan's forum

What happened to sportsmanship?

Fans Forum:

For the past 14 years my husband and I have been at Lions Park from September through the end of October, to watch our sons play football.

We have six boys and all of them have played with the Colt system. At present we have a boy on the junior team and one boy plays with the bantams.

I always enjoyed the games and had the utmost respect for the men who give of their time to train and teach these young kids. The boys not only are learning the fundamentals of the game, but good sportsmanship as well.

I feel very sorry for the new families who just joined the association this year, after the disaster that recently took place at a game. They saw coaches, grown men, I might add, turn into animals, parents turn into screaming maniacs, and poor sportsmanship on the part of the players.

However, I can't help but commend my son's coaches and the boys on his team who kept their cool in spite of all the anger displayed by the other team. I've come to the conclusion that I'm happy the boys have always been connected with the Colt system.

I'm not aware of anything like this occurring in the past 14 years and I hope, for the sake of the boys, it doesn't happen again. It's pretty hard to explain to a kid that it's supposed to be fun whether you win, lose or tie when you see what took place at the park.

HIT FALCONS' COVERAGE

Dear Editor:

What does the Herald have against Forest View High School? We have been going there for three and four years now and every time we win a game (right now it's football), according to the Herald, we're lucky. When we lose, is that ever a different story!

For instance, when we beat Elk Grove on Sept. 27, that game was really important to both Elk Grove and Forest View. That game was really fantastic and one of the best games we ever saw the Falcons play. But according to the Herald, Forest View only "survived."

On Monday, Sept. 30, following the game, you had exactly one picture in the paper showing how we won. We were surprised to see you even bothered to put us on the front page of the sports section.

When Forest View lost to Prospect on Oct. 4, boy, did you ever hit below the belt! On Monday, Oct. 7, following the game, the Herald had four big pictures showing how we lost. One of them was even on the front page of the Herald.

If it seems like we're putting Prospect High School down, we aren't. We must admit that they did play a good game, but the game wasn't that important to rank front-page publicity and Prospect certainly didn't "dump" Forest View, as the Herald put it. It's not as if whoever won the game was way out in front in the Mid-Suburban standings. Forest View was still in first place and Prospect just moved up from the bottom to second from the bottom.

Even though Prospect hadn't beaten us in three years, the last time we beat Elk Grove was in 1969. And to us, the game with Elk Grove was a heck of a lot more important than the game we played against Prospect.

So please, next time we win give us a little credit. We, at Forest View, like to read that we've won, not that we "survived."

PRAISES GIRL'S COVERAGE

Dear Sir:

I'm pleased to see the girl athletes in your area receiving more coverage. They work just as hard as the boys and deserve credit for their accomplishments. Your stories on the tennis and archery meets along with the pictures that appeared with them were well done.

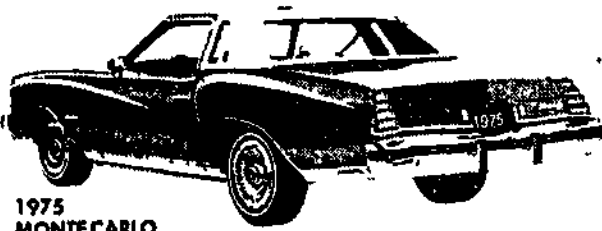

I've got several little girls who will someday participate in some sports. The more stories you write the more it will help to both give youngsters something to shoot for someday as well as give those who are participating the incentive to continue to improve.

Keep up the good work, Mr. Logan

The Volvo Warranty:
12 MONTHS OR 999,999 MILES.
WHICHEVER COMES FIRST.

Every new Volvo is warranted to be free of defects in materials and workmanship for 12 months (no matter how many miles you drive as long as the car has the recommended maintenance) from the date of delivery.

Warranty repairs must be made at an authorized Volvo dealer in the U.S. or Canada. There will be no charge for parts and labor.

Of course, a Volvo also comes with other warranties: Volvo's emission control system is warranted for five years or 50,000 miles (with recommended maintenance) whichever occurs first. Tires, naturally, are warranted separately by their manufacturer. Also, the addition and replacement of all lubricants, fluids and filters are at the owner's expense.

Now that we've shown you some protection in writing, drop by and we'll show you some protection in driving: our Volvo. VOLVO A lot more car than you bargained for.

Showing the signs of homecoming

VIATOR POWER. The decorations for homecoming are up this week at St. Viator High School, Arlington Heights, as students prepare for the big weekend. Glen Sprengel and Kevin Gallagher deck the halls while hundreds of other Viator students parade through the halls wearing "It's Hard to be Humble" buttons. Viator will play St. Patrick High School Friday at the Prospect High School stadium with kickoff at 8 p.m. The homecoming dance is Saturday.

ONE WILL BE QUEEN. These three students at Harper College have been selected for the college's homecoming queen and one will be chosen Friday. The queen candidates are Denise Luechtefeld, left, Sue Ashbrook, center, and Ellen Harper. Homecoming festivities are this weekend.

'Rock 'n' Roll Revival' to highlight homecoming at Harper

A "Rock 'n' Roll Revival" and selection of a queen highlight homecoming activities at Harper College this week.

The queen and her court will be presented today at the Rock 'n' Roll Revival at 8 p.m. at the college, Algonquin and Roselle roads, Palatine. Lanny and the Lognuts will furnish music of the '50s era. Admission is $2 to the public and $1 to Harper students with identification.

Presentation of the queen and her court will be made during halftime of Harper's football game against the College of DuPage at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Public admission is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. Admission is free with Harper identification. It will be the first football game played on campus.

Harper Pres. Robert E. Lahti will open halftime festivities with remarks on the new football field and stands. Entertainment will be provided by the Guardsmen Drum and Bugle Corps and a pompon performance. Harper alumni varsity lettermen from all sports are invited to attend a 4 to 5:30 p.m. reception in the cafeteria.

A concert by Blood, Sweat and Tears will end the week at 8 p.m. Saturday in the college center. Tickets must be purchased at the student activities office in advance. Ticket price is $3.50 to the public and $3 to Harper students.

Good People's food-buying co-op focus of ABC cameras

The Good People's Co-op, an 86-family organization that saves money for its members by buying food in bulk quantities, will be the subject this weekend of national television coverage.

The ABC-TV network is sending a film crew to the Northwest suburbs to record the work of the cooperative organization and report on a meeting with more than 100 women who want to battle the high cost of eating by forming co-ops of their own.

The cameras will focus on the co-op's distribution center at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines, where meats, cheeses and produce are delivered weekly by truck from S. Water Street Market and other sources in Chicago.

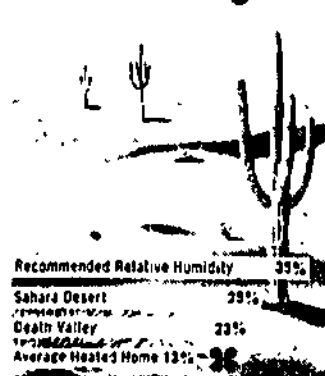

Co-op workers prepare the food to meet the specifications of members who weekly order the type of food they want.

Then the members pick up their orders Friday night.

The network coverage will continue Saturday when co-op leaders Tonya Keaton, Arlene Margowsky and Fran Lapides address a gathering of area women at the Arlington Heights Public Library, 500 N. Dunton.

They will explain how the co-op functions and how the women can start similar operations in their own communities and neighborhoods. The women also are offering to help establish new co-ops for a small fee. The Saturday meeting begins at 3:30 p.m.

every heated home needs the springlike comfort of proper humidity

Heating a home (regardless of the type heating system) often reduces indoor relative humidity to lower than recommended levels. So moisture should be added. For health, comfort, protection. The ideal solution? Proper humidity. How to get it? An Aprilaire Humidifier. Humidistat-controlled, high capacity models, for use with all types of heating systems, that provide whole-house humidification with minimum maintenance.

Public Notice
NOTICE OF PROPOSED CHANGES IN SCHEDULES
To Patrons of COMMONWEALTH EDISON COMPANY:
Commonwealth Edison Company hereby gives notice to the Public that it has filed with the Illinois Commerce Commission on October 10, 1974 proposed changes in its rates, charges, classifications, rules and regulations for electric public utility service in all of the areas in which it provides retail service. Such changes involve and would effect a general rate increase, providing for increases in charges in the rates and riders for residential, commercial, industrial and governmental customers. Certain changes in other provisions of the rate schedules are also being proposed. A copy of the proposed changes in schedules may be inspected by all interested parties at any business office of this company.
All parties interested in this matter or who desire further information with respect to these changes may obtain information with respect thereto either directly from this company or by addressing the Secretary of the Illinois Commerce Commission in Springfield, Illinois 62706.

New Land

Prince Street Players

In "Sleeping Beauty" Starring Giselle MacKenzie as the wicked witch Villainy, the musical tells the famous story of the princess who pricks her finger on a golden spinning wheel and is cast by a spell to sleep for 100 years. This special is a wonderfully zany and marvelously musical re-telling of this classic story. Introduced are three good witches - Norey, Quizz, and Bossy - who are proprietors of an establishment that grants wishes. It is their wicked sister, Villainy, who casts spells and causes trouble.

Are you a fix-it executive?

Some people are very good at it. Maybe you're one. And maybe we can help you. None of us at the bank are really very good with a hammer. But we're great when it comes to money. And that's why we're here To help you with money problems.

If you need a fix-it loan for a home improvement job, or even new storm windows, we're the people to turn to. Or if maybe you need a consolidation loan for your projects and a few of the fine things in life, we're the right people for that, too.

Referendum on library set Saturday

Buffalo Grove residents in a referendum Saturday will determine whether the Lake County portion of the village will be annexed to the Indian Trails Public Library District.

Polls will be open from 9 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. at three locations. Lake County residents are to vote at the Willow Grove School, 777 Checker Dr.

Residents in the Cook County section living east of Buffalo Grove Road are to vote at the Indian Trails Library, 630 Jenkins Ct., Wheeling. Those living west of Buffalo Grove Road are to vote at Louisa May Alcott School, 530 Bernard Dr., Buffalo Grove.

Lake County Buffalo Grove is not part of any library district. It became an issue during the past few years between the Indian Trails and the Vernon Area library districts on who will provide the services.

The Indian Trails district, formerly known as the Wheeling Public Library

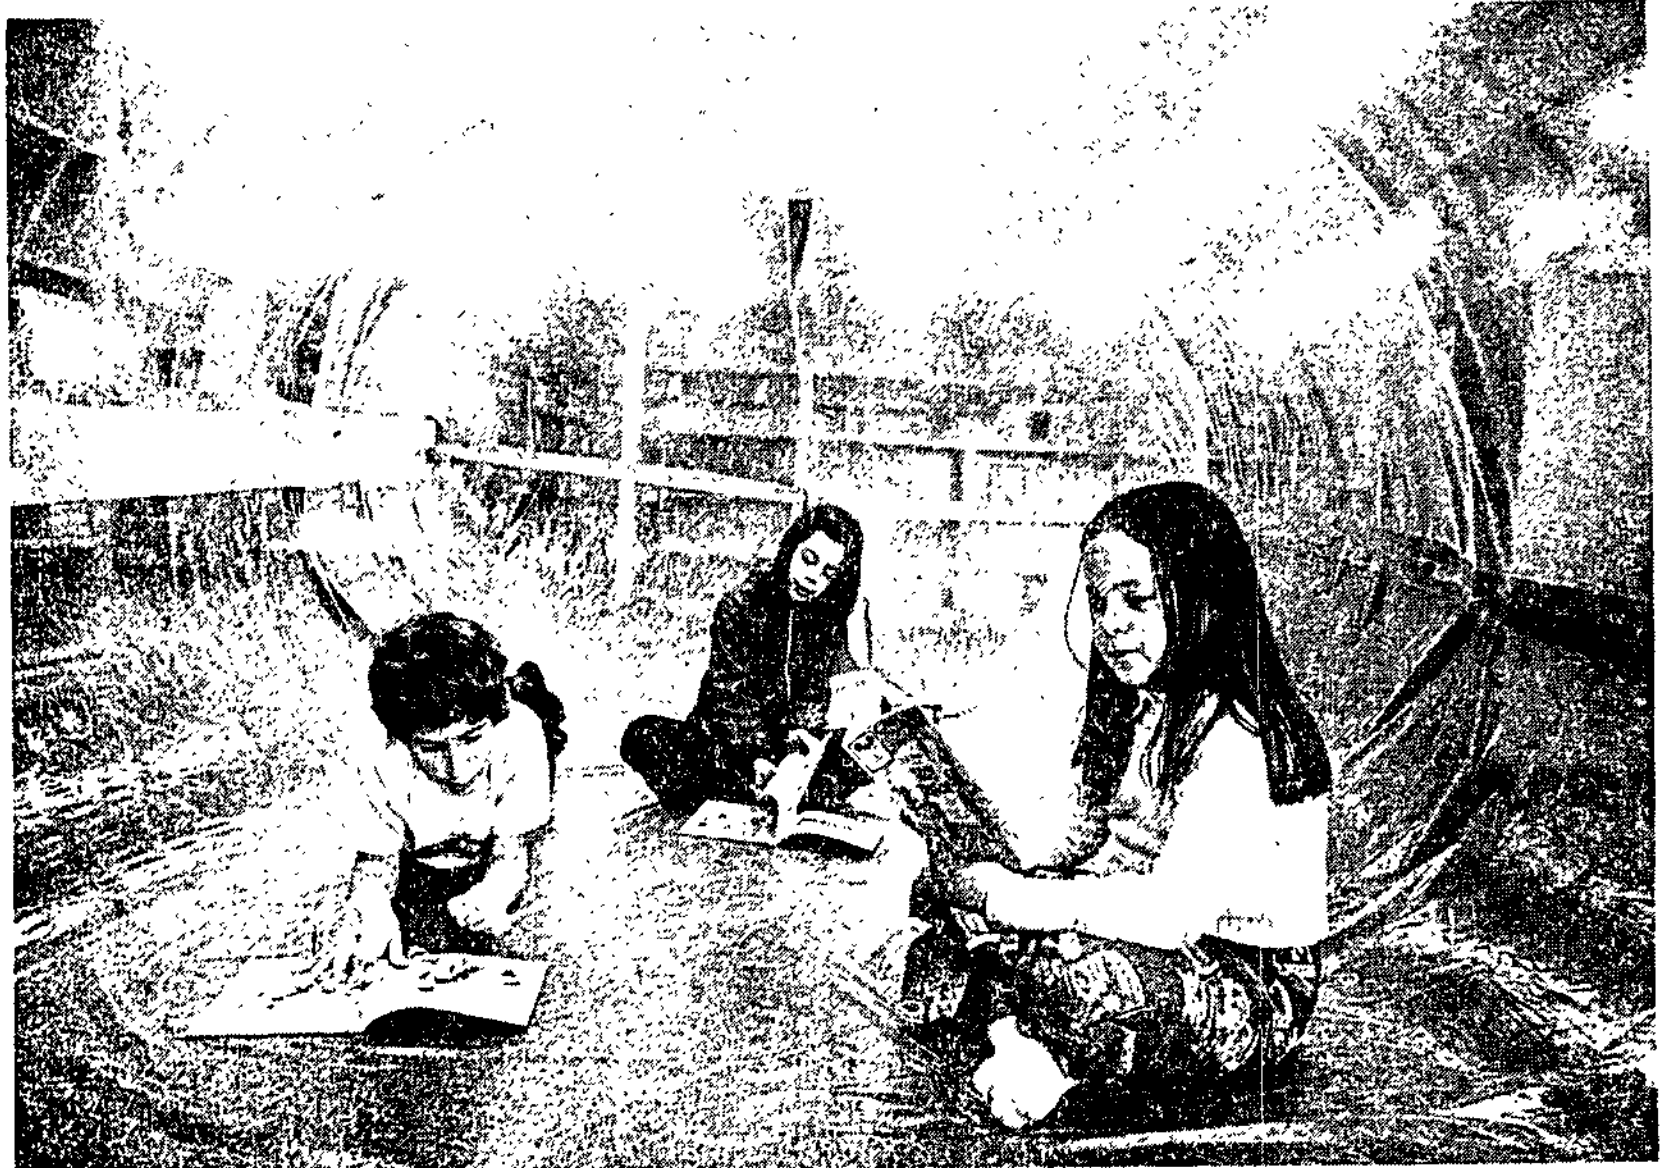

District, already serves most of the Cook County portion of Buffalo Grove.

LIBRARY OFFICIALS, anticipating the referendum will be successful, have secured a state grant of more than $19,500 to provide service to Lake County Buffalo Grove residents.

Kenneth G. Swanson, head librarian, said the district will operate a small van as a traveling library in the area. Additional staffing also has been hired, he added.

The referendum will be the second attempt to bring Lake County Buffalo Grove into the Indian Trails district. A referendum was held three years ago and was unsuccessful.

Favorable results of a straw poll conducted earlier this year led to a decision to attempt another referendum. In the poll, a majority of residents in the area indicated that they would like to be included in the Indian Trails district.

Census to fall hundreds short of expected 19,100

Buffalo Grove has fallen several hundred residents short of the projected population figure of 19,100, according to unofficial census results released Thursday.

The latest count is an increase, however, of some 2,500 over the 1972 official population and means the village is entitled to additional state motor fuel and income tax funds.

The newest count shows 16,200 residents in Buffalo Grove but the figures will have to be verified by the U.S. Census Bureau. According to Village Clerk Verna Clayton, an exact count should be available by Dec. 1.

Village Finance Director Richard Glueckert Thursday said the rise in population over 1972 levels will mean an extra $25,000 to $30,000 annually in state tax revenues and about $30,000 in motor fuel tax money.

THE VILLAGE currently is receiving motor fuel tax funds from gasoline sales totaling $170,000 and another $130,000 in state income tax money for the fiscal year ending April 30, 1975.

Glueckert said the village probably will not receive any of the additional income based on the new population until installments for both taxes are paid Buffalo Grove next January and next year's village budget will be drawn up according to the figures.

Mrs. Clayton said the unofficial breakdown also showed some 5,200 occupied housing units in the village and about 270 vacant units consisting mostly of townhouses and residences under construction.

When the exact count is made, Mrs. Clayton said the village population will be broken down into Cook and Lake County residents, age brackets, sex and race.

ANOTHER SPECIAL census may be requested when officials think the village has grown to the 25,000 population required for home rule status.

Under Illinois law, municipalities with populations higher than 25,000 qualify for the home rule, which strengthens village bonding power and expands the role of the local government.

Mrs. Clayton mentioned that some residents who think they may have been missed in the census were counted based on neighbors' estimates of their households given census takers.

Residents who think they were not included however should contact the village.

Nobody shows, fire service parley canceled

A second meeting on the proposed Buffalo Grove fire service referendum was called off Thursday night when no one attended the session.

The meeting was to be at Cooper Junior High School in Buffalo Grove to discuss the referendum, to be held late next month.

The election will decide whether the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove will be transferred to the Wheeling Township Rural Fire Protection District or remain in the Long Grove Fire Protection District.

Trustee Edward Osmon and Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said the lack of attendance was probably due to the Cook County location of the meeting.

The 4,000 to 5,000 residents in Lake County Buffalo Grove will decide the fire transfer issue.

"Quite obviously the people of Buffalo Grove in Cook County are quite content with their fire service," Osmon said.

A session earlier this month was called off when only three persons showed up.

Both Osmon and Winter said they expect better turnouts at two upcoming meetings scheduled for Nov. 7 and 14.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed. The four city members then defeated the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

LONG GROVE FIREMEN battled a garage fire for more than an hour late Thursday afternoon. The garage was engulfed in flames when firemen arrived on the scene. The garage was located behind a house on U.S. Rte. 12 just south of new Hicks Road. Firemen have not determined the cause and have no damage estimate. No one was injured.

Planning approval seen for area hospital branch

Franklin Boulevard Community Hospital's Wheeling-Buffalo Grove branch will get planning approval needed for important Blue Cross-Blue Shield funds by the end of the month, a hospital official predicted Thursday.

"At the moment it looks like clear sailing," said Patrick DeMoon, executive director of the hospital. "Of course there always can be obstacles that stand in the way."

Robert Devitt, of Comprehensive Health Planning, the agency reviewing the hospital plans, was not as optimistic as DeMoon. He said a decision, which will not necessarily be favorable, could be reached by November but may not come for several months.

About two weeks ago, Norman Davis, a Franklin Boulevard consultant, said approval by the agency, a prerequisite to receiving a Blue Cross-Blue Shield contract, could take six months.

HE SAID THE hospital could not wait that long, adding that even if it did there still is a good possibility the agency would not accept the plans.

DeMoon said, however, he is optimistic that Comprehensive Health Planning will act favorably on plans for the branch hospital. He said if the agency does not, the hospital will proceed anyway.

Approval by Comprehensive Health Planning is uncertain because of a recent report which indicated there is no need for additional hospitals in Cook County.

DeVitt said plans for the Wheeling-Buffalo Grove facility will not be approved unless Franklin Boulevard can prove that a need for the hospital exists.

DeMOON DISAGREED, saying, "The state already has said there is a definite need for a hospital in the area and if another agency says there isn't, it's up to them to prove it." "And I think they would have a difficult time proving it."

Devitt said, however, that until Oct. 1 the state only considered the technical aspects of the plans and did not consider need. The plans were approved by the state in September before a so-called certificate of need law took effect.

"There is no legal prohibition against them (Franklin Boulevard) building without our approval, but there would be a problem with financing," Devitt said.

A state law allows the hospital to finance part of the construction with general obligation bonds purchased through the county or municipality in order to obtain lower interest rates. Unless the hospital can show financing agencies it has a Blue Cross contract, however, the agencies likely are to be reluctant to commit financial support.

In addition, without a Blue Cross contract, the hospital would not be fully reimbursed for costs incurred by patients with that type of insurance.

A SPOKESMAN FOR Blue Cross said recently that more than 30 per cent of the persons in the United States are insured by the company. Any hospital without Blue Cross thus faces a severe financial hardship.

The Blue Cross spokesman said it has been the firm's policy since 1973 to require review of all hospital facilities by a local planning agency before entering into a contract.

DeMoon said hospital officials plan to meet with Blue Cross in early November to discuss signing a contract.

He said hospital backers want to break ground by the end of the year because the contractor has said construction costs next year are expected to rise 1 1/2 to 2 per cent.

The $11.3 million, 228-bed facility has been proposed for a tract on the east side of Schoenbeck Road, just south of Wheeling's corporate limits. Hospital officials expect to annex to Wheeling.

Parks to again urge MSD improve basin

The Wheeling Park District Thursday night decided to make another appeal to the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) in an attempt to correct problems at Heritage Park West retention basin.

The park board at least temporarily, put off filing of a lawsuit against the village and MSD over problems connected with the basin.

About two weeks ago, the park board rejected a two-phase basin improvement program proposed by the sanitary district.

At that time the park board revived talk of a possible lawsuit against the village and the MSD.

Commissioner Lorraine Lark suggested another appeal to the MSD, saying filing a lawsuit would be costly to the taxpayers. Roger Bjorvik, attorney for the park district, estimated a lawsuit would cost the park district $3,900 to $5,000.

"If it's going to cost us $5,000, what's it going to cost them (village and MSD)?" Mrs. Lark said. "If a lawsuit is filed the only ones who will suffer are the taxpayers in the three taxing districts."

Park Board Pres. Robert Ross said, however, "Sometimes that is the only way to get things done."

The park board, in adopting Mrs.

Lark's proposal, directed Bjorvik to contact MSD officials and arrange another meeting. Several weeks ago, Bjorvik said the park district had sufficient grounds to sue the MSD and village.

The easement agreement states the village "will construct, operate, maintain and enlarge the basin." In addition it assures "safe and sanitary conditions that will not interfere with the park district's use of the property for recreation."

Land for the basin was donated by the park district in 1969 with the understanding that the retention lake would be suitable for boating and fishing. The basin has never been used for recreation because of its small size and lack of depth, and it has been called a "mud hole and eyesore."

Residents take part in UI music program

Several local pupils attended the Illinois Summer Youth Music program at the University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana, and were not listed in a recent Herald story on the program.

Playing in the Junior Symphony Orchestra were Fred Walters, bassoon; Tony Zuccarino, trombone; Lisa Kirkpatrick, percussion; Allison Sampson, violin, and Mark Genrich, string base.

In the Junior Concert Band were Laurel Moe, flute; James Maynen, clarinet; Teresa McCabe, clarinet; Karen Conran, clarinet and Bob Leckie, tuba.

Playing with the Senior Orchestra wind ensemble were Kim McGovern, bassoon; Robin Ratti, bassoon; Emily Mulligan, violin; Joyce Hansen, viola, and Ann Libby, cello.

Kim Mason sang with the senior chorus.

Township electors vote to buy 2 lots as site for town hall

by JOE SWICKARD

Wheeling Township electors voted Thursday night at a special meeting to purchase two lots on North Arlington Heights Road as the site of a new town hall.

The purchase of the 40,000-square-foot property at 1820 N. Arlington Heights Rd., for $92,400 was approved by a vote of 23 to 1. The electors are township voters attending the public meeting.

The purchase, is contingent, however, upon a rezoning of the land by the village of Arlington Heights from residential to office use. The land also will be tested to determine whether it would support the planned two-story building before the sale is closed.

Money for the project would come from the sale of the present town hall, operating funds and from federal revenue-sharing money. Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor, said township officials could not yet estimate the cost of the project.

MRS. KOLERUS said a new headquarters is needed because the present town hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., is overcrowded and has been expanded as much as it can be. The present one-story town hall has about 6,000 square feet while the proposed building would have about 23,000 square feet.

More room is needed, Mrs. Kolerus said, because of the rapidly growing township population and the expanded role the township government is playing in social services.

Since 1962, she said, the population has leaped from 58,900 to 133,700 while the monthly general assistance roles have grown from three cases to 69 cases.

The new building would provide meeting space for social agencies, such as mental health, aged and youth committees and the Salvation Army counseling service. Mrs. Kolerus said the existing building cannot adequately house all the programs and so office space must be rented elsewhere.

She said the reduced overhead would result in more money going directly into the agencies rather than to pay rent. "You know how it is with rent. You have nothing to show for it," she said.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS village officials gave the location of the town hall a cool reception earlier this week when it was presented to plan and subdivision committee of the plan commission.

Members of the committee did not dispute the need for a new town hall but said locating it at the proposed site would be "contrary" to the village board-adopted Arlington Heights Road Study which calls for the area to remain residential. Officials also said the road is already too heavily traveled and a new "traffic generator" would create new hazards.

Boys' football players honor moms Sunday

Mothers of Buffalo Grove boys football players will be honored Sunday afternoon by the junior gridgers at Buffalo Grove High School.

Mothers will be given flowers in ceremonies in the stands of the football field adjacent to the school for participating in and cooperating with the program.

The event will begin at 12:30 p.m. and is open to the public.

Dwight Walton, of Brian Properties and acting without fee for the township in the acquisition of the site, said the location is near the population center of the township and the road provides easy identification and access to the facility.

He told the village committee:

Useful for newcomers

Village getting directory of services

Members of the village's newly formed community services unit are putting together a directory of services available to Buffalo Grove residents.

When completed, the booklet will contain information on services such as hospitals, health units, counseling services and other agencies, said Village Trustee Clarice Rech, who helped engineer formation of the commission.

She said it would "take a while" for research and gathering of information but said she is hopeful the directory will contain listings of services in Cook and Lake counties to serve the entire village.

SHE THINKS SUCH a publication would be especially useful in telling newcomers what types of services exist.

Mrs. Rech said the commission, given birth by a village ordinance last month, will act as a steering agent for a variety of community projects and will aid in coordinating other community activities.

She indicated the group may sponsor a "health fair" next spring. The event would feature testing for various diseases and disorders. "If we could have testing at one time and in one place it would accomplish a great deal."

Another activity that may begin next spring is a drug-abuse prevention program coordinated through various village organizations. Mrs. Rech said the commission is trying to get the police department, local Jaycees and PTA units in a joint effort to spread the word on drug-abuse danger to teenagers.

participating in the celebration.

Once the commission is fully formed, Mrs. Rech is hopeful a variety of project ideas will be generated, but she said the groups may assist in plans for construction of a village center.

"I'd also like to do something in regard to the heritage of this area and the early settlers," she said of other possibilities for Bicentennial activities.

Later on, the group probably will sponsor fund-raising activities to finance commemorative projects.

Police hunting dog that hit boy, 5

Buffalo Grove police still are hunting for a light-colored, medium-sized dog that bit a 5-year-old boy Monday near 541 Springside Ln.

Police said the boy, Jeffrey Praefke, was playing outside between 4:30 and 5:15 p.m. when he was bit. The dog then ran toward Checker Road.

The boy is scheduled to begin a series of painful rabies shots, as Thursday was the longest doctors had to wait before starting the shots. Persons with any information on the dog may still call police at 537-4260. The possibility exists that the boy could be spared the remainder of the shots.

THE COMMISSION WILL hold a regular meeting today at 8 p.m. at the village hall, 50 Raupp Blvd. The public is invited to attend.

Another organization activity is the new Buffalo Grove Bicentennial Commission, formed by village board action earlier this month.

She said the group is in the process of selecting officers and will not move ahead on any projects right away but several groups have indicated interest in

Oakton School sale looms for township

Maine Township officials may finally be given the chance to buy Oakton School.

Township officials will meet Saturday with representatives of Park Ridge Dist. 64, who are expected to offer the building to the township for $230,000.

Township officials have been attempting to buy the school building at 2100 Oakton Ave. for offices since early this year. It is believed the Dist. 64 officials will offer to sell the two-story building and a small portion of an adjoining 5.5-acre tract for about $250,000.

Officially, school and township officials have stated that the meeting is only to continue discussions on the proposal, but it is believed the school district is now looking for a firm answer from the township.

THE SALE OF the school has been delayed for some time because of efforts to have the land surrounding the school rezoned for apartment development.

Park Ridge city officials have balked at rezoning the land, but some aldermen have been pushing for action on the proposal this month.

The school district has been seeking a way to rezone the vacant land and sell the school building at the same time.

The township hopes to purchase the building with a portion of its federal revenue-sharing funds.

Besides efforts to sell the building to the township, the school district waited for the results of a losing referendum put on by the Park Ridge Park Referendum in an effort to get voter approval to sell bonds to purchase the open space.

LUTHERAN GENERAL Hospital officials briefly considered purchasing the school for use as a family education center.

According to Illinois law, the school district must sell the property at public auction to the highest bidder, but it is believed the district is seeking to work out an arrangement with a Wilmette developer who wants to purchase the land to acquire the entire tract, then resell the school to the township.

Des Plaines officials found out firsthand Thursday that trying to save time in a bottle can be an elusive pursuit.

The revelation came after officials unearthed a 1960 time capsule buried underneath the flagpole in front of the old fire station next to the city hall, at Miner and Graceland streets.

The capsule contained memorabilia from the city's 125th anniversary celebration, 14 years ago, which officials, including Mayor Herbert Behrle, planned to read and display at the unearthing ceremonies.

WHEN THE capsule was retrieved, however, officials discovered that nature had gotten to the contents first and the net result was an unappealing aromatic mess of wet papers.

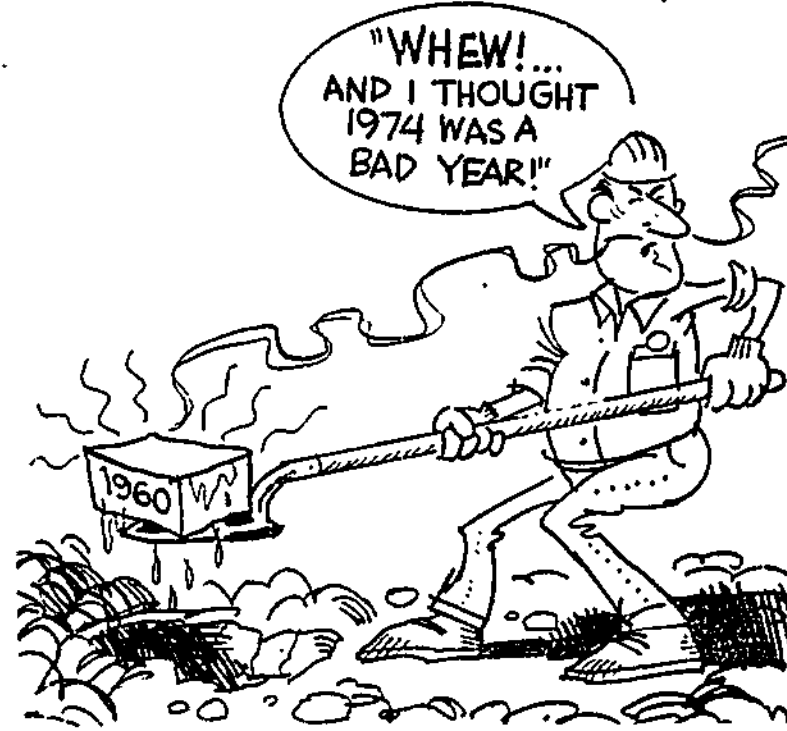

The capsule apparently had not been sufficiently weather-proofed and the contents of the capsule became damaged by water. Behrle said public works director Joseph J. Schwab tried to dry out the contents but the material was too badly damaged to salvage.

The material included pictures of the city's 125th anniversary celebration, a letter from the mayor and tapes of city council meetings. Schwab said the only undamaged articles were some balloons, a city flag and badges that had been distributed to participants at the anniversary activities.

The capsule was unearthed in conjunction with the removal of the flagpole. The pole will be relocated in front of the old municipal building while the old fire station will be torn down because it lies on the site of the new city hall complex.

Behrle said the capsule was buried when the flagpole was erected in 1960. "We didn't realize that even though we sealed it up so well that eventually water would seep into it," the mayor said. Behrle said no other time capsules are buried in the city.

City pressured by transit unit

by STEVE BROWN

Officials of the North Suburban Mass Transit District have apparently started a campaign to put pressure on Des Plaines officials to join NORTAN.

Several aldermen said they have been contacted by residents who were given flyers by NORTAN warning that Des Plaines would be without bus service in the near future unless the city joins the district.

Ald. George Olen, 2nd, said he also received letters from persons who live outside the city, but ride the buses, which are now operated by United Motor Coach Co., to work.

did suggest riders contact city officials and let them know they wanted the bus service continued.

NORTAN IS awaiting final approval of an agreement to purchase UMC for about $1 million. Once the sale is completed a number of local bus routes may be terminated unless the city agrees to provide operating subsidies.

Dijohn said federal and state funds to pay for the purchase of UMC should be Part-time mayor system suggested

Aldermen hit LWV plan for 2 city executives

by LUISA GINETTI

Several Des Plaines aldermen have taken exception to a League of Women Voters' proposal that the city retain a full-time mayor and add a full-time city administrator.

Speaking at a meeting of the city council code-and-judiciary committee, Aldermen Alan M. Abrams, 8th; Richard F. Ward, 8th; Gerald J. Meyer, 7th; and Carmen J. Sarlo, 6th, said they saw no reason to have two full-time executives to run the city.

"What would a full-time mayor do with a full-time administrator around," Abrams asked LWV representatives who were present at the meeting to explain the city government study report released this week.

ABRAMS SUGGESTED instead that the city go to a government served by a part-time mayor and a full-time administrator, as many surrounding communities have.

The alderman asked Mary Ann Randby, chairman of the LWV's study committee, how much consideration the league gave to the idea of adopting a part-time mayor system.

"We gave it a lot of consideration," Mrs. Randby said, "but we felt the process of changing to an administrator form of government has to be a slow process." Mrs. Randby added that the league did not rule out the option of reverting to a part-time mayor form of government in the future after an administrator becomes familiar with the city.

Gerald J. Meyer

Alan M. Abrams

Carmen J. Sarlo

Ward said the attitude of Mayor Herbert Behrle as reflected in his interview with the league which is included in the study seemed to present a stumbling block to a possible changeover from a full-time mayor to a part-time mayor, full-time administrator form of government.

IN HIS INTERVIEW Behrle said he saw the role of an administrative assistant as being "at the beck and call of the mayor."

Mrs. Randby said that the type of administrator the league had in mind is not the type of administrator the mayor described.

"In order to make the administrator form of government work, it will take the cooperation of the mayor, the aldermen and the department heads," said Susan D'Hondt, co-chairman of the LWV committee.

In its report the league said the position of full-time administrator should be created by ordinance with the mayor to appoint the administrator with the advice and consent of the city council.

The administrator should be chosen on the basis of professional training and experience in management, the report said, with all department heads to report to the administrator and the administrator to report to the mayor.

THE REPORT recommended the position be established as of April, 1977, but added that earlier employment of such a person be made so he can "benefit from the experience of the current administration and assume the defined duties as of April, 1977."

Meyer said he could not see the reasoning behind paying two full-time salaries and added that he did not believe residents would approve of such an expenditure.

"The administrator would turn into a full-time errand boy for the full-time mayor," Meyer said.

Sarlo said he did not agree with the league's recommendation to hire a full-time administrator and said he would prefer to see the city retain a full-time mayor to run the day-to-day affairs of the city.

Sarlo also expressed reservation with the league's recommendation that the council's 16 committees should be reduced to four. "With fewer committees I fear the mayor can make one or two people the most powerful by whom he designates on each committee and who he appoints as chairman," Sarlo said.

THE LEAGUE SAID the benefit of fewer committees is that each committee could meet on specific days and thus provide residents more opportunity to attend meetings. As the system exists now, the league said, dates for committee meetings become known week to week, creating difficulties for persons to plan ahead to attend.

League members also said by having fewer committees more consideration would be given to what gets designated to committee.

The league proposed the formation of a finance committee, a municipal development committee, a public health, safety and welfare committee and a public works committee.

Toastmaster Club to note 20 years

The Des Plaines Toastmaster Club will observe its 20th anniversary Saturday at the Maitre d' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village. All former members and their wives are invited to attend the 6:30 p.m. meeting.

Highlights of the club's history will be related by Bruce Wilson, toastmaster of the evening. Spence Chase, Ken Magnuson and Ken Bjorkquist, past district governors, will be honored at the gathering.

The Toastmaster Club's meetings are held at the Des Plaines Public Library the first and third Monday of the month at 7:30 p.m. A Speechcraft program is now in progress; new members and guests are invited to attend.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed.

The four city members then defeated

the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

State school chief speculation grows

Township OKs $50,000 for alcohol unit

The Maine Township Board of Auditors has authorized the expenditure of $50,000 to be used by the Maine Township Council on Alcoholism, it was announced by Township Supervisor James J. Dowd. The action was taken at the board's regular monthly meeting in October.

Although included in the current year's budget, authorization to release the funds has been delayed pending interpretation of a state law that prohibits townships from providing revenue-sharing money to agencies in existence less than one year. The council on alcoholism was formally incorporated in February of this year.

The question of existence was clarified by a recent letter from the State of Illinois' Dept. of Local Affairs which said the one-year requirement could be computed from the date the agency came into existence, not necessarily from the date of incorporation. Based on that opinion the board voted unanimously to release the $50,000 for council use.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR of the council, Jack Callaghan, who has been observing alcoholic treatment programs at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, said the decision to release the funds means that he can, and will, move forward with the organizing and staffing of the council.

Callaghan said he is also able to make specific plans to provide educational programs and referral services to township residents.

Although the expenditure of the $50,000 was authorized, the money will be released to the council as it is needed. The council, which is independent of the township government, is expected to eventually become self-supporting as contributions from businesses and individuals replace township grants.

$60,000 goal for 1974-75

Slivka to head Crusade drive again

The drive to raise $60,000 as Des Plaines, share of the 1974-75 Crusade of Mercy is being spearheaded by Raymond J. Slivka, who is serving again this year as campaign chairman.

Slivka, president of Truck Ranch, 2100 Busse Hwy., Elk Grove Village, is being assisted by a group of 14 community leaders who are heading the various divisions of the campaign which began Oct. 1.

Residential chairmen, also serving for a second year in their positions, are Mrs. Richard Cameron, 522 Arlington Ave., Mrs. L. E. Copeland, 1588 Algonquin Rd., and Mrs. Charles Triphahn, 1291 Second Ave., all members of the board of directors of Des Plaines Community Chest Inc.

INDUSTRY CHAIRMAN for the 1974-75 campaign is Artist V. White, manager wage and salary administration for Universal Oil Products Co., who is serving again in this division of the campaign, as well as a second term as president of Des Plaines Community Chest Inc.

Contacting the financial institutions is John W. Heddens, Jr., senior vice president of First National Bank of Des Plaines. Heading the professional division is attorney Steven C. Bonaguidi. Bonaguidi is associated with the law firm of Levander and McDonald, 770 Lee St. Dr. E. J. Baranowski is chairman of the hospitals and nursing homes division. Baranowski is director of Maine Township Mental Health Center, one of the 13 agencies which will share in the funds raised by the 1974-75 drive.

Harold Harrison, learning disabilities teacher at Iroquois Junior High School, is Crusade of Mercy chairman for Des Plaines Education Assn. and will solicit donations from Dist. 62 faculty members.

DIST. 62 administration and clerical personnel are being contacted by William S. Walter, principal of Plainfield School.

Community Chest campaign chairman at Maine West High School is Eldon Burk, assistant principal, who has been a faculty and administrative staff member there for 12 years. At Maine North the Community Chest story is being told by Tom Holten, driver education instructor, serving for the third year in this capacity as teacher representative.

Martin Schaer, personnel director for the City of Des Plaines, is in charge of contacting municipal employees for Community Chest donations for the second year. In addition to heading the campaign drive this year, Ray Slivka also is chairman of the clubs, organizations and churches division. Publicity chairman for this year's Community Chest campaign is Peggy Welter of Northwest Public Relations.

The thirteen agencies whose community services will be continued through the Des Plaines Community Chest and Crusade of Mercy funds include The Salvation Army Service Unit and Community Counseling Center, Des Plaines Girl Scouts, Northwest Suburban Homemaker Service, Des Plaines Boy Scouts, Clearbrook Center, Des Plaines YMCA, Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded, Des Plaines Camp Fire Girls, Maine Township Mental Health Assn., U.S.O. Inc., Des Plaines Police Boys Club and Northwest Suburban DayCare Center.

More than $117,000 will be disbursed to these agencies, $60,000 of which must be raised from the Des Plaines community.

Maine West band members plan show

The pregame and halftime shows for the 1974 Maine West High School homecoming today were planned by the student band staff.

Juniors Tim Keenley and Arvid Casler chose music and wrote charts for the pregame show, including the entry, the salute to visiting Deerfield High School and "team on."

The halftime show, a tribute to Maine West spirit, was written by Steve Chamberlin, Kathy Nickels, Mark Shekerjian, Melanie Hojst and Laurie Thompson. The show focuses on traditions associated with school spirit including the "Spirit Jug," the "West Echo" cheer and the new symbol of Maine West spirit "The Warrior."

The band will perform at a special homecoming assembly and will also march in the homecoming parade. The pregame show before the varsity game with Deerfield will feature the 200-member combined cadet, intermediate and marching bands.

Transit district reported pressuring city to join up turned over to the district in the next 30 to 45 days.

He indicated that UMC's recent appeal to the Regional Transportation Authority indicates the bus company is in dire straits. He added that it is hoped the company will be able to continue bus operations in Des Plaines until NORTTRAN takes over and that the city reaches some decision in the near future.

In addition to studying the possibility of joining NORTTRAN, which would cost about $65,000 annually, the committee also is looking into a proposal from the Chicago Transit Authority (CTA) for bus service.

The CTA would provide service, but the city would probably have to pay more for the new routes. The CTA has estimated its proposal for intracity routes and routes to O'Hare Airport and Chicago would cost about $700,000 per year. The city would probably be asked to make up the difference between money received in fares and the total cost.

Highland Park man charged in accident

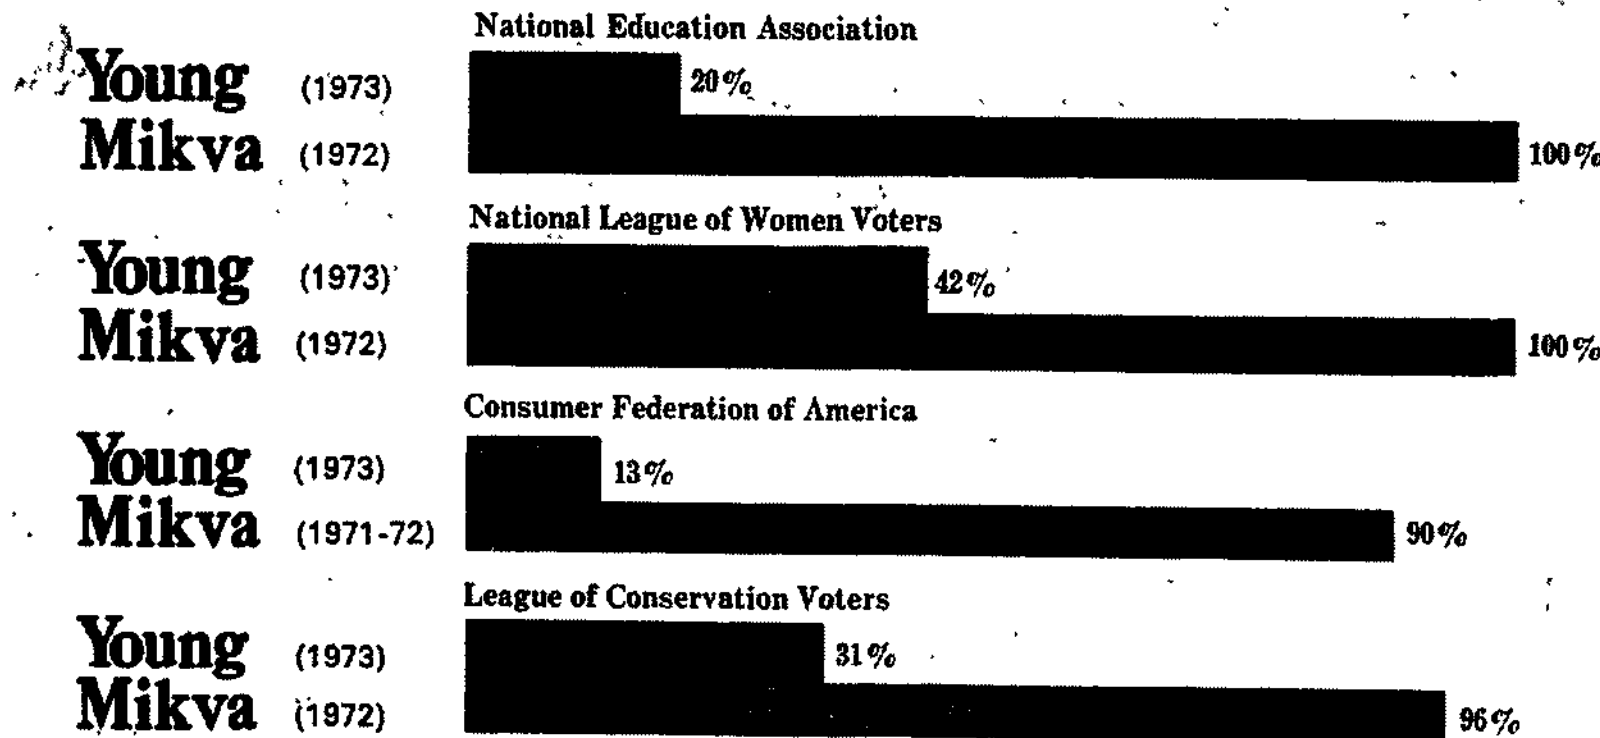

A Highland Park man was charged by Des Plaines police with failure to yield the right-of-way from a private drive Wednesday when the car he was driving struck an auto near Wolf Road and Jarvis Street.

Joseph M. Walters, 57, of 1207 Lynn Ter., was making a left turn northbound onto Wolf Road from a driveway at 2140 Wolf Rd. when he struck a vehicle headed southbound on Wolf Road, police said.

The driver of the second car, Lawrence D. Cambora, 24, of 3002 N. Ruth Ave., Franklin Park, was taken to Holy Family Hospital for treatment of bruises and a possible broken leg.

Shouldn't we send Congress the very best we have?

Abner Mikva and Samuel Young are the candidates for Congress in the 10th District. Since both of them have been in Congress, both have been rated by highly respected non-partisan groups on their votes in the House of Representatives. This is how it turned out.

A simple comparison: the votes of Abner Mikva on the important issues in 1972, the votes of Samuel Young on the important issues in 1973. The ratings are not political endorsements. They're much more important than that because they reflect the interests of each group in effective and progressive government and the candidates' response to them.

It all adds up. Abner Mikva Democrat for Congress.

Twinbrook Kiwanis supports woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lackadaisical attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to either reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

DIRECTORS of the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June International convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a no-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUMWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shumway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Palatine Kiwanis Pres. Thomas Lyons said his club "will not take a stand on the issue." He noted that club members have an opportunity to change bylaws at their national convention, "therefore, I don't think that they should be challenged."

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Boxleitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support (which he described as "appreciated.") Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the international became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

In hiring of engineering firm

MSD's methods hit by Trustee Alter

A Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee Thursday sharply criticized selection procedures used for consulting engineers who will design the Des Plaines portion of the tunnel and reservoir plan. She voted for the contract later in the meeting, however, after examining a financial audit of the firm.

Trustee Joanne Alter said at a Thursday MSD board meeting she had learned the engineering firm of Knoerle, Bender, Stone and Associates Inc. is a business affiliate of two other engineering firms which she believed had financial difficulties.

Mrs. Alter raised the questions of the financial problems as the sanitary district board prepared to award a $1,027,100 contract to the engineering firm for designs of the Des Plaines River portion of the tunnel and reservoir plan. She voted for the contract later in the meeting, however, after examining a financial audit of the firm.

SOUTHERN DES PLAINES will be served by the Des Plaines River portion of the underground tunnels in the sanitary district plan to eliminate flooding and river pollution caused by combined sanitary and storm-sewer systems.

Mrs. Alter said she believed the sanitary district procedures for selecting consulting engineers should be "as tight and as solid as can be devised."

"I'm not satisfied we have developed the most secure method, that is a method which would guarantee to the public that their best interests are served," she said.

But MSD Supt. Bart Lynam disagreed with Mrs. Alter and said the Illinois Dept. of Transportation — whose method of selecting consultants was praised by Mrs. Alter — had also recently signed a contract with Knoerle, Bender Stone and Associates.

"WE HAVE TO GO on track record. We negotiate more contracts than anyone else," Lynam said. He pointed out that the engineering firm currently employs former sanitary district general superintendent Ben Sosewitz, who is familiar with the MSD's tunnel and reservoir plan.

Mrs. Alter based her criticism of the engineering firm on information she said she had that two affiliated firms were financially troubled.

She argued a detailed system for choosing consultants in the future should include numerical ranking for various qualifications and possibly selection by a committee including private citizens, instead of having consultants chosen solely by MSD engineers.

Woman arrested for open burning

A 57-year-old Des Plaines woman was arrested by police late Wednesday for open burning in her backyard, police said.

Patrolman Paul Giovannoni saw the fire in the backyard at the home of Irene Blume, 1488 Oakton St., and called the fire department to extinguish the blaze. Police said Mrs. Blume was arrested for the same offense last week.

Mrs. Blume is scheduled to appear in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court Nov. 25.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces Sunday deadline

Twinbrook club may back stand on woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lackadaisical attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to either reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

DIRECTORS OF the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June international convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a ho-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUMWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shumway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Boxleitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support which he described as "appreciated." Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the international became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

Centex seeking to build 6,810 units west of 53

Centex Homes Corp. has asked to build 6,810 housing units on 990 acres west of Ill. Rte. 53 in Elk Grove Village, it was disclosed Thursday night.

Plans for the huge development were made public at a preliminary review session of the village plan commission, whose members reacted negatively to the high density of the Centex proposal.

The company is asking the village to approve use of several new development concepts such as cluster housing and zero lot lines. Centex had announced the concepts in discussions with village officials last March but the number of units planned for the project had not previously been made known.

Plan commission members, working for the first time with a new consultant to the commission, expressed opposition to the project density.

THE CONSULTANT, Alan Trayser, also said "the impact of the high density is considerable and should be a matter of concern."

The Centex plans show 3,516 townhouses and condominium apartments in buildings up to several stories on a 195-acre portion of the site. The remaining 795 acres would contain 3,294 detached and cluster houses.

Richard McGrenera, plan commission chairman, expressed the apparent sentiments of several commission members when he noted his enthusiasm for some of the development concepts in the Centex plan but said he opposes the density.

"On first look, this new land concept looked good on paper to us also," McGrenera told Trayser, during the meeting. "A closer examination shows that the development is a higher density than we thought. We like the idea of clusters of houses but thought more in terms of six in a group instead of 20."

Cluster and zero lot-line houses are built without usual sideyards, rear yards or setbacks, providing large areas of common open space that are not possible in traditional single-family subdivisions.

IN ADDITION to his comments about the density, Trayser, of the firm of Carl Gardner and Associates, questioned a village policy requiring 10 per cent of land in developments to be donated for public use.

The donation should be pegged to the density, Trayser said, with higher-density projects providing more public-use land. He said the Centex proposal does not include adequate provisions for recreation land and school sites.

The plan commission meeting was a preliminary review. A formal hearing on the Centex development will be held at a future date.

Boys football election

Elections to the board of the Elk Grove Village Boys Football Inc. will be held at Tuesday's general meeting. The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. at Lions Park Community Center, 180 Kennedy Blvd.

Retiree's new 'job' helps others

by MARILYN McDONALD
His job is making other people's jobs easier.

Richard Bachhuber, 59, has spent a year working part-time at the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. A retired engineer who worked for Sylvania for more than 20 years, Bachhuber puts his skill to work in designing tools and gadgets to make jobs easier for the Clearbrook trainees, many of whom are retarded or have multiple handicaps.

At the rehabilitation center trainees are taught janitorial and factory assembly work. Trainees work on projects jobbed out by local companies and earn a salary roughly equivalent to industrial wages. Some are eventually skilled enough to acquire jobs of their own.

Bachhuber began as a volunteer in September, 1973. He learned of the production engineer position through Clearbrook's director of public relations at the time, Sally Keeler. Mrs. Keeler had worked previously for High School Dist. 214, where Bachhuber is a school board member. This spring, when Bachhuber wanted to find part-time paid employment, Clearbrook arranged to pay him for his three days of volunteer service.

BACHHUBER, clad in work clothes, looks right at home in the workshop corner of the large rehabilitation building at 680 Lively Blvd. He often pauses in his work to talk to trainees, show them how to use a new gadget he's developed or work with a vocational counselor who needs help with a trainee.

"In production engineering you're talking about setting things up to help the trainees so they can earn a living," he

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed.

The four city members then defeated

the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

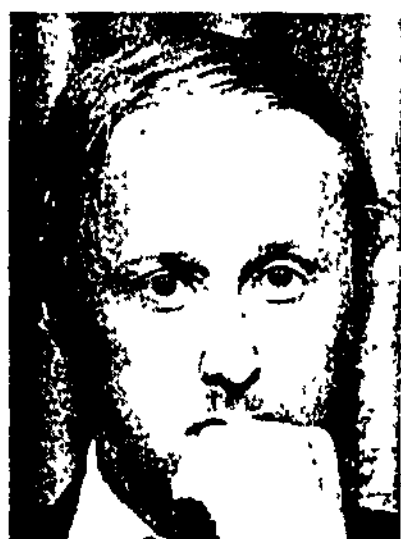

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly said. Many have the use of only one hand, so Bachhuber has designed and made an array of ingenious tools to help them do two-handed jobs.

One gadget was designed to help one-handed patients assemble dowels in elasticbound bunches of four. Bachhuber designed a wooden form that holds four dowels neatly in place. With one hand, the worker binds them with a metal clamp, and then slips rubber bands over each end.

Bachhuber has designed a machine to enable one-handed trainees to remove self-sticking labels from large paper rolls. Another machine helps a one-handed worker screw bolts into nuts by turning a crank that looks suspiciously like an old egg beater handle. A simple wooden trough holds slippery plastic bags in place so that one can be removed at a time.

BACHHUBER SAYS that he spends many hours in his home workshop designing tools he thinks the trainees could use. Clearbrook staff members say his creative aid has been invaluable in helping trainees learn a trade successfully.

And his mind is always busy thinking of new aids. As a Herald photographer finished taking his picture, Bachhuber wondered what could be done to put empty film canisters to use at Clearbrook's rehabilitation center.

Park board to oppose annexation effort

The Schaumburg Park Board will meet in special session Saturday morning to vote on a resolution objecting to the Elk Grove Park District's intent to annex about 195 acres in the eastern part of the Schaumburg district.

The board last week passed a motion saying all legal steps possible will be taken to oppose the Elk Grove district's attempt to disconnect and annex the property between Plum Grove and Meacham roads and north of the pipeline belonging to the Natural Gas Pipeline Co. of America.

The meeting will start at 11:30 a.m. at the Meineke Community Center, 220 E. Weatherfield Way.

Sunday is deadline to enter photo contest

Sunday is the deadline for local children to enter the photo contest sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Public Library.

Youngsters in grades three through six may enter either black-and-white or color photos of any subject taken with any kind of camera. Pictures must be submitted by 5 p.m. Sunday to the library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

Suspect arrested in antifreeze theft

An employee of an Elk Grove Village antifreeze distributor, has been arrested for the Wednesday theft of $7,000 worth of antifreeze.

Arrested is Arminas Pilas, 31, of 610 Carriage Way, Buffalo Grove. Pilas is free on $15,000 bond and must appear in the Elk Grove Village branch of Circuit Court Nov. 6 to answer a charge of theft.

According to police reports Pilas, an employee at the M. Loebe Co., 1925 Busse Rd., Elk Grove Village, allegedly loaded 100 cases of antifreeze from the firm's warehouse into a truck he rented and allegedly stole it.

Des Plaines officials found out firsthand Thursday that trying to save time in a bottle can be an elusive pursuit.

The revelation came after officials unearthed a 1960 time capsule buried underneath the flagpole in front of the old fire station next to the city hall, at Miner and Graceland streets.

The capsule contained memorabilia from the city's 125th anniversary celebration, 14 years ago, which officials, including Mayor Herbert Behrel, planned to read and display at the unearthing ceremonies.

WHEN THE capsule was retrieved, however, officials discovered that nature had gotten to the contents first and the net result was an unappealing aromatic mess of wet papers.

The capsule apparently had not been sufficiently weather-proofed and the contents of the capsule became damaged by water. Behrel said public works director Joseph J. Schwab tried to dry out the contents but the material was too badly damaged to salvage.

The material included pictures of the city's 125th anniversary celebration, a letter from the mayor and tapes of city council meetings. Schwab said the only undamaged articles were some balloons, a city flag and badges that had been distributed to participants at the anniversary activities.

The capsule was unearthed in conjunction with the removal of the flagpole. The pole will be relocated in front of the old municipal building while the old fire station will be torn down because it lies on the site of the new city hall complex.

Calls art 'balancing of meridians'

Acupuncture practitioner makes 'point' to Rotarians

by JERRY THOMAS

Alex Peros didn't "needle" Elk Grove Village Rotarians Thursday but the acupuncture practitioner used his hands and various other instruments to get his point across.

Peros told Rotarians meeting in the Maitre d' Restaurant in Elk Grove Village "acupuncture" is a misnomer. "The correct way to describe the art is as the balancing of meridians or meridian therapy," said Peros.

The use of needles in acupuncture is mainly for the theatrical effect said Peros, who said there are 30 different ways of acupuncture treatment.

THESE RANGE FROM mallet-like instruments to an ordinary swab stick and can make use of electric impulse.

"This is acupuncture," gestured Peros as he spread out his hands. Peros said a finger, or the hand, is an acupuncture instrument. Although Peros does not disclaim the use of needles in acupuncture, he maintains they are only one method and not the only form of acupuncture treatment.

Peros said he has great respect for those doctors who can place an acupuncture needle without a patient feeling pain. "When you can do this you are on the way to being a master, a road that takes at least 10 years," said Peros.

PEROS ALSO SAID he has little respect for the practitioner who takes a brief course in acupuncture and "gouges the public by charging $50 fees for one treatment and sends the patient home supposedly cured."

"Some cases take more time, and when I hear of this quick kind of cure I am not sure the patient is truly being helped," he said.

Peros does not contend that acupuncture heals the body. "The practice of meridian balancing, balances the body's energy and allows it to heal itself," said Peros.

"I don't heal, I balance," he said. Meridians are the smallest nerve endings that travel in predictable lines through the body, said Peros.

Peros was born and educated in South Africa, attended chiropractic colleges at Davenport, Iowa, and Glendale, Calif.

He has done graduate work at the Constead Clinic at Mount Horeb, Wis., and completed the first acupuncture residency program in the United States in Denver, Col.

Joins staff of hospital

Brother Louis Roncoli, who recently professed his first vows to the Alexian Brothers, has joined the department of public relations and development at Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village.

He is a graduate of St. John's University and received a Master's degree in psychology from New York University. His business background included social work, marketing and commercial financing.

Immediately prior to joining the Alexian Brothers in 1972 he was a marketing consultant to Walter E. Heller Co., an international finance corporation. He also served as a volunteer financial consultant to Calvary Hospital in the Bronx.

One school board member dissents

'Free textbook' referendum gets OK

by KATHERINE BOYCE

A referendum calling for the elimination of textbook fees received the go-ahead from the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education Thursday night over the objections of one board member.

Board member Edward Bedard voted against conducting the referendum Nov. 2, saying he questioned providing free books to children with tax money collected from the general public.

"Our responsibilities are to the general community, not just to students attending the school district," he said.

Bedard pointed to the increase in taxes this year and asked whether the district raised the tax rate in order to pay the book fees out of the school budget.

Dist. 54 BOARD Pres. Gordon Thoren said taxes were not raised for that purpose. He said Dist. 54 financial projections for the next five years show the district can afford to pay for books from surplus in the school budget.

Thoren said the decision to sponsor the referendum was made by the board following "my personal encouragement to provide free public education." The budget can "easily accommodate book fees," he said.

Bedard took issue with the word "free," saying schools are financed by tax dollars. By eliminating book fees, Bedard said Dist. 54 will be charging more to residents whose children do not attend public schools. "I'm not sure of the wisdom of raising the general tax rate and eliminating book fees," he said. "To me this is the action of a rich district and I don't think we are."

LAST YEAR Dist. 54 spent $168,882 on books and collected $112,796 in fees according to Associate Supt. Milton Derr. In 1971, Dist. 54 had a slight surplus of fees, Derr said, but since then has had a deficit. During the last four years the district collected $404,300 and spent $331,280 on books. Dist. 54 is in effect subsidizing about 24 per cent of the cost of books, he said.

Dist. 54 officials have stressed that taxes will not be raised if book fees are eliminated. Parents now pay $3.50 per year for kindergarten books and $7.50 for books used in first through eighth grades.

The board adopted a resolution calling for the Nov. 2 referendum by a 6 to 1 vote.

Time capsule succumbs—to time

Behrel said the capsule was buried when the flagpole was erected in 1960. "We didn't realize that even though we sealed it up so well that eventually water would seep into it," the mayor said.

Behrel said no other time capsules are buried in the city.

Trip to Ireland, local plays await arts guild participants

Coming attractions on the Elk Grove Arts Guild calendar of events, tours and happenings, range from a trip to Ireland to local showings of plays.

The guild is accepting telephone reservations for a Dec. 22 showing of the "Nutcracker Suite" at McCormick Place.

Richard Calish, head of humanities at Elk Grove High School, and co-chairman of the guild, said, "We've snared 120 tickets to the performance and have arranged for transportation."

ANYONE INTERESTED in attending may contact him at 439-4800 or co-chairman Mary Clark, head librarian at the Elk Grove Village Public Library, at 439-047.

The arts guild is a cooperative effort which coordinates library and high school cultural events and opens the program to the community. Calish said the guild's main goal is to make things available to families and individuals throughout the community, taking advantage of those programs or trips available through schools and library.

Although tickets are still available for the "Nutcracker Suite," other trips are booked solid. The Guild has arranged a trip to the Opera for a showing of "Falstaff" this month and the Alvin Ailey Ballet at the Auditorium Theatre, but no tickets are available for these events.

TICKETS ARE still available, however, for the Nov. 25 film screening of

"A Separate Peace," based on the book by John Knowles, and the January trip to the Goodman Theatre to see the play "Tis a Pity She's a Whore."

Reservations also are being accepted now for the March 19 trip to Arie Crown Theatre at McCormick Place to hear the Boston Pops Orchestra.

Anyone interested in further information about the upcoming spring trip to Ireland may contact Calish or Miss Clark.

Check swim pool laws

Is there a state law that says that private swimming pools must be fenced in with a locked gate?

No. However, you are advised to check with your municipal or county officials. Your community or county may have such an ordinance.

Grandparents' rights

Is it possible for natural grandparents to obtain court ordered visiting rights for children whose parents have been divorced?

No. However, as a practical matter, grandparents are given visitation rights corresponding with their child's rights to visitation. In any other case, their right to visitation would depend upon the cooperation of the custodial parent.

$22 million school bond issue before voters

Where you'll vote...

Polling places for High School Dist. 211's $22 million bond referendum Saturday will be set up in local schools.

Polls will be open from noon to 7 p.m. Voters must be at least 18 years of age, a citizen of the United States, a resident of the district for 28 days and registered to vote.

Polling places are located in 15 precincts as follows:

- Michael Collins School, 407 S. Summit Dr., Schaumburg.
- Twinbrook School, 400 Ash Rd., Hoffman Estates.
- Hillcrest School, 201 Hillcrest, Hoffman Estates.
- Hoffman School, 101 Grand Canyon St., Hoffman Estates.
- Campanelli School, 301 S. Springinsguth Rd., Schaumburg.
- Hanover Highlands School, 1451 Cypress Ave., Hanover Park.
- MacArthur School, 525 Chippendale St., Hoffman Estates.
- Dooley School, 622 Norwood Ln., Schaumburg.
- Anne Fox School, 1035 Parkview Dr., Hanover Park.
- Dirksen School, 116 Beach, Schaumburg.
- Link School, 800 S. W. Glenn Tr., Elk Grove Village.
- Sanborn School, 101 N. Oak St., Palatine.
- Paddock School, 225 W. Washington Ct., Palatine.
- Dist. 211 Administration Center, 1750 S. Roselle Rd., Palatine.
- Winston Churchhill School, 120 Babcock Dr., Palatine.

When voters go to the polls in High School Dist. 211 Saturday they will be asked to vote yes or no on a $22 million package for school construction.

The $22 million bond referendum will finance a sixth high school for Dist. 211 and additions to four schools including swimming pools and auditoriums. School officials expect all the projects to be completed in 1976 and 1977.

The bonds to finance the construction will be sold over a period of several years and according to figures quoted by school officials, the bonds will not increase taxes. New building construction in Schaumburg and Palatine townships should raise the assessed valuation of property in the district more than enough to cover the cost of school construction.

DIST. 211 Board Pres. Robert Creek said Tuesday the board has figured a "conservative" estimate of the increase in assessed valuation. The board has planned on a $50 million increase in property value each year, said Creek, but the actual increase was $100 million in 1972, $90 million in 1973 and school officials think the increase will go up to $90 million again this year.

The referendum package that will appear on the ballot Saturday includes:

- About $6.5 million for the district's sixth high school which is scheduled to open in 1977 north of the Winston Park subdivision of Palatine.

line. Voters approved the school in 1970 but due to inflation, the district has run out of funds for the project. The cost of the new school is estimated at about $15 million, including a swimming pool and auditorium. The district now has about $9 million on hand.

- About $6.3 million for an addition to Schaumburg High School, which would include a swimming pool, auditorium, classrooms for music and vocational education and more cafeteria space. The addition would increase the capacity of the building from 2,100 students to 3,000 students.

- About $3.25 million for a swimming pool and auditorium at Conant High School.

- About $4.25 million for a swimming pool, auditorium, air conditioning and minor remodeling at Fremd High School.

- About $1 million for a pool at Hoffman Estates High School.

- About $480,000 for a warehouse at the district administration center.

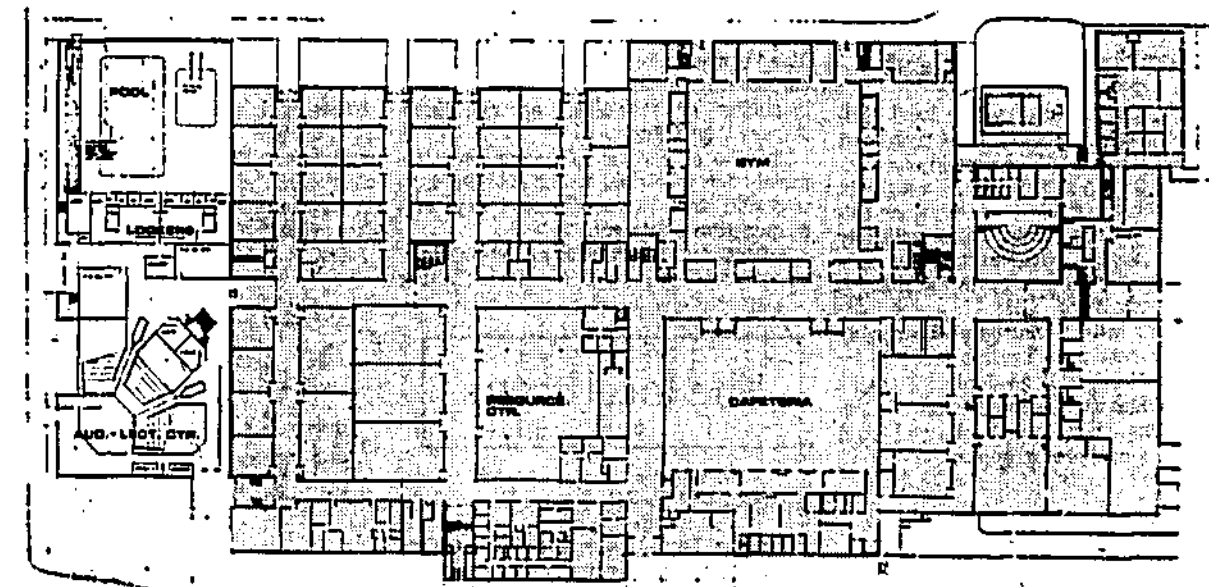

Polls will be open Saturday from noon to 7 p.m. The polling places are the same as those used for board of education elections.

Free textbook referendum gets 'green light'

A referendum calling for the elimination of textbook fees received the go-ahead from the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education Thursday night over the objections of one board member.

rate and eliminating book fees," he said. "To me this is the action of a rich district and I don't think we are."

LAST YEAR Dist. 54 spent $168,882 on books and collected $112,796 in fees according to Associate Supt. Milton Derr. In 1971, Dist. 54 had a slight surplus of fees, Derr said, but since then has had a deficit. During the last four years the district collected $404,300 and spent $331,280 on books. Dist. 54 is in effect subsidizing about 21 per cent of the cost of books, he said.

DIST. 54 officials have stressed that taxes will not be raised if book fees are eliminated. Parents now pay $3.50 per year for kindergarten books and $7.50 for books used in first through eighth grades.

The board adopted a resolution calling for the Nov. 2 referendum by a 6 to 1 vote.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed. The four city members then defeated the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

State school chief speculation grows

The local scene

Scout Olymporee on tap

The Boy Scout Pathfinder District Olymporee will be held today through Sunday at Elburn Forest Preserve, Ill. Rtes. 38 and 47 in Elburn. Boy Scout Troop 399, sponsored by the Hoffman Estates Woman's Club, has been designated official host of the Olymporee.

The troop will be responsible for the flag ceremony and setting up equipment and will act as messengers.

Basketball signup Saturday

Schaumburg Athletic Assn. will hold registration for basketball, including a new girls' league, from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. Saturday.

An experimental program for girls' basketball will be available for the first 72 girls to sign up. Those eligible are girls who will be 11 years old by Dec. 1, and includes 12 and 13-year-olds.

Boys' basketball is for 8 to 13-year-olds. There's no limitation on the number of registrants allowed.

Movie 'Treasure Island' set

The Schaumburg Park District will show the movie "Treasure Island" at 1 p.m. Saturday at Jane Addams Junior High School, 700 S. Springinguth Rd.

Admission is 25 cents per person. The movie is for children 5 years old and up. Youngsters who are 5 and 6 years old must be accompanied by an older person.

7 Scouts to attend Olymporee in Elburn

Seven members of Hoffman Estates Boy Scout Troop 197 will attend the Fall Olymporee beginning today in Elburn, Ill.

Troop members planning to attend the annual fall outing include Keith Bundgaard, Mark Cyphert, Greg and Morris Goodwin, Chris Horne, Alan and Earl Lubow and John Wagner.

Austin Goodwin is scoutmaster. The group is sponsored by Hillcrest PTA.

Fall festival at Hoffman High

Hoffman Estates High School won't have a homecoming this year because the school doesn't have any alumni. That's a minor point as far as students are concerned — they're going to celebrate anyway.

The student council has planned a full day of activities Saturday for their fall festival. The school opened last year and now has freshmen, sophomore and junior classes.

At 8:30 a.m. the school's undefeated Hawks junior varsity football team will take on the Hershey High School Huskies.

A pancake breakfast is scheduled at the school from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Prices are $1.75 for adults and $1.25 for children.

A powder-puff football game will follow the junior varsity game. The junior girls will play against the freshmen and sophomore girls as junior and sophomore football players cheer them on.

At 1 p.m. two events are scheduled, a 25 mile bike race on the school campus, and a soccer game. A battle of the bands will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Bands participating are Atlantis, East Iron Shore, and Sarnuth. Fortune telling and body painting also are planned during the contest.

The festival will conclude with a semi-formal dance "Shinin' On" from 8 to 11 p.m. Tickets are $3.50 per couple.

Sunday is deadline to enter photo contest

Sunday is the deadline for local children to enter the photo contest sponsored by the Elk Grove Village Public Library.

Youngsters in grades three through six may enter either black-and-white or color photos of any subject taken with any kind of camera. Pictures must be submitted by 5 p.m. Sunday to the library, 101 Kennedy Blvd.

Enforcement of driveway law delayed?

Enforcement of a 1972 Hoffman Estates ordinance requiring that all driveways be paved may be put off for now.

The closing of asphalt plants for the season will make it difficult for residents who have not complied with the ordinance to do so, Administrative Asst. John Dixon said Thursday. He added, however, the village may decide to test the ordinance and force compliance.

The 1972 ordinance requires that any property used as a driveway be paved with cement or asphalt. The ordinance was made retroactive, meaning residents in the village's older sections were required to comply even though their homes were built before the ordinance was adopted.

PENALTY FOR noncompliance was set at $25 to $500 per day.

Letters advising of the ordinance were sent in June to 101 homeowners including many in the Parcel A subdivision, the village's oldest section, giving 60 days to complete driveway paving.

At the time several residents protested, saying the retroactive requirement was unfair. Some in the Parcel A subdivision appeared before the village board arguing that compliance with the driveway ordinance also might subject residents to meet other building code requirements which were not in effect when their homes were built.

They complained the paving would cost as much as $500.

THE STRIKE BY cement truck drivers this summer prohibited many from completing the paving, and the closing of asphalt plants may further delay enforcement of the ordinance, Dixon said.

He added that half of those notified have done the work, with most of those the most seriously in need of paving. "The fortunate thing for the village is all the blatant violators have complied," he said.

Dixon said a test case may be attempted to determine if compliance from those who had driveways before 1972 would be required.

"We're not sure what we will do," he said. "No other letters have been sent to residents since the first mailing advising of the ordinance."

Fire station may be ready soon as communications unit

Fire Station No. 3 may be ready to serve as communication headquarters for the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District (HEFPD) in early November.

Deputy Fire Chief Edward Kalasa Wednesday night said four radio operators should be hired after Nov. 1 to begin duties at the station, 1700 Moon Lake Blvd. Fire officials are interviewing about 25 persons who have applied for the jobs.

Fire Chief Carl Solke and training officer Lt. Robert Scholl have set up their offices at the new station. It is unknown when the station would be fully manned because the village is making plans to transfer fire jurisdiction from the district to the village. Village officials have said they will close Fire Station No. 2 on Has-sell Road and use the men at Station No. 3.

KALASA SAID ONLY minor work remains to be done on the structure. Completion of the facility has been delayed by construction problems ranging from poor roof construction and shortages in steel supports to last spring's cement truck drivers' strike and lack of the proper color brick mortar.

District trustees Wednesday approved a $2,275 bid for landscaping from Charles Klehm and Sons Nursery of Arlington Heights.

In other business, the board approved paying off $100,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants.

Break ground today for 1st bowling alley

Groundbreaking ceremonies for Schaumburg Lanes Inc., the village's first bowling alley, will be today at the 117 N. Roselle Rd. site of the 40-lane facility.

It will be owned and operated by Tony Ceresa, president of Frontier Lanes Inc., Elgin.

The lanes will be equipped with the latest Brunswick Astroline gear, including automatic scorers.

The facility, scheduled to open next spring, will include a lounge though restaurant facilities are not planned.

Homecoming fun booms at school

Homecoming festivities at Schaumburg High school will reach a high point this weekend with the homecoming parade, dance and football game against the Elk Grove High School Grenadiers.

The parade begins at 10 a.m. Saturday with nine floats, cheerleaders, baton twirlers, marching band, homecoming queen and court and the Schaumburg fire and police departments.

The parade will form at Addams Junior High School, 700 Springinguth Rd., and proceed north on Springinguth, east on Weathersfield Way, north on Braintree Road and east on Schaumburg Road to the high school.

The junior varsity football game will follow at noon and the Saxon's varsity team will play at 2 p.m. The dance will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday. Admission is $5 per couple or $2.50 for students with an activities pass.

HOMEOMING THEME this year is "Casino Royale." Today is class color day and there will be a powder-puff football game at 3 p.m. with the senior girls challenging the faculty women.

The homecoming queen also will be announced today. Candidates are Robin Honee, Sue Ingerski, Jan Conrad, Dalon Haley and Jackie Pujol. Attendants are freshmen Karen Scholz, Mary Demma, Randi Humpal, Debi Ingerski, Jan Lara; sophomores Debbie Sheldon, Sandy Hamp, Sue Viviano, Nancy Oster, Cindy Leman; juniors Jackie Turnwall, Donna Cabrera, Laura Wagner, Karin Gorr; and seniors Laura Kozak, Katie Benson, Lynn Moro, Mar Harrington and Robin Moore.

A varsity-football baby picture contest began Tuesday at the school. Wednesday was jeans and T-shirt day and the ball decorating contest. Thursday was "Mafia Day" when students dressed as gangsters.

Hotel reports series of thefts from safe

A series of thefts totaling about $1,080 in cash from a deposit safe was reported Wednesday by officials of the Sheraton-Walden Inn, 1723 E. Skywater Dr., Schaumburg.

Police were told there apparently were three thefts during October, but that hotel officials did not immediately report them because they thought there might be an error in bookkeeping.

Police said they could not find any signs of forced entry on the safe.

'Fergie's Army' builds spirit

by DOROTHY OLIVER

There's a mighty band of militants at Schaumburg High School this year. Dubbed Fergie's Army, they've taken up a battle against apathy.

The band of 22 seniors are distinguishable by the red army helmets they wear at pep assemblies, football games and any other spirited occasion.

"We started it the beginning of last year," said Gary Frontier, 305 Wellesley Ln., Schaumburg, organizer of the group. "We got a bunch of guys together and got the helmets from an army surplus store, painted them red and went to all the games." We called ourselves 'Fergie's Army' after the head football coach Bob Ferguson.

The Army has grown from 9 to 22 members in a year and Frontier said more want to join. Membership, however, is limited "to the guys. But the girls sit all around us."

"Our purpose is to arouse school spirit," Frontier said. "Ever since I was a freshman I watched the situation at Schaumburg. The whole student body was too apathetic — with a lot of apathy on the higher levels, with the juniors and seniors."

"Basically, in the past a lot of the guys came to the game and didn't appreciate what the guys were doing on the field," he continued. "These guys, in the Army, come to the game to concentrate on what they're doing on the field."

Most of the Army are on Schaumburg's baseball team or active in other sports. "Since we play athletics we know what it means to get support," Frontier said.

In its short history, the Army has already known small successes. At the school's first assembly all the members wore their helmets and joined in with their loudest cheers. In a competition between classes, the seniors won a sword and shield for the loudest cheering.

"Kids are more spirited this year than last year," said Frontier. "Last year our team came in second in our division of the Mid-Suburban League and that helps in terms of fan support."

"We haven't had any hassle from the other kids, nobody has made fun of us. In fact, I think we've gained a little respect. Those that don't like it kind of let us live."

The army is taking an active part in Schaumburg's Oct. 19 football game against Elk Grove. "The school owns an army surplus truck and the principal (Carl Weimer) gave us permission to use it in the parade."

"Homecoming is pretty special to most of the kids. Even when I was a freshman it was that way," said Frontier. "This year it will probably be the most packed game of the year. I think people are sick of seeing things as they used to be."

THE CHEER RESOUNDS for the Saxons during weekend football games — and the loudest fans in the stands are the guys in the red helmets, known as Fergie's Army. Taking their name from head Army are promoting school spirit at Schaumburg football coach, Bob Ferguson, the 22 seniors in the High School.

Schaumburg can clinch South title Saturday

Bob Ferguson and his Schaumburg gridders know what pressure can do to a ball club. In the Saxons' case, that extra ingredient has helped Ferguson's squad to consecutive victories over Rolling Meadows and Forest View.

Schaumburg has one more pressure-packed game to go.

Tomorrow at 2 p.m. the Saxons will host Elk Grove in front of a huge homecoming crowd. A win for Schaumburg would clinch first place in the South Division of the Mid-Suburban League.

"It's all over if we win this one," said Ferguson. "We've had the monkey on our backs for two weeks now. We can't lie down and die after we've worked so hard to get where we are."

The Saxons have a one-game lead over rivals Elk Grove, Forest View, Rolling Meadows, and Prospect. A win over the Grenadiers Saturday would give the Saxons the head-to-head edge over each of those four teams, so even a loss to Conant in the final game of the season couldn't deprive Schaumburg of the South title.

"I think we'll go with what's been good for us," said Ferguson. "That's the running game. We'd like to go to the air a little more against Elk Grove, though. We feel we have a good passing game and we'd like to utilize it because I'm sure Elk Grove will be run-conscious."

On defense the Saxons will have to contend with the most productive running-backs in the league. It should be an interesting matchup, since Schaumburg boasts the second-best rushing defense in the conference.

"We know who their fine runningbacks are," Ferguson said, "but we've stopped Bernhardt (of Arlington) and Matzl (Forest View), so we've gone against the best."

"But we're not going to sell them short on their passing," the Saxon coach continued. "They lull you to death on running, but when they go to the pass it's usually the home run. We've got to be ready for anything. This is a big game for them, too."

Big games are nothing new to Elk Grove's head coach, Don Schnake, and if his Grens are going to take part in any of the post season cake cutting they'll have to whip Schaumburg this week and Prospect next.

The Grens are coming off a smarting 3-0 loss to Rolling Meadows, a loss that hurt Elk Grove in more places than the standings. Schnake's squad has been hobbled by injuries but, was always, Schnake is giving up nothing without a fight.

"Schaumburg is physical," Schnake said. "But I think everybody knows that."

"All I can say is that we'll go after 'em like we've gone after everybody else."

The running backs who will have to do most of the getting are John Willard, the MSL's leading rusher, and Tom Roberts, who ranks fourth in the league. Elk Grove's offense has leaned heavily toward the ground game all season as demonstrated by their 1151 yards rushing to 132 yards passing.

If Willard and Roberts can get outside of Schaumburg's defense, and they have the speed to do it, the Grens may find they have not only gone after the Saxons but have caught them and sent the MSL South Division into the final week for positive clarification.

Homecoming on Harper's campus for 1st time

by CHARLIE DICKINSON

"I've told this team," John Eliasik said, "that they could play this game in an alley. They have to win to get their pride back and to build up confidence in themselves."

"Sure it'll be nice to play at home but I don't think it will really make much of a difference in the game."

Harper's football team, smudged after two straight defeats, will finally play a game on the campus itself after four years of being "home" at Conant High School and Fremd High School.

The football field that was so long in preparation has finally received bleachers and a fence to keep the spectators away from the field and tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. the Hawks will entertain the College of DuPage on Homecoming.

The location of Harper's games didn't seem to make any difference at all up until two weeks ago. The Hawks were 4-0 and highly thought of throughout the nation.

Then the Hawks were staggered by losses to Rock Valley and Thornton. The Thornton loss was especially painful in view of the fact that Harper committed six turnovers and one costly mistake that led to a touchdown the first half.

"Every loss hurts," Eliasik said. "But losing to Thornton was embarrassing. This team needs the personal challenge of the DuPage game."

DuPage's head coach, for one, is hoping the Hawks fold as they did last season after sustaining some tough losses.

"We know what happened to them last year," said Richard Miller, who has guided his team to a 1-3-1 record. "They lost some tough ones, especially to Rock Valley, then laid down and died. We're hoping they do the same thing again."

"A team needs to get in the habit of winning and losing two straight never helps. Once you get out of the habit it's easy to call it quits. I've seen Harper do it before and they could easily do it again."

Ominously, Eliasik considers DuPage a better team than Thornton despite a record that includes losses to Triton, Wright and Joliet.

Rose Bowl pact needs study

Time is right for change

That glorious game they call college football may be headed for one of its most inglorious post-season shows.

There's a very good possibility two of the top three college football teams in the nation for 1974 will not play in bowl games.

If that doesn't give the college game a black eye, then nothing will.

I'm a great fan of college football ("Win one for the Gipper" and all that sort of stuff), but I can't get too worked up over post-season bowls that could be missing two of the top three teams.

The Associated Press currently ranks Ohio State, Oklahoma and Michigan in the top three positions in its football poll. Who could argue with that?

Now the problems begin. Oklahoma is on probation and ineligible again for post-season bowl play, and Ohio State and Michigan play in a conference that unfortunately is tied into a restrictive Rose Bowl agreement with the Pacific-8.

One squad from each league is permitted to participate in the Rose Bowl, and the other 16 members are not allowed to consider offers from other highly-attractive bowls.

Yes, Michigan, I know you understand how the Rose Bowl rule works. I know you tied Ohio State last year and stayed home and watched the Rose Bowl on television.

Times are changing in the Big 10. The non-conference record in football admittedly has been embarrassing through the years, but the league is enjoying one of its finest seasons down the line. Somebody besides Ohio State and Michigan is making some noise although the Buckeyes and Wolverines still are the loudest.

But no matter how much progress is made throughout the conference in football the Rose Bowl pact never changes. As it stands now, it serves (1) the National Broadcasting Co., (2) the venerable Rose Bowl committee and (3) the superpowers of the two conferences.

They seem to forget in all the political maneuvering that there are some financially-troubled "upper-middle chal-

Bob Frisk
Sports Editor

gers" in the two conferences who desperately need the bowl games — and the cash.

The greatest concern in the Big 10 in the 1970s — perhaps with the exception of the recruiting nightmare — is that these "upper-middle challengers," like Illinois now as an example, may not in this decade or perhaps even the next decade reach the level of Ohio State or Michigan.

Did you see what Ohio State did to a decent Wisconsin team last Saturday? I mean, that was frightening. Wisconsin is not that bad and they were massacred, 52-7. Awesome. When will it end?

It has to be feared that the separation between the "haves" and the "have-nots" is becoming greater no matter what anyone says, and the Rose Bowl pact may be a contributing factor in these two leagues.

The Rose Bowl currently provides the super power with (1) more money, (2) additional prestige (3) another "season" to perfect its techniques, (4) continuing incentive and (5) a fantastic tool for recruiting.

The weaker football teams have generally smaller crowds and less money to operate the total athletic program. Athletically speaking, these schools become less appealing.

The Pac-8 appears hesitant to change the agreement as it now stands because NBC dictates. The Rose Bowl pays practically as much as all the other bowls combined, and NBC feels strongly about the exclusiveness of the pact.

That still doesn't answer the question of how it would really hurt the Rose Bowl if Michigan or UCLA, for example, had played in other bowls last January?

Many of the coaches in the two leagues have been outspoken in their support of a new agreement. They want to go to other bowls if selected. The various other bowl people want it. The vast majority of media people want it. The players want it and it figures the fans would want it.

NBC apparently feels it has a locked-in Pacific Coast and Midwest audience, and the ratings seem to bear this out. They feel the sponsors are paying for the exclusivity of the Rose Bowl.

But whatever the feelings of NBC and the Rose Bowl Committee, there is no way the Jan. 1 game in Pasadena would be conducted without a Pac-8 team.

The Pac-8 is in the position to dictate terms which are in the best interest in the conference, and the Big 10 is obviously not in that strong position.

The Big 8, for example, has agreed to send its champion to the Orange Bowl every year. In case of a tie (listen now, Michigan) the Orange Bowl committee picks the team it wants. They don't let the league decide as was the case with the Big 10 picking Ohio State over Michigan.

The Orange Bowl also has a probation clause. If the Big 8 champion is on probation, they can select any team and they never think of exclusivity. They go on record as saying they don't care if other Big 8 teams go elsewhere.

The Big 8 has it made. The league champion goes automatically to the Orange Bowl and the also-rans can seek other opportunities.

This is a policy which will only serve to strengthen an already deep and balanced conference, but the Big 10 performance against the Big 8 and Pac 8 this year shows a league on the way back and a league deserving of more bowl exposure.

The Big 10 can deal from strength now, and that's important. It's time they took the blinders off and showed a little muscle at the bargaining table.

Unbeaten St. Viator hosts St. Patrick tonight

by MIKE KLEIN

There are those people who say football coaches are hard-nosed egotists bent upon ensuring their own glory by manipulating young men whom they soon forget and never truly appreciated anyhow.

You've undoubtedly heard that somewhere. It's one of the truly sick ideas some people have in their heads.

There are no great athletic reasons that Jim Lyne should remember Richard Squares (not his real name). Richard played football for Lyne at Hales Franciscan back in the late 1960s.

"It took him two years to learn the difference between offense and defense," laughed Lyne whose unbeaten and state ranked St. Viator outfit hosts St. Patrick at eight o'clock tonight in Prospect's stadium. It's homecoming for the Lions.

The entire point about Richard Squares is Lyne holds a high place for the kid even though he wasn't much at football. It's hard to forget someone whose life you saved.

"He almost drowned once. We're at a football camp and he jumps in the deep end, can't swim a stroke," Lyne remembered. "So he's drowning and everybody's looking at me because I'm the coach."

"I went in to get him and he pulled me under. I saved him for laughs. The first thing he says is, 'Wow, it was just like a big whirlpool.' He was 5-foot-7, 220 pounds, very strong and not too quick with his feet or head, but a beautiful kid."

Richard was a Blue-Shirter at Hales. He's one of dozens who held dumplings, got knocked on his can, picked himself up and then got flattened again. He always came back the next day.

"There is no such thing as a bad high school football player," Lyne stated. "Any kid who's willing to stand out there holding bags, getting his head busted running the other team's plays, that's quite a kid. It takes a great deal of inner strength to do those things."

Anyone who's seen St. Viator knows the Lions have great talent. Until someone proves otherwise, they're the best Class 5A football team in Illinois.

But you know something, they're a team of former Blue-Shirters, kids who got knocked around like Richard Squares.

The classic example, Lyne says, is Lion defensive end Mark Michuda whose older brother, Andy, starred at Viator and plays at the University of Wisconsin.

"I saw Michuda drive himself to almost total exhaustion on a Monday practice," Lyne remembered. "It scared me. But that's how these kids have learned to play football."

"Michuda is highly motivated. After last season, he worked hard with the weights. He walks out there this season and he's a starter. Another one is (offensive tackle) Steve Leahy. He captained our Blue team last year. I don't think he got in one play during a game."

Ten Lion starters, six offensively and four defensively, played Blue-Shirt football last year when Viator fielded a senior dominated team that went 7-2.

Leahy, offensive guard Matt Hower and tight end Larry Ostling spent their season running opponents' plays. Bobby Walsh, Viator's line quarterback, started at defensive safety but he also was a Blue-Shirter offensively.

Michuda, defensive tackle John Romano and cornerback Pat Bucaro, who doubles at split end, also worked on the Blue team.

One of Viator's greatest success stories is right corner Terry Frett who never played one down of football until this season. "Here's a kid who's doing a good job on one of the best teams around," Lyne said. "That's really something."

Usually, the Blue-Shirters are juniors such as Tim Horvath who's "just two steps away from being a real good football player. He does everything right. You just hope he grows a little bit."

But talk about unsung heroes and up pops somebody like Blue-Shirter, John McShea, a senior offensive back who won't play much and he knows it. But McShea gives you an effort. At Carmel, he recovered a kick off fumble that led to one of Viator's eight touchdowns.

Boys Club roundup

Bernard took his Panthers on a 60-yard scoring drive with Tony Sampantato tallying from eight yards out, as the Panthers beat West Chicago, 48-14. St. Viator's play and strong defensive work by the Panthers preserved the victory. The only enemy threat was halted on an interception by Mike Kusella. Other standouts for the Panthers were Greg Yoder, Bill Busch, Brian Nolan, Scott Blair, and Lenny Murphy.

Other Boys Club scores: Crusaders 12, Buffalo Grove 9; Titans 19, West Chicago 0; Hanover 33, Trojan 0; Rams 14, Glenview 12.

Schedule for Oct. 19: B.C. Rams at Hanover Park, 6:30; B.C. Colts host Schaumburg, 9:30; B.C. Knights at Hanover, 11:00.

Schedule for Oct. 20: B.C. Panthers at Glenview, 3:00; B.C. Titans at Glenview, 1:00.

Conant plans Saturday homecoming

Conant High School graduates will return Saturday for the Cougars' homecoming to witness a team Ralph Losce says, "Is much better than their record," knock noggins with Forest View.

Conant is 2-4 overall and 1-1 in the conference and while any Championship hopes went out the window weeks ago the Cougars will definitely have something to say about who wins what.

"I think the chance we have to be spoilers has the kids up," Losce said. "I'm also hoping the fact that it is homecoming will get them up."

To accommodate alumni who have to make a long trip back to their old stomping grounds the game time has been switched from Friday evening to Saturday afternoon.

"We still think we can beat any team we play," Losce said. "This is a really fine team. We just need a few more kids, I think."

The game Saturday will showcase two of the more highly thought of quarterbacks in the conference, Forest View's Jim Petran and the Cougars' Bob Borczak.

Petran, while guiding his Falcons to a 3-2 conference record, has taken the league lead in both passing and total offense away from Hersey's Scott Topczewski while Borczak ranks fourth in passing and second in total offense.

Two talented receivers are more often than not on the opposite end of the two quarterbacks' aerial gifts, Neil Schmidt of Forest View and Mark Losce of Conant.

Losce has caught more passes (22) than Schmidt (18) but for considerably less yardage and two fewer touchdowns.

"Bob is quite a different quarterback than Petran," Losce said. "I think Bob is a very physical type player. If there isn't room he'll make some for himself."

"Bob is also a better passer when he's set while Petran rolls out more. But Bob is such a good running threat that he doesn't drop back as much as he could."

"Forest View is one heckuva football team and have one of the best offenses around and Petran is a fine athlete. But I think Bob is about the most physical quarterback in the conference."

Losce may be correct in his observation that they aren't as bad as that 2-4 mark. Conant is third in the conference in both offense and defense behind such heavies as Hersey, Rolling Meadows and Forest View.

Conant has Forest View this week and Schaumburg next. The uneasy fate of two football teams with title aspirations lies in the quick and eager hands of the Cougars.

Forest View head coach Fred Lussow has reverted back to one of the elementary phases of the game to prepare the Falcons for Conant.

"We're stressing tackling this week," Lussow stated. "After playing Schaumburg (a 43-37 overtime Falcon loss), I don't think I've seen worse tackling this year. That and the fact that we misread a lot of keys really hurt us and I really don't know why it happened."

"If anything, I was pleased with the way we battled back after being down early. I think it was 31-15 at the half and we came back and tied them and actually had a tremendous opportunity to win it."

But wishful thinking, second-guessing and posing "ifs" from a week ago won't help Forest View beat Conant. "Nobody has really beaten them badly," Lussow was quick to mention "and Conant was leading a couple of them going into the fourth quarter."

When it came down to specifics, Lussow was fast to respect the passing combination of Borczak-to-Losce in addition to the Cougars' tough off-tackle power offense.

"We know we have a rough ball game Saturday," the Falcon coach emphasized. "Conant has a lot to say about who wins the South and if anybody thinks they can afford a letdown this week has got to be kidding."

Mustangs, Knights in key matchup

It is just one of life's usual little ironies that the team picked by Mid-Suburban League coaches to win it all and the aquag pedged by those same gentlemen six weeks ago to mop up the cellar, meet on pretty equal terms tonight . . . about eight days away from the end of the regular season.

That would be the Prospect at Rolling Meadows contest, one of several phases of an elimination process being conducted by the Mid-Suburban League's South Division down the stretch run. "We feel we have a chance," contributed one of the involved head coaches, Knight Dave Keefe, but he added, "It certainly has to be one of the biggest tasks we've faced all season."

bell as the foe his club's been most concerned about all week.

"Meadows has good big linemen, a strong passing attack, a solid running game, a great punter, excellent balance. Above all though, they have a fine quarterback in Breitbell who does a lot of things well. When you talk about trying to contain this team, you have to start with him."

Keefe did take time to dwell momentarily on last week's 26-16 Prospect victory over Conant, and cite some of the youngsters who performed well including two-way tackle Randy Clark, linebacker Paul Youngquist and timely blocking split end Tim Twitcheil.

He hinted that more of the same is expected this week, from these and many more, if the Knights hope to remain in contention.

Rolling Meadows head coach Angelo Barro couldn't be more impressed with Keefe's accomplishment in just one year at the Prospect helm.

"He's really made good use of his backs this year," Barro noted. "Those two big juniors (Keith Mason and Don Meyer) are big, hard runningbacks and (Mike) Quade is very capable of running from their option offense and throwing the football. In fact, we expect them to pass a little more against us than they have in the past couple weeks."

In the face of the Mustangs' 3-0 squeaker over Elk Grove last week, Barro couldn't help but praise the efforts of linebackers Jim Waswo and Bill Bremer as well as his defensive ends and secondary.

"They've really come alive and are playing as a complete unit. They'll be tested by those two big Prospect backs and Jack Devero who seems to deliver their homerun play. He's a real break-away threat."

But while the Prospect confrontation looms as Rolling Meadows' most immediate problem, Barro reflected on the importance of Saturday's Elk Grove-Schaumburg clash.

"We have to win Friday night before we can think about Saturday's game, but Elk Grove does hold a key to the way the South Division will stack up."

Regardless of what transpires on the Mustangs' field, the game will showcase two potential candidates for the Herald's Athlete of the Year Award in three-sport standouts Steve Breitbell of Meadows and Quade.

Hoffman Estates Athletic Assn. football highlights

The unbeaten Widget League Browns and the powerful Pee Wee Bears rolled merrily on their way towards division titles in last Saturday's Hoffman Estates Athletic Association football action.

The Browns scored twice in the first few minutes and ran away from the Falcons, 29-7, while the Bears made amends for their season-opening and lone loss by trouncing the Packers, 20-12.

In other HEAA action, the Vikings topped the Steelers, 12-7, in what might be labeled a mild upset, the Chargers shut out the Cowboys, 20-0, and the Saints upset division-leader Lions, 13-6 — in Pee Wee play, while the Buffalo Grove Americans proved poor hosts to the visiting Chiefs, 12-0, on the Harper college ground.

And, in HEAA varsity action, the Commandos rolled on unbeaten, sliding past Glenview, 7-0, while the Raiders succumbed for the first time this season, 20-0, to the unbeaten Glenview Eagles.

It was expected that the Vikings would give the high-flying Browns a real battle in the Widget League, but instead, the Browns struck with early power and completely overwhelmed the Falcons.

For all intents and purposes the game was over in the first five minutes. On the first play from scrimmage, the Browns pounced on an errant Falcons pitchout on the losers' 20, advanced to the 15 on an offside infraction and then sent Bob Ryan through tackle on a 15-yard TD scamper. Craig Solvie burst over for the conversion.

Then, on the first play again, the Falcons fumbled, and in no time it was Ryan diving over guard for his second of three six-pointers, Steve Riggs' slant adding the extra point.

The game settled down for a few minutes, the Browns finally moving for a third score when a Falcons punt bucked strong winds and went for a minus six yards. Ryan finally burst over from the five and scored his 19th point of the game on the conversion attempt.

The Falcons then had trouble with the Browns reserves, taking almost six minutes before three successive quarterback sneaks by Eric Goeden from the 10-yard line put the Falcons on the scoreboard. Goeden then slanted in for the conversion. The second half was nip-and-tuck, more the type of game fans expected. The Browns pushing over their final TD late in the fourth quarter, Riggs diving in from the four, with Ryan adding the conversion.

Riggs led all ball carriers with 97 yards; Goeden again proved himself to be the Falcons top rusher, with 85 yards in 13 attempts; he also intercepted a pass and was credited with eight tackles, one behind team leader Scott Crutchfield. Riggs and Mark Offenburger intercepted passes for the Browns, while fumble recoveries were made by Jim Fabbri and Riggs.

It was expected that the Vikings would give the high-flying Browns a real battle in the Widget League, but instead, the Browns struck with early power and completely overwhelmed the Falcons.

For all intents and purposes the game was over in the first five minutes. The Packers scored a third period touchdown on the Bears reserves before the Bears closed the scoring in the final stanza on a seven-yard TD pass from Chris McGorrian to Jeff Schumacher.

The victory was the Bears fifth straight after that season-opening loss to the Green-Schaumburg was outstanding on defense and led all rushers with 70 yards in 14 carries.

VIKINGS 12, STEELERS 7
The Vikings trailed 7-0 at the half, but cut off the Steelers' point ground game in the final two periods and pushed over two six-pointers of their own to score an upset 12-7 triumph.

Test Pedicord scored the Steelers' touchdown with Jim Nellen adding the extra point. The Vikings six-pointers both were scored by Scott Rezba, via long runs.

Don Becker was the Vikings' defensive stand-out with 18 solo tackles and six more assists in a very busy afternoon.

CHARGERS 20, COWBOYS 0
Chargers coach Dick Prather called his team's efforts "well-balanced" as the winners came off a scoreless first period to score single touchdowns in each of the following three stanzas en route to their 20-0 shutout of the winless Cowboys.

Chargers touchdowns came on a 14-yard run by Tom Prather, a four yard dive by Ed Mendik and a 42-yard burst by Casey Kalkeli, while the conversions came on runs by Mendik and Kalkeli.

The winner's offense was keyed by the blocking of Chris Holmes, John Mullin, Jim Graham and Gary Schneider. Defensive standouts were Pat O'Driscoll, Paul Lindsay, Pat Burke, George Angelatos and John Mullin.

GLEN EAGLES 20, RAIDERS 0
The Glenview Eagles took early control of their contest with the visiting HEAA Raiders and dominated the game en route to a convincing 20-0 Chicago Junior Suburban League victory. The Eagles now rest alone atop the division standings while the Raiders slipped to second with this first loss of the campaign.

The hosts ran off 60 plays in the contest for 218 yards while holding the Raiders to 22 plays and 29 net yards from scrimmage.

Glenview touchdowns were scored one each in the second, third and fourth periods, conversions coming after the first two touchdowns. The Eagles never allowed the Raiders close to their goal line.

While running 45 second half plays — as many as most teams run in a full game — the Eagles intercepted two Raiders passes and forced three fumbles, although the losers recovered all three.

The Raiders hope to bounce back next Sunday when they host Hanover Park at Hoffman High School.

Junior gridders stay perfect

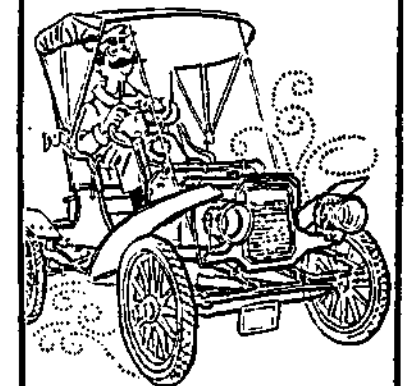

The Hoffman Estates Commandos remain the only unbeaten and untied team in the Western Division of the Northwest Suburban Junior Football League with their 7-0 win over the Glenview Eagles. The first three quarters marked a defensive struggle, but the Commandos drove 77 yards for a score in the fourth stanza. Two key passes from QB Frank Velasquez to Larry Mead and Larry Hernandez set up Roy Goldman's TD run. Jim Connell powered over for the extra point. The Commandos totaled 136 yards and seven first downs compared to only 31 yards and two first downs by the opposition. The Commandos' effort was helped along by three booming punts by Ron Broadus.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed.

The four city members then defeated

the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

Arlington again clashes with Army on Nike land use

The U.S. Army's plans for use of 71 acres at the Arlington Heights Nike Base have met with strong opposition from park district officials, residents and state officials.

The Army informed park district officials early this week that it would not declare 31 additional acres at the Nike site surplus for recreational use. The Arlington Heights Park District already has obtained 32-and 12-acre parcels of the Nike site for park development.

The Army explained it needed to retain 71 acres at the base site to support the training of reserve forces and because of the lack of sufficient land available in Chicago.

The Army justified its use of the 71 acres Thursday following the nearly five months of persistent requests of park district officials and state legislators. The Army will use 1.5 acres for rifle training, 5 for airborne training, 3 for combat, 15 for field hospital training and drilling, 2 for field sanitation, 3 for field fortification, 9 for mine warfare and 7 for transportation training. The remaining 25 acres will be used for military housing, parking and equipment storage.

EDWARD MURNANE, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, said the congressman "is not pleased with the Army's delay in justifying its use for the Nike land," and that he will review the Army's plans for the 71 acres.

Charles Wolff, an aide to U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said Stevenson is drafting a letter of opposition which will be sent to the Army, and it may be signed jointly by Crane and U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

The letter would relay the three politicians' displeasure with the rejection of the "Arlington Heights Park District's request for 31 acres," and may even include an opposition to the Army's specific use of the site.

Army plans for the 71 acres "are completely unacceptable as far as I'm concerned. The way it sounds, one guy probably was given 71 acres to work with, and sat down and figured out how the Army could use them all," said Kay Muller, park board vice president.

THOMAS THORNTON, park district director, expects the park board "will reject, without question, the explanation the Army has offered."

The Arlington Heights Park District board will hold a special meeting at 8 a.m. Saturday at Olympic Park to discuss the Army response this week. Thornton said all the park board can do is pass a resolution in opposition to the Army decision.

Martin Cawley, co-chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Utilization of the Arlington Heights Nike Base, said he is "outraged over the Army's move" and the committee plans to wage a village-wide opposition next spring.

"We can't do too much until the weather gets nice again and more acceptable for picketing. We've laid off with our opposition for the past six months so the

Retiree's new 'job' helps others

by MARILYN McDONALD

His job is making other people's jobs easier.

Richard Bachhuber, 59, has spent a year working part-time at the Clearbrook Vocational Rehabilitation Center and Sheltered Workshop in Elk Grove Village. A retired engineer who worked for Sylvania for more than 20 years, Bachhuber puts his skill to work in designing tools and gadgets to make jobs easier for the Clearbrook trainees, many of whom are retarded or have multiple handicaps.

At the rehabilitation center trainees are taught janitorial and factory assembly work. Trainees work on projects jobbed out by local companies and earn a salary roughly equivalent to industrial wages. Some are eventually skilled enough to acquire jobs of their own.

Bachhuber began as a volunteer in September, 1973. He learned of the production engineer position through Clearbrook's director of public relations at the time, Sally Keeler. Mrs. Keeler had worked previously for High School Dist. 214, where Bachhuber is a school board member. This spring, when Bachhuber wanted to find part-time paid employment, Clearbrook arranged to pay him for his three days of volunteer service.

BACHHUBER, clad in work clothes, looks right at home in the workshop corner of the large rehabilitation building at 680 Lively Blvd. He often pauses in his work to talk to trainees, show them how to use a new gadget he's developed or work with a vocational counselor who needs help with a trainee.

"In production engineering you're talking about setting things up to help the trainees so they can earn a living," he

Twinbrook club may back stand on woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lackadaisical attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to either reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

Mary Clark

DIRECTORS OF the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June International convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a ho-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUNWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shunway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Palatine Kiwanis Pres. Thomas Lyons said his club "will not take a stand on the issue." He noted that club members have an opportunity to change bylaws at their national convention, "therefore, I don't think that they should be challenged."

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Boxleitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support which he described as "appreciated." Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the international became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

BLUEBERRY, ANYONE? A pie fight got things going Thursday evening at a Rolling Meadows High School pep rally for Friday's homecoming game with Prospect. The "Spirit Week" homecoming activities, which started Monday, will be capped with a "Saturday to Heaven" dance from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday night.

Army wouldn't feel pressured. Now we think we've been stabbed in the back since they didn't give us any land. We are through being a nice neighbor to the Army," he said.

THE SIX-MAN committee was formed with representatives of the village, park district and Surrey Ridge West Civic Assn. It rallied with bumper stickers and picketing demonstrations on the Nike Base in June to gain public support for the opening of the base land for recreational uses.

Cawley plans to campaign with stickers and picketing again in the spring. The committee also will approach the village caucus and ask local candidates to take an opposing stand to the Army's rejection of the park district request for more land.

Center seeks sponsors

The Palatine Township Senior Citizens Center is looking for sponsors who will finance bowling events for senior citizens in the area.

Louise Robertson, director of the center, said many of the senior citizens have expressed interest in regular bowling events, "but cannot afford the expense even with special bowling rates."

The Brunswick Northwest Bowling Lanes, 519 Consumers Ave. in Palatine, has offered a special bowling fee of $1.90 a person for three games and bowling shoe rental for senior citizens in the area.

Mrs. Robertson said that anyone interested in sponsoring bowling events for senior citizens should call the center at 991-1112.

Des Plaines officials found out firsthand Thursday that trying to save time in a bottle can be an elusive pursuit.

The revelation came after officials unearthed a 1960 time capsule buried underneath the flagpole in front of the old fire station next to the city hall, at Miner and Graceland streets.

The capsule contained memorabilia from the city's 125th anniversary celebration, 14 years ago, which officials, including Mayor Herbert Behrle, planned to read and display at the unearthing ceremonies.

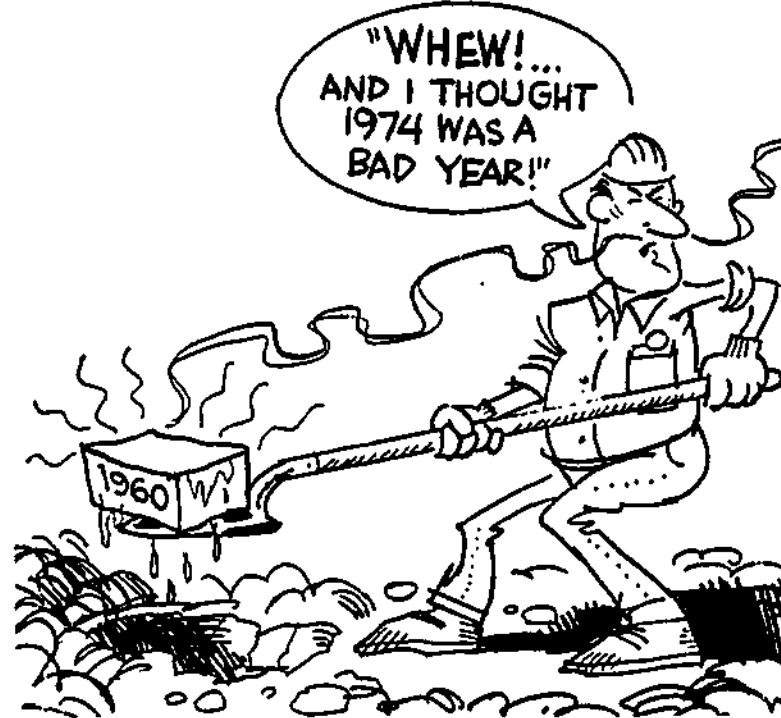

WHEN THE capsule was retrieved, however, officials discovered that nature had gotten to the contents first and the net result was an unappealing aromatic mess of wet papers.

The capsule apparently had not been sufficiently weather-proofed and the contents of the capsule became damaged by water. Behrle said public works director Joseph J. Schwab tried to dry out the contents but the material was too badly damaged to salvage.

The material included pictures of the city's 125th anniversary celebration, a letter from the mayor and tapes of city council meetings. Schwab said the only undamaged articles were some balloons, a city flag and badges that had been distributed to participants at the anniversary activities.

The capsule was unearthed in conjunction with the removal of the flagpole. The pole will be relocated in front of the old municipal building while the old fire station will be torn down because it lies on the site of the new city hall complex.

Time capsule succumbs—to time

Behrle said the capsule was buried when the flagpole was erected in 1960. "We didn't realize that even though we sealed it up so well that eventually water would seep into it," the mayor said. Behrle said no other time capsules are buried in the city.

4 take eight-hour program

City employees graduate from safe-driving course

The first four participants in a defensive driving course Rolling Meadows is providing for employees who drive city-owned vehicles "graduated" this week.

The eight-hour program is taught by Andrew Herbert, police department traffic supervisor, and Captain Ralph Evans, who were trained as instructors in Des Plaines under a National Safety Council project. Today's graduates represent the fire, police, public works and zoning departments.

Four men per week will participate in the program until all city employees who drive Rolling Meadows vehicles have completed it, said Police Chief Lewis R. Case. Classes are held four hours each Tuesday and Thursday morning.

Once all city employees have been through the program, it will be offered to the public, probably during evening hours, said Case.

"The ultimate end could be an over-all safer city," he said.

All police officers have undergone driver training in their standard police training program, said Case. The defensive driving class is being required of them as a refresher, which it would also be for city residents who drive, he said.

The class does not involve any road driving. It uses about $500 worth of visual aids in defensive driving principles, he said.

said. Many have the use of only one hand, so Bachhuber has designed and made an array of ingenious tools to help them do two-handed jobs.

One gadget was designed to help one-handed patients assemble dowels in elasticbound bunches of four. Bachhuber designed a wooden form that holds four dowels neatly in place. With one hand, the worker binds them with a metal clamp, and then slips rubber bands over each end.

Bachhuber has designed a machine to enable one-handed trainees to remove self-sticking labels from large paper rolls. Another machine helps a one-handed worker screw bolts into nuts by turning a crank that looks suspiciously like an old egg beater handle. A simple wooden trough holds slippery plastic bags in place so that one can be removed at a time.

BACHHUBER SAYS that he spends many hours in his home workshop designing tools he thinks the trainees could use. Clearbrook staff members say his creative aid has been invaluable in helping trainees learn a trade successfully.

And his mind is always busy thinking of new aids. As a Herald photographer finished taking his picture, Bachhuber wondered what could be done to put empty film canisters to use at Clearbrook's rehabilitation center.

Haunted house opens to visitors

Ghosts, goblins, and creatures of the night will officially take up residence in an old two-story Arlington Heights home Oct. 24 through Nov. 2, courtesy of North Area Campus Life.

Campus Life, a nonprofit interdenominational religious organization, serves high school students in the north suburban Chicago area. The haunted house is one of its yearly fund-raising projects.

Last year's Campus Life haunted

house attracted 18,000 visitors. The house will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. with extended hours on Friday and Saturday to 11:30 p.m. Children's matinees, recommended for those below high school age, will be held Oct. 26 and Nov. 2. The cost is $2 per person.

Shuttle bus service to the haunted house will be provided from the Treasury parking lot, 1400 Golf Rd., Rolling Meadows.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed.

The four city members then defeated

the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

Village may require officials to state income

A special village board task force is expected to approve an income disclosure ordinance for Palatine village officials at a meeting Tuesday.

The task force will recommend that three groups be covered under the proposed ordinance. The first group would be all elected officials, plan commissioners, members of the zoning board of appeals, village manager, department heads, administrative assistant and deputy clerk.

Professional people serving as consultants to the village would be covered in the second group. This includes the village planner, engineer, attorney and treasurer.

All vendors, who through the bidding process sell items to the village, also will be required to file income disclosure forms.

Five types of information will be sought. These include real estate property owned by the covered person or his immediate family in Palatine Township; percentage of ownership in any commercial development or offices held; indebtedness, excluding home mortgage, exceeding an as yet undetermined percentage of the person's income; gifts or gratuities given or received in excess of an as yet undetermined amount; and debts a person has been released from or released someone else from.

The disclosure forms will be public and will be on file with the village clerk.

Failure to file an income disclosure form, if the proposed ordinance is adopted, would be a misdemeanor carrying a $500 fine or removal from office.

$2,800 raised in Crusade drive

The Palatine Crusade of Mercy collected $2,800 toward its $21,000 goal during the first week of the fund-raising campaign.

"We are off to an extremely good start. We are way ahead of last year," said Arthur (Dobby) Dobkin, campaign chairman. Most of the early returns have been from residents, said Dobkin. Active soliciting of businesses will start next week.

The $21,000 goal represents a $6,000 increase over last year's $15,000 goal.

Money raised in the local drive is used to help these organizations. For every local $1 the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy contributes $2.

Township GOPs plan candidates' night

A candidates' night is being planned by the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the American Legion Hall, 122 W. Palatine Rd.

A question-and-answer session will follow a short presentation by participating candidates. Candidates for county posts and state representative seats have been invited.

The public is invited to attend.

"THE MIRACLE WORKER," a drama, tells the story of Helen Keller, a blind, deaf and mute child and her struggle to learn. The play will be presented Friday and Saturday by Palatine High School students. Student Sue Guenther, left, plays Helen while Jean Lisner plays her teacher, Anne Sullivan. The play begins both nights at 8 p.m. in the school's Cutting Hall Theatre. Tickets will be sold at the door, $1.25 for students and $1.75 for adults.

Twinbrook club may back stand on woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lackadaisical attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to either reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

Mary Clark

DIRECTORS OF the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June International convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a ho-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUMWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shumway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Palatine Kiwanis Pres. Thomas Lyons said his club "will not take a stand on the issue." He noted that club members have an opportunity to change bylaws at their national convention, "therefore, I don't think that they should be challenged."

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Boxleitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support which he described as "appreciated." Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the international became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

'Retiree's' new job helps others help themselves

by MARILYN McDONALD
His job is making other people's jobs easier.

Richard Bachhuber

Sylvania for more than 20 years, Bachhuber puts his skill to work in designing tools and gadgets to make jobs easier for the Clearbrook trainees, many of whom are retarded or have multiple handicaps.

At the rehabilitation center trainees are taught janitorial and factory assembly work. Trainees work on projects jobbed out by local companies and earn a salary roughly equivalent to industrial wages. Some are eventually skilled enough to acquire jobs of their own.

Bachhuber began as a volunteer in September, 1973. He learned of the production engineer position through Clearbrook's director of public relations at the time, Sally Keeler. Mrs. Keeler had worked previously for High School Dist. 214, where Bachhuber is a school board member. This spring, when Bachhuber wanted to find part-time paid employment, Clearbrook arranged to pay him for his three days of volunteer service.

Bachhuber, clad in work clothes, looks right at home in the workshop corner of the large rehabilitation building at 680 Lively Blvd. He often pauses in his work to talk to trainees, show them how to use a new gadget he's developed or work with a vocational counselor who helps with a trainee.

"In production engineering you're talking about setting things up to help the trainees so they can earn a living," he said. Many have the use of only one hand, so Bachhuber has designed and made an array of ingenious tools to help them do two-handed jobs.

One gadget was designed to help one-handed patients assemble dowels in elastic-bound bunches of four. Bachhuber designed a wooden form that holds four dowels neatly in place. With one hand, the worker binds them with a metal clamp, and then slips rubber bands over each end.

Bachhuber has designed a machine to enable one-handed trainees to remove self-sticking labels from large paper rolls. Another machine helps a one-handed worker screw bolts into nuts by turning a crank that looks suspiciously like an old egg beater handle. A simple wooden trough holds slippery plastic bags in place so that one can be removed at a time.

BACHHUBER SAYS that he spends many hours in his home workshop designing tools he thinks the trainees could use. Clearbrook staff members say his creative aid has been invaluable in helping trainees learn a trade successfully.

And his mind is always busy thinking of new aids. As a Herald photographer finished taking his picture, Bachhuber wondered what could be done to put empty film canisters to use at Clearbrook's rehabilitation center.

Library hires five for 'Project Plus'

The Palatine Public Library has hired five staff members to assist with the "Project Plus" program that was launched two weeks ago.

The five women will be paid with funds from the $92,260 federal grant awarded to the library to help it promote the expansion of its district boundaries.

Pat Atkins of Evanston will receive a yearly salary of $11,530 as director of the "Project Plus" program. The program will offer library extension services to residents in unincorporated areas of Palatine Township free of charge for one year.

Karen Berry of Northbrook will receive an annual salary of $10,080 as the children's librarian, and will plan children's book extension programs for unincorporated areas.

Nancy Greenberg, 901 N. Glenn Dr., Palatine, will receive $7,300 as a library assistant in the new extension programs that are scheduled to begin in the next few weeks. A bookmobile service also will be offered to the new library users.

A clerical worker and a reference librarian also have been hired with federal funds to assist with increase use of facilities at the Palatine Library, 149 N. Brockway. The library has issued 450 new library cards to unincorporated area residents since last week, said Andrea V. Balcken, administrative librarian.

The five women were chosen for their past library experience and their educational references, Miss Balcken said.

The Palatine Jaycees recruited 14 new members at a recent orientation night.

New members include: James R. DeVos, G. Ted Becker, Ronald P. C. Waller, John F. Lord, William J. Kaman, John L. Myers, Kent A. Nelson, Tony J. Tempelman, Albert L. Gage, William D. Mills, David F. Kuesell, Daniel Ryan, Richard B. Chandler and James R. Wichterman.

The Palatine Jaycees are active in several projects including the Halloween spook house, Christmas tree sale and Fourth of July activities.

house attracted 18,000 visitors. The house will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. with extended hours on Friday and Saturday to 11:30 p.m. Children's matinees, recommended for those below high school age, will be held Oct. 26 and Nov. 2. The cost is $2 per person.

Shuttle bus service to the haunted house will be provided from the Treasury parking lot, 1400 Golf Rd., Rolling Meadows.

Test sites for planned park sports complex

Solt borings are being taken this week on two Palatine lake sites being considered for Salt Creek Park District's proposed pool and tennis complex.

H. H. Holmes Testing Laboratories, Inc. of Wheeling was awarded the job of taking the borings on Lake Roskiter and Lake Irene, both located north of the Ill. Rte. 53-Northwest Highway interchange. The borings, which will cost no more than $350, were authorized by park commissioners after Metropolitan Sanitary District officials misplaced previously taken borings.

James DeVos, park district superintendent, said the borings would be ready by the end of the week, but results would not be discussed until the board's regular meeting Nov. 12. A decision on a project architect should be made at a special meeting Nov. 5, DeVos said.

The park board is still hoping to present a referendum on a fully planned pool and tennis complex in December, DeVos said.

The Palatine Township Senior Citizens Center is looking for sponsors who will finance bowling events for senior citizens in the area.

Louise Robertson, director of the center, said many of the senior citizens have expressed interest in regular bowling events, "but cannot afford the expense even with special bowling rates."

The Brunswick Northwest Bowling Lanes, 519 Consumers Ave. in Palatine, has offered a special bowling fee of $1.90 a person for three games and bowling shoe rental for senior citizens in the area.

Mrs. Robertson said that anyone interested in sponsoring bowling events for senior citizens should call the center at 991-1112.

Civil Defense department seeks volunteer workers

Palatine's newly-organized Civil Defense department is looking for volunteers to help provide additional manpower during emergency situations.

Edwin Tazelaar, Civil Defense director, hopes to recruit 25 to 30 volunteers immediately and within the year expand the number of trained Civil Defense volunteers to 100.

Volunteers must be 21 years old and may be either male or female. No experience is necessary.

Civil Defense volunteers will be trained in first aid, traffic control, crowd control, radiological monitoring and other areas that might be needed in emergency situations. Training sessions for Civil Defense volunteers are scheduled for the second Thursday of each month at 8 p.m. at the Slade Street Fire Station, 117 W. Slade St.

THE CIVIL DEFENSE five-member executive board also hopes to start training village employees in emergency work.

"The Civil Defense has a $7,000-a-year budget but with the volunteer manpower we can provide a $100,000 program," Tazelaar said.

In addition to emergency manpower, Tazelaar hopes to set up a program for the licensing of fallout shelters; an emergency operating center for administrative and elective officials during emergency situations; a mobile emergency operating center to coordinate activities; severe weather watch station; and a snowmobile force to provide emergency service during heavy snows.

A master file of manpower and resources available in emergencies also is being compiled. This might include where pumps can be obtained during heavy floods, where protective suits can be obtained if there is a chemical leak and the names of experts that can be called on for advice, Tazelaar said.

Other members of the Civil Defense executive committee are Ken Dopp, Brad Strokin, Fred Kellam and Fred Kellam III. Persons interested in more information on becoming a Civil Defense volunteer should call 358-7500 ext. 250.

Plans to develop a 10-story depot, office space and commuter parking lot over the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks in downtown Mount Prospect have been abandoned because of the escalating cost of the project.

Herbert Jacobson of Draper and Kramer, Inc., Chicago, said the cost of constructing a building over the tracks would force rents too high to make the project feasible. "The costs involved would make the rentability almost impossible," he said.

"That does not kill the idea of having something in the downtown area," Jacobson said, noting that his firm may build an office building elsewhere. He said that while there is no specific site currently under consideration, he plans to meet with village consulting firms in the next few weeks to discuss locations and plans for the project.

Preliminary reports from Property Consultants Inc., Northfield, one of two consulting firms hired to study downtown development, show that Mount Prospect can handle limited office development. An estimated 10,000 square feet of office space was suggested for the downtown area, although more could be accommodated if a major firm built a larger building and occupied most of the space. JACOBSON SAID the office project is in preliminary stages, with studies being conducted on the rentability, location and cost of the proposed building. He said the project also is contingent upon Mount Prospect's plans for redevelopment of the downtown area being developed by the consulting firms.

Both consulting firms — Property Consultants and Barton-Aschman Associates, Chicago — were contacted by Jacobson when the depot-office project was under consideration. Jacobson said the firms recently told him they had progressed enough to begin discussions on his proposed project.

First reports coming Saturday

The first reports from two consulting firms hired to study the downtown area will be presented to the Mount Prospect Village Board at its quarterly breakfast meeting Saturday at the Old Orchard Country Club.

Although both firms have reported to the ad hoc committee on downtown development, board members have not had access to the reports.

The reports are expected to include a proposal from Barton-Aschman Associates Inc., Chicago, that the new public library be constructed at the northeast corner of Emerson Street and Busse Avenue rather than at the Central School site. The board has already agreed to purchase the 2.6-acre school property at Main Street and Central Road for the $3.2 million library.

MARKET STUDY conclusions prepared by Property Consultants Inc., Northfield, are expected to include a finding that Mount Prospect has growth potential for apartment development and limited office space, but is overbuilt with retail use.

Board members have delayed several decisions until after the breakfast, saying they needed further information on the downtown plans before voting.

Among the matters delayed until after the breakfast is setting the size of the bond issue needed to finance construction of the library.

During the breakfast, the trustees are expected to review architectural drawings of the library, discuss the location of the building and the amount of money needed to finance construction and other village projects. A special meeting has been called for Tuesday to set the size of the bond issue.

The board also has delayed creation of a permanent downtown development commission until after the breakfast. Trustee E. F. Richardson said his judiciary committee will begin drafting an ordinance creating the commission after reviewing the work of the consulting firms.

OTHER ASPECTS OF the downtown revitalization program also will be discussed, including the village's purchase of the old Mount Prospect State Bank for use as administrative office space. Members of the ad hoc downtown development committee and the planning commission are expected to attend.

The breakfast will begin at 9 a.m., with the business portion of the meeting scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Plans for the depot, office and parking project were first disclosed in April, when the Herald learned that Draper and Kramer had contacted top village officials about the feasibility of building a structure over the train tracks.

Jacobson said his firm has gradually been moving away from the depot-office project as construction costs escalated. He said the final decision was based on consultation with construction industry officials.

DRIED FLOWERS and an artistic touch added by Joe Kellen combine in a flower-arranging demonstration sponsored by the Mount Prospect Park District.

2 teens rob woman of cash, jewelry

Two teenagers took $187 in cash and $500 worth of jewelry from an Elk Grove Township woman during a strong-arm robbery Thursday in the Randhurst Shopping Center parking lot in Mount Prospect.

Police said one of the youths grabbed the victim, Lois Kazan, 38, of 600 Pickwick Ct., as she left her car in the south section of the parking lot. He first asked for a match and then demanded her purse, police said.

When the woman hesitated, police said she was hit above the eye. The second youth, who apparently was acting as a lookout on the other side of the woman's vehicle, told his companion to take her jewelry.

Police said the first youth forced Mrs. Kazan's arm behind her back and removed her wedding rings and watch. Included in the purse, which they also took, was a camera.

The youth who assaulted the woman was described as white, about 17 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, 145 pounds, with blond hair. Police said he was wearing a field jacket and blue jeans. The second youth was described as white, about 17 years old, 6 feet tall, 150 pounds with brown hair. He was wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans, police said.

The incident occurred at about 4:45 p.m.

Board OKs new library plans

The Mount Prospect Public Library Board Thursday approved the general concept proposed for the village's new library, although several details were questioned.

The board voted in favor of a one-story library building with below-ground-level parking proposed by the architectural firm of Wendt, Cedarholm, Tippens Inc., of Northfield.

Also approved was the location of a storage and mechanical area on the roof of the building, which is to be built on the Central School property, Central Road and Main Street. Board member Robert Nordli said his reservations of the roof plan were eliminated by the architects' perspective drawing of the building. Nordli had feared it would look like a "shed."

Questions were raised as to whether the exterior of the building should have more glass than the 20 per cent proposed, whether the meeting room and two conference rooms provide too much space given for assembly areas and whether some of the library staff areas could be arranged differently.

Miss Hanson, a senior, reigned over homecoming activities this weekend at the school.

Panel OKs water service to Prospect Hts. complex

The public works committee of the Mount Prospect Village Board Thursday night endorsed a Prospect Heights Park District request for water service for its new community center-sports complex.

The complex, to be built at the Lions Pool site on Camp McDonald Road at Elm Street, will be just north of the village. Park Supt. Ronald Greenberg said the site currently is serviced by a 25-foot well.

Greenberg said his board is seeking a new water source because of the high iron content of the well water. "Basically as we are using this well it is destroying our pipes and it destroys our equipment," he said, noting that the water cannot be used for drinking fountains.

Committee members estimated that the park district would need about 500,000 gallons of water a year for the swimming pool, shower facilities, bathrooms and drinking fountains. At a double water rate of $1.50 per 1,000 gallons, this would bring about $750 to the village.

GREENBERG ALSO said Mount Prospect residents in the park district, including those in the Colony Country development at the Old Orchard Country Club, would benefit from the water when using the new park facilities.

The village provides water to several customers outside its limits. Outside the village, the water rate doubles from 75 cents to $1.50 for 1,000 gallons.

The committee unanimously agreed to recommend that the board approve water service for the park district, noting that it would not strain the village water supply. They also said that in the event Prospect Heights incorporation efforts fail, the park district might consider annexation to Mount Prospect.

Greenberg said a decision on whether to accept the water service would be made by the park board after reviewing the cost. The closest main is now about 200 feet south of Camp McDonald Road in the Colony Country development.

Blueprints for the community center-sports complex, however, already call for a connection with the Mount Prospect water mains.

'Law Enforcement Week' proclaimed here

Next week has been proclaimed Law Enforcement Week and National Business Women's Week by Mount Prospect Mayor Robert D. Teichert.

In proclaiming Law Enforcement Week in conjunction with similar efforts throughout the Chicago area, Teichert urged residents to support all law enforcement agencies and to resist all forms of vice, crime and lawlessness.

National Business Women's Week is sponsored by the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club, Inc., which has a local chapter in Mount Prospect. All area working women are invited to attend the chapter's dinner meeting Nov. 14 at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel. Information is available by calling 439-7472.

The month of October also has been proclaimed by Teichert as Immunization Action Month in Mount Prospect. In making this proclamation, Teichert noted many children are not being immunized against measles, polio, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whopping cough, although these diseases are preventable. He said this could lead to possible epidemics if children are not immunized.

The week of Oct. 27 to Nov. 2 will be celebrated in Mount Prospect at American Education Week. Teichert urged residents to visit their local schools.

Driver in accident pays $15 fine

Robert W. Wolff, 52, of 864 E. Baldwin Rd., Palatine, was found guilty and fined $15 for failing to reduce speed to avoid an accident in a Sept. 8 traffic accident at Central and Busse roads in Mount Prospect.

Wolff appeared Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

Also in court Wednesday was Raymond

G. Walton, 59, of 11 Lynnbrook Dr., Prospect Heights, who was found innocent of going through a red light and having two driver's licenses in a Mount Prospect incident during the summer.

In a third case, Karl L. Stutz, 17, of 500 Dogwood Ln., Mount Prospect, was found guilty and fined $15 for violating the Mount Prospect village curfew ordinance in early September.

RTA board defeats nomination of Pikarsky

by STEVE FORSYTH

Suburban members of the Regional Transportation Authority board forced a showdown Thursday and defeated the nomination of CTA chairman Milton Pikarsky as head of the RTA — perhaps only temporarily.

The two board members representing the outer five counties in the RTA forced a vote by introducing Pikarsky's name themselves. The nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed. The four city members then defeated the suburban nomination of George A. Warde, former president of American Airlines. Pikarsky and Warde were the final two candidates for chairman after months of interviewing and screening, the board members said. Their names can be brought up for nomination again, however, so neither has been completely ruled out.

THE DIVISIVE vote for chairman followed a report that the board has the legal power to make emergency grants to bus companies or other carriers who are in danger of going out of business.

The legal opinion clears the way for the board to attempt to save troubled suburban bus companies such as United Motor Coach in Des Plaines. A three-member subcommittee was established to set up a procedure for evaluating bus company reports and financial background. The board previously had delayed any serious action, preferring to wait until a full-time chairman was hired.

Although Pikarsky and Warde have not been eliminated from further consideration, D. Daniel Baldino of Evanston said the vote forces the four city members to consider a compromise.

"If they won't compromise, then we won't get this show on the road," Baldino said. He added that with Pikarsky out of the picture the political implications of the job could be cleared up, possibly

It should be a 'soupy' fall

Let's hope the grocers in town are well stocked on Campbell's soups and bean products! Still another school is collecting the labels.

Lions Park School hopes to gather 17,000 before Christmas in exchange for audio visual equipment for the school's learning resource center. Those who would like to contribute may mail labels to the school at 300 E. Council Trail, send them with any Lions Park youngster, or have them picked up by calling 253-2415.

Lion's Park School, also, will have its third annual cheese ball sale soon. The PTA board is making the balls as a way and means project to assist the cultural art program and to provide items for classrooms and the learning resource center.

Woman, 53, charged with hitting cop

Mount Prospect police charged a 53-year-old River Grove woman with disorderly conduct Wednesday, after she allegedly slapped and kicked Patrolman Michael Salatin.

Arrested was Amelia W. Kosierowski, who also resisted arrest, refused to show any identification and refused to stop when asked, police said.

She was arrested at 4:36 p.m. in the parking lot of the Mount Prospect Plaza, Central and Rand roads, after police responded to a suspicious person complaint.

Mrs. Kosierowski was released on $25 bond and is to appear Nov. 13 in the Mount Prospect branch of Circuit Court.

ANNEN & BUSSE, INC. is celebrating its 25th anniversary all through the year with a variety of activities. The actual date of the Realtors' anniversary, however, was last week.

Ed Busse and Bill Annen opened their first office in a house that had been located about where Dunkin' Donuts now stands at 20 W. Northwest Hwy.

Their first salesperson employee was hired two years later — a woman, Mae Kraybill. She recently retired to Arizona.

Now, Annen & Busse has 50 full-time sales associates. It has, in addition to its Mount Prospect office, places of business in Arlington Heights, Palatine, Schaumburg and Buffalo Grove. The Buffalo Grove facility was opened just two weeks ago as part of the silver anniversary festivities.

Annen & Busse helped charter the MAP (Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Palatine) multiple listing service. Both Ed Busse and Bill Annen have held key offices in the organization. Ed was, in fact, its first president in 1957.

Big congratulations to Annen & Busse, Inc.!

THE MOUNT PROSPECT Bicentennial Commission met last Saturday and wow! What super plans it's making for the village as it celebrates the 200th birthday of the country.

The 'commission' is a small group of local citizens, each working at a particular phase of the activity, like parade, special events, publicity, decorations, etc.

Monday at 8 p.m. in Village Hall, representatives from all Mount Prospect organizations should attend a special planning input meeting with the commission. Every church, club, school group should have someone in attendance.

Many current Mount Prospect citizens remember the whopper of a celebration the village had in 1967 when marking its 50th year. The Bicentennial plans are even bigger! Watch for announcements, and do get involved!

MIXING A WITCH'S BREW at this time of year may not be so unusual since Halloween is only three weeks away. Overseeing the cooking are, from left, Jim Olson, Janet Kuick, Patty Rocksted, Kim Olson and Karla Greone. The Mount Prospect youths have created various Halloween scenes on the 200 block of S. School Street.

River Trails schools to fill vacancy Nov. 5

The River Trails Dist. 26 Board of Education is expected to appoint an assistant superintendent at its Nov. 5 meeting.

Board Pres. Michael Sheyker said Wednesday the new administrator will assume the duties of assistant superintendent and business manager. The board is considering several applicants for the job.

The vacancy in the administration resulted from the transfer of James Retzlaff from assistant superintendent to principal of River Road School. The post of business manager opens Oct. 25 when the resignation of Jean Melster takes effect.

The board decided to combine the two positions at a budget hearing last month. Supt. John Fridlund is in charge of selecting a replacement for the position.

Caucus floor fight appears a sure thing

by KURT BAER

A floor fight over proposed amendments to the platform and bylaws of the Arlington Heights Caucus appears certain when the caucus convenes for its first public meeting Sunday.

Alfred A. Barbaro Jr., caucus chairman, will begin the meeting at 1:30 p.m. at Miner Junior High School, 1101 E. Miner St. The meeting is open to all registered voters in the village.

The two main pieces of business before the caucus will be to vote on amendments to the party's bylaws and platform, and to choose the candidate recommendation committee that will interview and eventually recommend candidates for five seats on the Arlington Heights Village Board.

Several bylaw changes already have been drafted by the caucus purpose committee and other proposals are expected to be made by citizens at the meeting.

THE PURPOSE committee has proposed adding the following to the caucus platform plank which supports the village manager form of government, "... with the village administration accountable to the board (of trustees) and the board accountable to its constituency for the performance of the village administration."

The proposal apparently is in response to recent criticism of Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson and his role in the negotiation and disbursement of cash contributions from builders.

Kay Muller, Arlington Heights park district vice president, charged in May that Hanson deliberately misrepresented the distribution of public land and cash contributions from builders between the village and the park district. The park district, Mrs. Muller claims, has been shortchanged in the area of public land donations.

Hanson said property purchases using land dedication funds always were at the direction of the village board, and all property purchased has been for the public good.

The purpose committee also will propose a platform amendment aimed at broadening citizen participation in the caucus. The amendment states it is the purpose of the caucus "to encourage all residents to become interested and informed in village government and active in the political process through caucus participation and other appropriate civic activities."

IN 1972, ONLY 140 residents turned out for the first caucus meeting. At the second meeting, where a slate of candidates was voted upon, only 500 were in attendance.

In an apparent bow to women's liberation, the purpose committee also is proposing that every reference to "man" in the caucus platform be changed to "individual."

Likely to be the most controversial of the proposed bylaw changes is an amendment that would double the number of days between the time that persons selected by the candidate recommendation committee are announced, and a slate of candidates is elected at the second caucus meeting.

The candidate recommendation committee is charged with selecting two or more prospective candidates for each office from among the persons it interviews.

Under the present bylaws, the names are announced five days before the second meeting. During this time the recommended persons are, for the first time, open to questions from the press.

The proposed amendment would extend this period to 10 days.

A SIMILAR AMENDMENT was defeated in 1972, when for the first time, recommended persons were open to press questioning.

The caucus bylaws committee also will propose that recommended persons be allowed to write their own biographies that can include statements on issues. In Whitman's case, the nomination was defeated 4 to 4, with an even suburb-city split. RTA legislation requires six votes for selection of a chairman. The city members of the board unsuccessfully attempted to prevent the nomination to keep Pikarsky's name from being torpedoed.

The four city members then defeated

Folker, right, gets a look at nature during a visit to the Crabtree Nature Center near Palatine.

Program lets kids get back to nature

by BOB GALLAS

"Hey I know this hill . . . I fell down here last year," one boy said to his comrades in the woods. Nearby, another boy looking for fossils in a creek bed, yelled with delight over his not-so-old find — an "Old Milwaukee" beer can.

Twice a year, the classroom becomes as big as all outdoors for fourth and fifth graders in Arlington Heights Dist. 25, who take part in the district's outdoor education program.

The kids get close to nature, their teachers and an occasional wild animal — and have a good time doing it.

THE PROGRAM, headed by science consultant Frank Dzikonksi, usually combines a visit to a nature center with a romp in the 2,000 acres of the Deer Grove Forest Preserve in Palatine Township. The students can take part in a variety of projects ranging from digging rocks to sifting through pond mud to looking for plant and animal life.

"The only basic format of the trips is to allow the kids to see the seasonal changes in nature," said Dzikonksi. "So we try and schedule a visit in the fall and one in spring."

For many, it's the first chance they've had to get close to nature, said Dzikonksi.

Dzikonksi provides a basic summary of geology concepts and ideas for projects and the teachers take over from there. Many have developed extensive programs of their own in the eight years the program has been operating.

SACK LUNCHES in hand, dressed in sneakers, boots, tee shirts or coats, the youngsters break the desolate autumn silence of Deer Grove during the week days as they pile off their yellow school buses.

"You can always tell the school groups," observed one onlooker. "Who else lines up in the middle of the woods?"

The groups break up into smaller units of about 20, under a teacher and a parent volunteer, and troop into the woods for a variety of projects.

Some students head for the bed of Salt Creek to identify rocks, armed with hammers and goggles to break open the rocks to look for fossils.

Others don hip boots which in most cases can reach their necks, and look for pond, plant and animal life with the aid of nets and a seine. "Can we keep a fish if we catch one," asked one girl, even though all fish in the pond were 500 yards away following the arrival of the group.

STILL OTHERS take a nature walk looking for plant life, animals and occasionally a relic of an ancient picnicker such as a soda bottle bearing the name, "Liberty Blue Rock Beverage Co."

The trips don't end at the forest preserve either, said Dzikonksi.

"They go back to the classroom and start collections from things they find, give reports and more closely examine the things they found," he said.

"It also gives the kids a chance to really get to know their teacher and see him or her in a more informal setting outside the classroom," Dzikonksi said.

The benefits are more real, however, to the students who go along on the trips, even though the boys spend a lot of time looking for bugs and beer cans and the girls spend a lot of time avoiding the boys with the bugs.

"At least I'm not afraid of snails anymore," said one little girl proudly. "This is a snail, isn't it?"

Man arrested in attempted rape case here

A 20-year-old Arlington Heights man was arrested for attempted rape early Thursday morning after he reportedly attacked a girl on West Campbell Street.

Arrested was Mark A. Whitman, of 301 N. Harvard Ave. He was charged with the attempted rape of an 18-year-old girl shortly before midnight Wednesday.

Police said Whitman approached the girl, whose name was not released, as she walked on the 600 block of West Campbell, near her house. She told police Whitman, whom she knew slightly, stopped her saying that he wanted to talk.

When the woman started to leave, Whitman reportedly grabbed her and threw her to the ground. The girl told police he threatened to kill her if she resisted.

A man walking a dog came by and frightened off the attacker, the girl told police.

Whitman was reportedly identified by his victim after viewing police photographs.

Arlington Heights police arrested Whitman as he returned to his house early Thursday morning.

Whitman is being held on $10,000 bond pending an Oct. 23 appearance in the Arlington Heights branch of the Circuit Court.

Township electors vote to buy 2 lots as town hall site

by JOE SWICKARD

Wheeling Township electors voted Thursday night at a special meeting to purchase two lots on North Arlington Heights Road as the site of a new town hall.

The purchase of the 40,000-square-foot property at 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd., for $92,400 was approved by a vote of 25 to 1. The electors are township voters attending the public meeting.

The purchase, is contingent, however, upon a rezoning of the land by the village of Arlington Heights from residential to office use. The land also will be tested to determine whether it would support the planned two-story building before the sale is closed.

Money for the project would come from the sale of the present town hall, operating funds and from federal revenue-sharing money. Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor, said township officials could not yet estimate the cost of the project.

MRS. KOLERUS said a new headquarters is needed because the present town hall, 1818 E. Northwest Hwy., is overcrowded and has been expanded as much as it can be. The present one-story town hall has about 6,000 square feet while the proposed building would have about 23,000 square feet.

More room is needed, Mrs. Kolerus said, because of the rapidly growing township population and the expanded role the township government is playing in social services.

Since 1962, she said, the population has leaped from 58,900 to 133,700 while the monthly general assistance roles have grown from three cases to 69 cases.

The new building would provide meeting space for social agencies, such as mental health, aged and youth committees and the Salvation Army counseling service. Mrs. Kolerus said the existing building cannot adequately house all the programs and so office space must be rented elsewhere.

She said the reduced overhead would result in more money going directly into the agencies rather than to pay rent. "You know how it is with rent. You have nothing to show for it," she said.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS village officials gave the location of the town hall a cool reception earlier this week when it was presented to plan and subdivision committee of the plan commission. Members of the committee did not dispute the need for a new town hall but said locating it at the proposed site would be "contrary" to the village board-adopted Arlington Heights Road Study which calls for the area to remain residential. Officials also said the road is already too heavily traveled and a new "traffic generator" would create new hazards.

Dwight Walton, of Brian Properties and acting without fee for the township in the acquisition of the site, said the location is near the population center of the township and the road provides easy identification and access to the facility.

He told the village committee: "It would be nice if it (the headquarters) could be put off in an industrial park someplace, but that is contrary to the purpose of government."

State school chief speculation grows

Chicago-suburb route may end

Group asks subsidy to keep bus company from folding

Bus service between the Northwest suburbs and downtown Chicago is in jeopardy of being discontinued.

The North Suburban Mass Transit District (NORTAN) has petitioned communities served by United Motor Coach Co. to contribute money to help offset the bus company's operating deficits.

"Without such funding we will have no choice but to eliminate those routes serving your area," said Joseph DiJohn, executive director of NORTAN in a Sept. 27 letter to area officials.

UNITED MOTOR Coach makes two bus trips daily along Northwest Highway from Barrington to Des Plaines, with stops in Palatine, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Des Plaines. From Des Plaines, riders can transfer to a number of other routes, including one to downtown Chicago.

Two municipalities already have turned down the plea for financial assistance. The Elk Grove Village Board said No to a $13,279 request, and this week Mount Prospect rejected a request for $1,997.

Requests are still pending before Palatine, Arlington Heights, Des Plaines and Wheeling. NORTAN has asked for the following amounts: Palatine $1,274, Arlington Heights $1,484, Des Plaines $52,000, and Wheeling $1,530.

The subsidy requests were determined by the number of miles that the bus company services in each community.

MOUNT PROSPECT's refusal to grant funds could end the twice daily bus service along Northwest Highway from Barrington to Des Plaines, including service in Palatine and Arlington Heights.

NORTAN's application for funds from the Regional Transportation Authority has been held up because of RTA's inability to choose a chairman. "We're caught in the middle of that whole political squabble," DiJohn said, referring to the controversy over the nomination of Milton Pikarsky to head the RTA.

Palatine officials plan to ask NORTAN to make a formal presentation to the village board before acting on the subsidy request. The trustees are concerned about the number of Palatine residents using the bus service, number of bus runs, fares, the time and place the bus service is available, in addition to the company's financial condition.

Questions were raised about the necessity of a bus line paralleling the Chicago and North Western Ry. line by both Palatine officials and Arlington Heights Assistant Village Mgr. Darryl Kenning.

WHEELING officials are considering NORTAN's request and are expected to act on it by Nov. 1.

Hazel Steinke, 100 Deborah Ln., Wheeling, this week told the village board that a group of senior citizens are disturbed over the possibility of the bus service being ended.

"If the bus service is discontinued they (senior citizens) won't be able to get anywhere without a cab and cabs are costly," she said. "We would like to see the buses remain and be increased if possible."

Mrs. Steinke suggested the village board negotiate with NORTAN for more buses and better service before making a decision on the subsidy.

"We need not only a complete, but a dependable bus service," she said. "We hope the village fathers will do something to help the poor people who have to walk."

Rape, assault suspect moved to County Jail

David A. Jones, who was charged with the Tuesday night rape of a Morton Grove woman, was transferred Thursday to County Jail.

Jones, charged with deviate sexual assault, rape, robbery, unlawful restraint and resisting arrest, is being held in lieu of $30,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear Oct. 25 in the Arlington Heights branch of the Circuit Court.

He was arrested after he set up a "date" Wednesday night with his victim from the previous night. A police detective, driving the victim's car and wearing a wig, kept the "date" with Jones and made the arrest.

Local girl in running for Miss Teenage title

Vicki Richter, 14, 905 Allegheny, Arlington Heights, is one of 50 semifinalists competing Sunday for Miss Teenage Aurora at the Waubesa Community College in Aurora.

The contest, sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club of Aurora, will select 12 finalists who will be judged Oct. 27 at 2 p.m. Miss Teenage Aurora will win a cash scholarship award, a $500 wardrobe and an all-expense-paid trip to Little Rock, Ark., to compete for Miss Teenage America.

Village levies tax on shuttle buses

The Village of Arlington Heights has amended its licensing ordinance to cover private buses that operate between large apartment complexes and the village train station.

Under the amended ordinance, it will be illegal for an apartment complex to run a shuttle bus service without a license.

A $60 annual license fee now will be charged to these bus operators. In addition, vehicles used in commuter busing will have to pass a basic mechanical test and bus drivers may be subject to regulation by the village police department.

Different approach no turn-off

Students find it's easy to develop ear for music

by JUDY JOBBITT

A din erupts when the general music classes at Cooper Junior High School meet.

The students at work are too busy to notice the noise they are creating or the many other activities going on around them.

It's the result of a different approach to get students who would usually "turn off" to music excited about what music can offer them.

Teachers Cheryl Gibson and Karen Kolls decided to offer music electives this year, rather than the traditional approach in which students work together.

Instead, they take six different units during the school year. The units include guitar, keyboard, recorder, opera, orchestra instruments, rock and jazz.

"NO LONGER IS the program as teacher-centered," said Mrs. Gibson. "There'll be as many as six activities going on during one period."

"We're guiding rather than just teaching and testing," she said. Instead of lecturing, assigning homework and giving tests, the teachers are resource people for students to come to with problems on their units.

By letting them pick areas they want to study, students also can advance at their own rate. Those students who have a background in guitar, keyboard or recorder, can work with other beginning students and test them, said Mrs. Kolls. These advanced students also can use class time to practice on their instrument.

"This is the last time they are required to take music," said Mrs. Kolls. "We want them to leave with a good taste in their mouths for music."

"WE EXPOSE THEM to the music elements. We're not out to make exceptional musicians but want them to see the relationship between music and instruments," said Mrs. Gibson.

Students are even picking up the music jargon, said Mrs. Kolls.

Several eighth grade students, who had taken one year of the traditional general music course, said they enjoy this year more.

"It's more fun," said Cathie Blennerhassett. "You get to do everything. Last year we didn't have time to do all this."

"All the eighth graders last year got to do was listen to records and all that," said Diane DaPisa. "This year I know I'm learning a lot more."

A group of boys were huddled around the record player working on the opera unit. The unit includes listening to "Car-men," "Jesus Christ Superstar," and "Tommy."

The boys didn't think it odd that they were studying opera. It's just part of the work, they said.

In the past, only scant outline biographies have been prepared for each prospective candidate and distributed to residents at the second open caucus meeting.

Caucus bylaws require a two-thirds affirmative vote of registered voters present at the meeting to ratify amendments. In addition to changes recommended by the caucus purpose and bylaws committees, citizens may propose amendments from the floor.

Sources indicate that 100 homeowners faced with costly sidewalk installation may try to make their opposition to the village's sidewalk policy a part of the caucus platform.

In addition a group of Surrey Ridge West homeowners reportedly is considering adding acquisition of the Arlington Heights Nike Base for a park to the party's statement of goals.

ALL CAUCUS-NOMINATED candidates are required to pledge support to the party platform, or statement of purpose as it is called.

For the past 18 years, caucus candidates have dominated village elections, often running without opposition.

Residents who attend Sunday's meeting will be seated according to geographical precincts. A caucus precinct map will be posted at the Arlington Heights train station from 6:30 to 8:30 a.m. today, and will be available for public inspection all weekend at the Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

A representative from each precinct will be selected to serve on the candidate recommendation committee.

Residents on the east side of the 300 block of Dwyer Avenue apparently will end up with steeply sloped driveways as a result of an engineering problem arising during the reconstruction of their street.

Arlington Heights has been making a new 36-foot-wide street out of Dwyer between Euclid Avenue and Campbell Street since early August. The contractor is Millburn Brothers, Inc. of Mount Prospect, which is being paid $211,979, plus an additional $11,500 to cover the cost of special surfacing material since construction has gone beyond the beginning of frost season.

Dwyer was originally part of a sewer and repaving project that included Waver Street and Heather Lane. However, court delays stemming from residents' objections caused the village board of local improvements to abandon the combined project in May. Dwyer Avenue was then planned as a single project.

The new plans changed the street width from 28 feet wide to 36 feet after public hearings indicated the street was heavily used by mail trucks.

ONE DWYER resident who asked to remain anonymous said that an engineering misjudgment in the new street-pavement plans would cause east-side driveways to rise from the street at a sharp angle.

He said that trees would be lost from the parkway under the new plans, and that the mistake would add to the homeowners' share of the project. Homeowners are sharing the cost of the street-widening and repaving with the village through a special assessment.

Village Engineer Allan Sander said that a mistake was made by the village's consulting engineers, Consoer, Townsend and Associates. The engineers were not planning to tear out recently installed curbs and gutters to rectify the problems, but were going to work with the affected property owners to grade the land more suitably, Sander said. He said the mistake was discovered last weekend.

Cooper Roberts, a firm engineer, said that no mistake was made. The street was planned at a lower grade for drainage purposes, Roberts said. Because the street is 36 feet wide, some of the parkway must be taken, thus steepening the incline of driveways, he said.

TREES MIGHT have to be removed as land is shaped to level out driveways, Roberts said. He said he felt sure the cost of leveling the driveways was covered in the present contract, but if any additional costs were incurred, they would be borne by the village. Sander also affirmed that any additional cost would be covered by the village.

Roberts estimated that 10 homeowners have steep driveway inclines which need correction. He said the basic work should be completed in three weeks. Driveways might take an additional week and a half to be brought into proper grade, he said.

'Twelve Angry People' high school attraction

"Twelve Angry People," will be presented Oct. 24 and 26 by students at Buffalo Grove High School.

The play deals with the tensions and conflicts among members of a jury during deliberations of a murder trial.

The cast includes Mary Beth Lee, Margaret DeGroot, Bill Huyser, Howard Hollander, Tiny McCall and David Lesch. Both performances will begin at 8 p.m. in the school's theater. Tickets are $1.50 and are available at the door.

The play is directed by John Marquette.

Art film slated Oct. 28

The second in a series of monthly art films will be shown at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library Oct. 28 at 8 p.m. The movie, "I, Leonardo da Vinci" will be presented in the library's Dunton Room and is free to the public.

Haunted house opens to visitors

Ghosts, goblins, and creatures of the night will officially take up residence in an old two-story Arlington Heights home Oct. 24 through Nov. 2, courtesy of North Area Campus Life.

Campus Life, a nonprofit inter-denominational religious organization, serves high school students in the north suburban Chicago area. The haunted house is one of its yearly fund-raising projects.

Last year's Campus Life haunted

house attracted 10,000 visitors. The house will be open from 7 to 10 p.m. with extended hours on Friday and Saturday to 11:30 p.m. Children's matinees, recommended for those below high school age, will be held Oct. 26 and Nov. 2. The cost is $2 per person.

Shuttle bus service to the haunted house will be provided from the Treasury parking lot, 1400 Golf Rd., Rolling Meadows.

A GREAT MANY PEOPLE ENTRUST US

with their prescriptions, health needs and other pharmacy products. We consider this trust a privilege and a duty. May we be your personal family pharmacy?

WHO IS LOOKING OVER OUR SHOULDER?

An integral part of your pharmacy service is involved with checking, double-checking and then checking once more to be absolutely positive. Sure, it takes much extra time to do this on every prescription, but when it comes to dispensing a medicine there is no way we can take a chance that something may be wrong.

Other checks and balances are involved in the procedure as well. Storage requirements for certain types of medicines must be reviewed periodically, dating and expiration dates must be watched. And, of course, there are government regulations that must be complied with and these are often checked by inspectors.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces Sunday deadline

Twinbrook club may back stand on woman

The Elk Grove Kiwanis' decision to fight a national rule barring women may be backed by the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook, which serves the Hoffman Estates-Schaumburg area. Other local Kiwanis chapters, however, have taken a lachrymose attitude in the showdown between the Elk Grove club and Kiwanis International.

Elk Grove Kiwanis faces a Sunday deadline to comply with a Kiwanis International order to revoke the membership of its woman member, Elk Grove Village librarian Mary Clark.

Maurice Myerson, lieutenant governor of Kiwanis Division 17, which includes Elk Grove Village, will meet with the group tonight to explain "ramifications and implications" of its defiance. The Elk Grove chapter also plans a meeting Saturday morning.

Neither session is being called "to cither reverse or reiterate" the club's decision, said Richard Harrell, Elk Grove Kiwanis president.

Mary Clark

DIRECTORS OF the Kiwanis Club of Twinbrook are drafting a letter to their membership endorsing the Elk Grove chapter's action.

"As of now, Twinbrook members favor showing no prejudice against any group but leaving membership decisions up to the individual chapters," said Joseph Baroska, president of the club.

If approved by members in a meeting Tuesday, the letter will be sent to Kiwanis International with copies to club officials and Elk Grove members. While Twinbrook members favor a change in constitution they plan to abide by present rules until the June international convention, Baroska added.

Other Northwest suburban Kiwanis chapters took a ho-hum stand toward the Twinbrook attitude Thursday, failing to endorse its "no prejudice" stand.

WILLIAM SHUMWAY, president of Mount Prospect Kiwanis Club, feels there will be an eventual constitutional change permitting women members. But Shumway said he would not favor putting his club's charter in jeopardy "by having a woman member at this juncture." The Mount Prospect club was formed a year ago.

Palatine Kiwanis Pres. Thomas Lyons said his club "will not take a stand on the issue." He noted that club members have an opportunity to change bylaws at their national convention, "therefore, I don't think that they should be challenged."

Donald Bondy, president of the Arlington Heights Kiwanis Club formed four months ago, has not given the issue much thought and said he would "like to leave it at that."

The Des Plaines Kiwanis Club has "not discussed the matter," but Clifford Boxleitner, chapter president, suggested an amendment might come at the next convention.

HARRELL SAID he has so far received only verbal confirmation of the Twinbrook support which he described as "appreciated." Harrell said his club also welcomes comments from chapters "that may disagree with us."

Miss Clark joined the club in February after receiving a formal invitation through bulk mailing. Her application and membership were processed through Kiwanis International and approved without question.

But when the International became aware of its error two weeks ago, the local chapter was ordered to remove Miss Clark by Oct. 20 or face revocation of its charter.

Similar action was taken against the Cheyenne Mountain Kiwanis Club, Colorado Springs, Col., after the chapter openly defied an international order to remove five of its woman members.

BLUEBERRY, ANYONE? A pie fight got things going Thursday evening at a Rolling Meadows High School pep rally for Friday's homecoming game with Prospect. The "Spirit Week" homecoming activities, which started Monday, will be capped with a "Saturday to Heaven" dance from 8 to 11 p.m. Saturday night.

Arlington again clashes with Army on Nike land use

The U.S. Army's plans for use of 71 acres at the Arlington Heights Nike Base have met with strong opposition from park district officials, residents and state officials.

The Army informed park district officials early this week that it would not declare 31 additional acres at the Nike site surplus for recreational use. The Arlington Heights Park District already has obtained 52-and 12-acre parcels of the Nike site for park development.

The Army explained it needed to retain 71 acres at the base site to support the training of reserve forces and because of the lack of sufficient land available in Chicago.

The Army justified its use of the 71 acres Thursday following the nearly five months of persistent requests of park district officials and state legislators. The Army will use 1.5 acres for rifle training, 8 for airborne training, 3 for combat, 15 for field hospital training and drilling, 2 for field sanitation, 3 for field fortification, 9 for mine warfare and 7 for transportation training. The remaining 25 acres will be used for military housing, parking and equipment storage.

EDWARD MURNANE, an aide to U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-Ill., said the congressman "is not pleased with the Army's delay in justifying its use for the Nike land," and that he will review the Army's plans for the 71 acres.

Charles Wolff, an aide to U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said Stevenson is drafting a letter of opposition which will be sent to the Army, and it may be signed jointly by Crane and U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill.

The letter would relay the three politicians' displeasure with the rejection of the "Arlington Heights Park District's request for 31 acres," and may even include an opposition to the Army's specific use of the site.

Army plans for the 71 acres "are completely unacceptable as far as I'm concerned. The way it sounds, one guy probably was given 71 acres to work with, and sat down and figured out how the Army could use them all," said Kay Mulor, park board vice president.

THOMAS THORNTON, park district director, expects the park board "will reject, without question, the explanation the Army has offered."

The Arlington Heights Park District board will hold a special meeting at 8 a.m. Saturday at Olympic Park to discuss the Army response this week. Thornton said all the park board can do is pass a resolution in opposition to the Army decision.

Martin Cawley, co-chairman of the Citizens' Committee for the Utilization of the Arlington Heights Nike Base, said he is "outraged over the Army's move" and the committee plans to wage a village-wide opposition next spring.

"We can't do too much until the weather gets nice again and more acceptable for picketing. We've laid off with our opposition for the past six months so the Army wouldn't feel pressured. Now we think we've been stabbed in the back since they didn't give us any land. We are through being a nice neighbor to the Army," he said.

THE SIX-MAN committee was formed with representatives of the village, park district and Surry Ridge West Civic Assn. It rallied with bumper stickers and picketing demonstrations on the Nike Base in June to gain public support for the opening of the base land for recreational uses.

Cawley plans to campaign with stickers and picketing again in the spring. The committee also will approach the village caucus and ask local candidates to take an opposing stand to the Army's rejection of the park district request for more land.

Preliminary environmental clearance has been given by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) to a proposed 119-unit senior citizens' housing project for Arlington Heights.

This is the first step toward full approval of the plan, which would provide high-rise living facilities for senior citizens on Wing Street between the Jewel Food Store and Ridge Avenue.

According to Victor Walchirk of the Cook County Housing Authority, builder of the project, the project has been cleared by NIPC and must now go to the Chicago area office of the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development for final environmental approval. After these steps, the Cook County Housing Authority can draw up detailed plans and cost estimates for the project, and send it on for federal funding approval.

WALCHIRK SAID that he could not predict how long this process would take.

Walchirk said that his office had received no further complaints from citizens in the area to be used as a site.

Homeowners in the Wing and Miner Streets area, several of whom are elderly, met with Walchirk, Village Manager L. A. Hanson, and others in early September to complain about the project. The homeowners were unhappy with the village-recommended location for the high-rise building, which would use five lots.

George Svetanoff, 204 W. Wing, one of the affected homeowners, said that he and his neighbors are planning further protests. He was not specific about what those protests would involve, but he said that he had contacted his lawyer.

Hersey High School presents 'Bus Stop'

William Inge's play, "Bus Stop," will be presented by students at Hersey High School, Arlington Heights, Oct. 25 and 26 in the school theater.

Diane Buteau will portray Cherie and Scott Rothermel will play Bo Decker. Other characters are: Elma Duckworth, played by Laura Bobowski; Grace Hoyer, played by Jill Thomas; Will Masters, portrayed by Carl Wurtz; Dr. Gerald Lyman, portrayed by Cameron Pfiffner; Carl, played by Bruce Grandquist; and Virgil Blessing, played by George Simon.

The play, which will start at 8 p.m. both nights, is directed by Jerry Lowe. Technical director is Bob Berry.

Principals tour four area schools

Four area schools were visited this week by persons attending the Illinois Principals Assn. fall conference at the Arlington Park Towers Hotel.

Olive School and Rand Junior High School in Arlington Heights Dist. 25 along with Juliette Low School in Elk Grove Township Dist. 69 in Arlington Heights and Palatine's Kirk Center for the Retarded, will be toured by the groups.

Tickets for both nights are available for $1.50 at the school or by calling 259-8500, ext. 71. Members of the district gold card club should call for reservations for either performance.

Parks named finalist for national award

The Arlington Heights Park District has been recognized as one of four finalists for the National Gold Medal Award for excellence in park and recreation management.

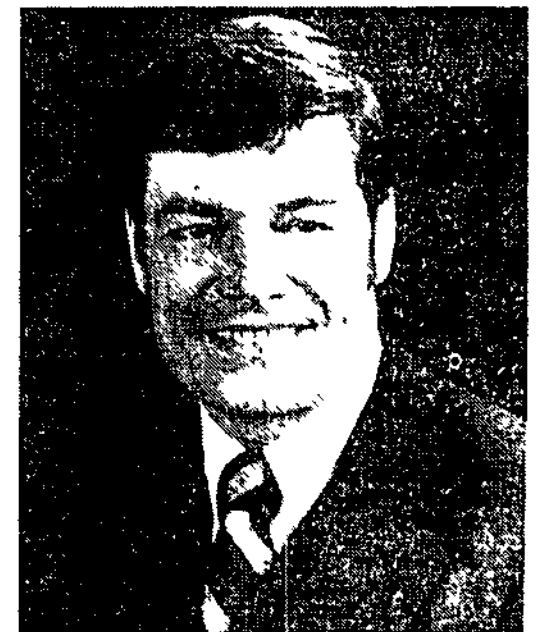

The winner of the award will be announced at the National Parks and Recreation Conference in Denver, Colo., Oct. 22-25. The top winner will receive $1,000, a national Gold Medal Award flag, and the Gold Medal Award.

Arlington Heights is competing in the 50,000-100,000 population bracket along with park districts in Green Bay, Wis.; Southfield, Mich.; and Tempe, Ariz.

This is the second year the Arlington Heights Park District has been nominated as a finalist for the award. The award is sponsored by the Sports Foundation Inc.
